Military Dictatorship For Germany Is Predicted

SAYS KAISER WILL RETURN FROM EXILE

Doorn Correspondent of London Paper Outlines Plans for Dictatorship

HITLER TO BE OUSTED

Cessation of Anti-Jewish Campaign to Come With Move Planned in Fall

LONDON, June 22.—(UP)—Military dictatorship in Germany in September was predicted by a "personage" close to former Kaiser Wilhelm, the Daily Herald correspondent at Doorn, Holland, asserted today.

Wilhelm, the Herald's informant said, learned during the last few weeks that plans for proclamation of the dictatorship, which would oust the Nazi government, were formed and ready for execution.

"The former kaiser will be back in Germany before the beginning of 1935," the informant was quoted as saying. "It may be as a private citizen or it may be in an official capacity, but he will be back.

"There never has been an official contact between the Nazi movement and Doorn castle (where Wilhelm is in exile). On the contrary the relationship has been bad. Wilhelm never has met Chancellor Adolf Hitler and each has refused to see representatives of the other.

Sees Hitler's Fall

"We here do not expect to see Hitler last through the winter.

"Lieut-Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of war, contemplates proclaiming the dictatorship, with martial law at the beginning and immediate cessation of the anti-Jewish campaign.

"Later the new leaders would seek financial assistance from the United States.

"Plans of the army staff for the dictatorship are prepared. Hitler will be allowed to flee to Italy. Baron Franz von Papen, vice chancellor, will remain in Germany and from there re-establish friendly relations with the Vatican. Baron Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, will prepare for Germany's return to the league of nations."

The informant added that Papen's criticism of Nazi extremists, which precipitated a cabinet fight in Germany, delighted but did not surprise the former kaiser's household.

Stories Circulated

Stories that the military element in Germany did not pprove of Nazism and was ready to overthrow it have been circulated widely.

Baron Blomberg is an old Reichswehr man of distinction, and a non-Nazi.

Papen, a representative of the Junker and industrialist elements in Germany, is not a Nazi. He has done all the Hitler government's negotiating with the Vatican and it was he who arranged by mediation the accession of the Nazi government in January 1933.

Neurath also is a non-Nazi. He is a former Nationalist and a holdover from the government which preceded Hitler's.

TWO SURRENDER IN L. A. CWA SCANDAL

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Two of the nine CWA officials indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of mal-administration of the recovery act, today had surrendered to federal authorities. Surrender of the seven others was expected during the day.

Charles C. Frye, former director of the Los Angeles county CWA, and James T. Ritchie, former head of the county CWA purchasing department, gave themselves up. The remaining seven included R. C. Branion, present chief of the state emergency relief administration and former CWA director here.

BANKER DIES

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Isaac B. Newton, 72, chairman of the board of the federal reserve board of San Francisco, died at his home here today.

Death followed an illness of more than a month.

Newton had been active in California financial circles for more than 50 years.

Youngest Of Quintuplets Gains Weight

NORTH BAY, Ont., June 22.—(UP)—Marie, youngest of the Dionne quintuplets, tipped the scales at two pounds today for the first time since her birth.

All the babies are making splendid progress, Dr. A. R. DaFoe announced.

The infants' weights today:

Yvonne, 2 lbs., 14 3-4 ounces, gain of 3-4 ounces; Annette, 2 lbs., 10 1-2 ounces, unchanged; Cecile, 2 lbs., 5 1-2 ounces, loss of 1-4 ounce; Emile, 2 lbs., 2 1-4 ounces, loss of 1-4 ounce; and Marie, 2 lbs., 2 1-4 ounces, loss of 1-4 ounce; and Marie, 2 lbs., gain of 3-4 ounce.

CONGRESSMEN FORGET TO CUT OWN EXPENSES

Get Same Travel Allowance And Vote Down All Other Curtailments

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—The 73rd congress changed the economic and political face of the United States pretty completely during its term of office, but forgot one little detail in reforming the world. It forgot to reform itself.

A study of congressional prerogatives, after the haze of battle settled down, revealed today that live congressmen get just about as much as they always did and have just as much fun doing it.

Dead congressmen are different. They still are are restricted to four colleagues at their funeral.

But those four who do attend get the same old travel allowances as when it was possible to list a corkscrew among the expenses of a lugubrious funeral party.

In other words, a congressman traveling still draws 15 cents per mile in each direction when he travels to and from his home or on official business. It doesn't matter whether he bundled the whole family into the flivver and took them with him or rode in a private compartment on a special train.

Few Stay On

Also if he has established residence in Washington and chooses to stay here, rather than return to the old fireside, he still gets his travel allowance. Not many of them do this, because Washington's summer heat is terrific, and almost any other clime is a big relief.

It is true that the reform of limiting funeral delegations came through the 73rd congress unscathed, but not without a struggle. Rep. John J. O'Connor, D., N. Y., sought to increase the number and spoke long and lugubriously over the passing of the old days. But he lost his ponit.

In other respects, however, congress maintained the even tenor of its ways. The wife and kiddies, the cousins, nephews and nieces are still on government payroll. In some instances the number has grown.

ASSISTANT WAR SECRETARY INVITED TO DEFEND AWARDS

Church Gets Promise Of Clean Films

Movie Industry Agrees to Clean House on Threat of Stern Boycott

CINCINNATI, June 22.—(UP)—Facing a stern boycott at the hands of church people unless motion pictures are purged of objectionable scenes and dialogue, the movie industry has agreed to clean it own house.

The promise was given by representatives of the industry to a committee of Catholic prelates, who, despite the assurances, decided to continue with renewed vigor the church's campaign against "evil motion pictures."

The Catholic bishops, meeting here with Archbishop John T. McNicholas, urged their followers in the "legion of decency" to see that movie producers "are constantly made aware of the demand for clean entertainment."

Beside Archbishop McNicholas, members of the Episcopal committee were Bishop John T. Cantwell, Los Angeles; Bishop Hugh Boyle, Pittsburgh; Bishop John F. Noll, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Assure Bishops

Representatives of the movie industry, who had come here to receive the "clean-up" ultimatum from the prelates, were Joseph I. Breen, Hollywood, and Martin Quigley, New York.

Breen and Quigley assured the bishops that the "producers jury" in the industry would be abolished—a move that found favor with the prelates, who felt that this jury had been instrumental in nullifying censorship efforts in the past. Additional authority for self-censorship is to be delegated to the film code administration under proposals outlined by the movie representatives.

While disclaiming any thought of crippling the industry, the Episcopal committee pointed to the need for "bitter opposition to salaciousness or immorality on the screen" and for condemnation of movies which "tend to corrupt public morals and promote a sex-mania in our land."

Council Named

Efforts will be made, it was understood, to extend the legion of decency membership to every town and village in the United States, and a national council of Catholic priests has been appointed to carry on the work of obtaining pledges from laymen to boycott improper movies.

In a formal statement issued after the conference, the bishops revealed that the Hollywood producers' jury, "which has functioned ineffectively," will be replaced by a board of directors of the industry. This board will iron out disputes and will be the court of last resort in any difficulties which may arise between the studios and the code administration.

It was explained that Breen, as one of Will Hays' chief assistants, has been exercising some supervision over movie morals, but that the producers' jury has vitiated his authority by over-ruling him in many instances. Hereafter, when appeals are made from Breen's decisions against the whole or a part of a production, the board of directors will be summoned to meet in New York City.

WOMAN, 100, HEARS FROM PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, June 22.—(UP)—Grandma Mary Logan who lives in a little house amid a cluster of flowers, will celebrate her birthday next Sunday. It will be the most important birthday of her life, not because she will be 100 years old, but because she has a letter of congratulation from President Roosevelt.

Carefully fingering a long white envelope with the letters "the White House, Washington, D. C." in its upper left hand corner, she couldn't understand how the president learned about her birthday. Her neighbors, who will give an old-fashioned Irish party for her Saturday night, smiled but offered no explanation.

MISSISSIPPI DRYS BATTLE PROHIBITION REPEAL WITH PRAYERS IN CHURCH, HOME

JACKSON, Miss., June 22.—(UP)—Mississippi drys are trying to beat prohibition repeal in this state with "prayers."

In scores of Mississippi churches, rural and urban, on Sundays and every Wednesday night, prayers are said which stress the evils of "demon rum" and the iniquity of state sale of hard liquors.

The temperance songs are heard, and silver tinkles in the plates as collections are taken for the "holy" cause.

In private homes and cabins, where the women's missionary circles and temperance societies meet, the same prayers are heard, plans are made to get out a dry vote, and sister tells sister that this unregenerate or that probably will vote wet.

Thus the churches and the women prepare for the showdown in July when Mississippi votes on the May-Roberts liquor control bill, with its county option features and its creation of a state liquor commission to buy liquor and sell it through state stores in the counties.

It is a church fight, a religious fight, a fight for what these thousands believe is a holy cause.

In most of the churches grape juice has been substituted for wine in holy communion of the Lord's Supper, not for economy but admittedly "to avoid any chance of permitting the young people to learn to like wine."

TWENTY KILLED IN RIOTING IN FRENCH TOWNS

Cabinet Ministers Study Measures to Restore Order, Reported

PARIS, June 22.—(UP)—Cabinet ministers, fearing street fights between fascists and communists may reach a bloody climax, are studying emergency measures to restore order, it was learned today.

Twenty have been killed in recent riots in provincial towns. Hundreds have been wounded.

Delegates of 3,000,000 war veterans, of the Neo-Socialist party and the extreme fascist "cross of fire" organization are to convene here July 8.

The cabinet fears that unless it can halt present fights in provincial towns, it may face a situation as grave as that of Feb-

PODERJAY FACING CHARGE OF MURDER

VIENNA, June 22.—(UP)—Police have placed a charge of suspected murder against Ivan Poderjay in connection with the disappearance of Miss Agnes Tufverson, New York and Detroit lawyer, they announced today.

Mlle. Margaret Ferrand, arrested with Poderjay, was charged with suspicion of being an accomplice after the fact.

The suspicion of murder charge against Poderjay is in addition to that of bigamy put against him when New York police asked for his detention. Mlle. Ferrand also is charged with bigamy.

Poderjay and Mlle. Ferrand are now under the jurisdiction of the court of investigation, which in Austria decides whether a charge is justified and returns an indictment if one is indicated.

TOKIO PROBES INTO CONSUL'S ACTIONS

TOKYO, June 22.—(UP)—The Japanese foreign office today confirmed the report that it is investigating the allegedly "radical" activities in Tokyo of M. K. Galkovich, new Soviet consul general in San Francisco.

Galkovich was attached to the Soviet embassy here in 1932. According to the foreign office a suspected Communist accused the diplomat of the "radical" activities.

Details of the assertion were not made public.

TUGWELL WILL MAKE NATIONAL SPEAKING TOUR

Postmaster General Farley And Gen. Hugh Johnson Also Will Tour

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—New Dealers are scattering through the nation to show the voters a few brain trusters in the flesh and to put sectional emphasis on what has been accomplished since March 4, 1933.

Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture despite a bitter senate minority fight against him, will tour the country in his role of brain truster No. 1. Tugwell departs June 24 for Des Moines.

The Iowa Bankers association will get a close-up of a brain truster thinking and talking when the undersecretary speaks at the state convention. Equally important from the standpoint of politics and the New Deal will be Tugwell's appearances in Brookings, S. D. Farmers from adjoining states gather annually there for a picnic. Tugwell will deliver the principal speech to explain to the horny handed men of the grain and cattle country how AAA, planned economy, or what you will, has aided them.

To Visit Northwest

The northwest, Pacific coast states and finally Arizona will see Tugwell in turn. The journey will have some aspects of a personal appearance tour of a famous moving picture star. The farm belt will discover in Tugwell a collegiate type, handsomer than many movie heroes.

But the Columbia professor is not the only pre-election traveller Postmaster-Gen. Farley shortly

GASOLINE TAXES IN CALIFORNIA SOAR

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22.—(UP)—California motorists paid $3,529,779 to the state in gasoline taxes last month, according to a report of John C. Corbett, member of the state board of equalization.

The total revenue was $114,955 under that of April, and $518,732 under collections in March, but showed an increase of $270,304 over gasoline taxes of May, 1933.

Returns each month this year have been greater than those of the corresponding month of 1933.

"These unbroken gains," Corbett said, "are gratifying indications of substantial improvement in business conditions.

"Distributions for the summer months invariably show increased sales and it is reasonable to anticipate that at the current rate of increase, the gross tax for 1934 may approach $40,000,000."

Committee Probes Into Contracts

Colonel in Judge Advocate Office Admits Signing First Contract

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—Assistant Secretary of War Harry A. Woodring and Quartermaster General L. H. Bash will be given opportunity to defend "peculiar war department practices," it was announced today as the house military affairs committee dug further into department contract awards.

The committee invited the two to testify after Col. Joseph I. McMullen of the army judge advocate general's office, admitted he wrote an original contract for sale of surplus army goods on instructions from Woodring.

He also admitted participation in a secret contract conference with Ralph O'Neil, former commander of the American Legion, and Joseph Silverman, purchaser of army goods who once was barred from war department awards.

The colonel flushed with anger as committee chairman William N. Rogers forced answers which McMullen refused to give earlier on grounds they would "incriminate him." He said the contract in question provided surplus goods be sold in export markets but Woodring wanted changes made to reach the domestic market.

He admitted Silverman got the contract, terms of which Silverman allegedly dictated, and that Woodring, O'Neil, Robert Jackson, former treasurer of the Democratic National committee and Robert Fechner, director of the CCC, figured in the preliminaries.

The contract was a major point in grand jury investigation of army surplus sales last winter.

When the committee recessed Woodring and Maj. Gen. Bash were telephoned and invited to appear at 3 p. m.

VANDEGRIFT NOT TO MAKE OFFICE RACE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22.—(UP)—Withdrawal of Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift from the lieutenant governorship race, and qualification of Raymond L. Haight on the Republican, Progressive and Commonwealth tickets featured political developments here today.

Although Vandegrift had not announced his candidacy, he was determined to enter the race several weeks ago. He gave no reason for withdrawing, other than indicating he thought the political situation was entirely too unsettled.

DETAILS OF FLIGHT ANNOUNCED TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—Details of the mass flight of army airplanes to Alaska were announced by the war department today.

The flight, starting early next month, is believed the air corps' answer to recent severe criticism which has been received by the aviation wing.

TRACK RESULTS

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Johnny Lyhan, Stanford, one of the favorites in the shot-put, tossed the 16-pound ball 53.7 3-4 feet on his second try, a new N. C. A. A. record. Entrants were given four trys this afternoon, the 10 best throws to qualify for the semi-finals.

MEMORIAL COLISEUM, LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Results of the qualifying trials of the National Collegiate Athletic association follow:

440-yard run—First heat (three to qualify) won by uvalle, U. C. L. A.; McCarthy, U. S. C., second; Brothers, Rice, third. Time, 48.3.

Last Member Of Klutas Mob Arrested

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—(UP)—Edward Dorow, 32, alleged to be the last member of the "Jack Klutas mob", notorious for kidnaping and banditry in Illinois and Iowa, was arrested here at midnight by Chicago officers and local deputy sheriffs.

Chicago officers said Dorow was wanted in Cook county, Ill., on kidnaping charges. He will be returned to Chicago today.

Officers revealed they had been watching Dorow for a week in the hope he might attempt to establish contact with John Dillinger. They decided to arrest him last night when he made no move to communicate with the Indiana killer.

ROOSEVELT AT HARVARD RACES SEES SON LOSE

President Attends Annual Harvard-Yale Regatta at New London

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—(UP)—Yale first, Harvard second—thus the first setback of the Roosevelt administration. The blow to the new deal came when Yale and Harvard opened their 72nd regatta today.

With President and Mrs. Roosevelt looking on, their son, Franklin Delano Roosevelt jr., stroked at No. 6 in the Harvard freshman shell and although the Crimsons were the favorites, Yale won the boat race, crossing the line three quarters of a length ahead of the Cambridge eight.

Yale's time for the two mile dash was 9:47.6.

The president watched the rowing from the referee's boat while Mrs. Roosevelt, attended by their son, James, rode in the wake of the crews aboard the committee boat.

Yale Wins Again

Half an hour later the Yale and Harvard junior varsity crews rowed over the same course, Yale winning by three lengths in 9:40.2. (Official.)

Because of young Roosevelt's presence in the Harvard boat chief interest attached to the freshman race.

The Yale boat jumped to a quarter-length lead at the start, stretched it to a length at the mile, stood off a powerful Harvard challenge early in the second mile without raising its steady beat of 36 and finished untired.

Waves to Father

Young Roosevelt slumped forward a picture of dejection and fatigue, as the Harvard shell split the finish line. He released his oar and rested his forehead on his arms. Several other men in the Crimson shell appeared spent.

After a few moments, Roosevelt straightened up, waved reassuringly to his father seated on the foredeck of the referee's cruiser, and the freshmen paddled slowly back to their boat house.

The Harvard freshmen were downcast when they slid up to the landing and left the shell. Each man seemed to feel terrific disappointment at having failed to give the president a winning race.

Young Roosevelt "didn't say a thing" and appeared thoroughly blue, according to those who saw him.

BLAME SHIFTED BY CAPTAIN OF SHIP

KOPERVIK, Norway, June 22.—(UP)—The captain and Norwegian pilot of the German liner Dresden, which sank off Karmo island, sought today to shift blame for the disaster while the Dresden's 975 passengers, most of them without any clothes but those they wore, awaited passage home.

Capt. Peter Moeller, master, blamed a British admiralty chart partly for the wreck in which five died. He testified at a preliminary inquiry that the rock which the Dresden struck was uncharted. But he said also that when he altered the ship's route along the coast because of dangerous fog, Norwegian Pilot Jacobsen, said he knew the Rysylkefjord which the ship entered.

STRIKERS IN RETALIATION MOVE TODAY

Seattle and Portland City Authorities Unloading Vessels Behind Guards

ULTIMATUM ISSUED

Government and Private Agencies Seek Formula to End Strike on Pacific

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(UP)—Striking longshoremen of San Francisco today telegraphed to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins the conditions under which they will return to work.

The telegram was in response to a request by Madame Perkins that the federal government start new arbitration of the coastwide maritime strike.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(UP)—Striking Pacific coast maritime workers, held back by police clubs from interferring with strikebreakers, retaliated today by calling all union workers off Alaska-bound ships.

While government and private agencies groped futilely for a formula to end the shipping strike, the union delivered their ultimatum against attempts to move cargoes under arms, a plan attempted by Seattle and Portland civic authorities.

The ultimatum was served in Seattle where armed guards provided by Mayor Charles Smith protected strikebreakers unloading cargo from the motorship Modevia.

Issue Ultimatum

The longshoremen, sailors and other strikers announced that unless the police are withdrawn they would not load or work vessels bound for Alaska. Their decision terminated the only peace pact negotiated since the shipping tieup started 46 days ago. Alaska shippers had agreed to recognize the International Longshoremen's Association and grant other union demands when the territory faced a food shortage.

Mayor Smith accepted the ultimatum as a declaration of war.

"I'll fight this thing to the finish," he said.

Union teamsters aided Portland strikers in their fight against police protection of cargo movements. Not on strike themselves, the teamsters refused to handle oil taken from the tanker Lio, which was unloaded under arms.

Arrests Made

Several arrests were made after a demonstration at Portland. A man was stabbed in San Francisco when strikers and alleged strikebreakers clashed. Two men were injured in a disturbance at Los Angeles.

There was no sign of any break in the ranks of the strikers nor any apparent indications of an immediate peace. Both employers and strikers found objections to the plea of Secretary of Labor Perkins to accept federal arbitration of the longshoremen's dispute. The strikers replied that six marine union are involved and that any settlement must affect all six, not the longshoremen exclusively.

All the unions have similar demands—complete recognition of their organizations and protection of their members against any discrimination because of strike activities.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

EL PASO, Texas, June 22.—(UP)—A woman who said she was Mrs. Sybil Fidanque, 39, missing from San Jose, Calif., was found at an El Paso hotel today. The woman asked to speak to officers. Police said she appeared to be suffering from amnesia.

OXFORD, O., June 22.—(UP)—By a tie vote of 113 to 113 the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church in America defeated today a move for a vote by its constituency for a merger with the Presbyterian church in the United States. A two-thirds majority vote was necessary for passage.

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Louis Rude Payne, 21, confessed hatchet murderer of his mother and 15-year-old brother, was "physically and mentally insane" at the time of the killings, one of three court-appointed alienists reported today to Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron. Each alienist will make a separate report.

Church Gets Promise Of Clean Films

Movie Industry Agrees to Clean House on Threat of Stern Boycott

CINCINATTI, June 22.—(UP)—Facing a stern boycott at the hands of church people unless motion pictures are purged of objectionable scenes and dialogue, the movie industry has agreed to clean it own house.

The promise was given by representatives of the industry to a committee of Catholic prelates, who, despite the assurances, decided to continue with renewed vigor the church's campaign against "evil motion pictures."

The Catholic bishops, meeting here with Archbishop John T. McNicholas, urged their followers in the "legion of decency" to see that movie producers "are constantly made aware of the demand for clean entertainment."

Assure Bishops

Representatives of the movie industry, who had come here to receive the "clean-up" ultimatum from the prelates, were Joseph I. Breen, Hollywood, and Martin Quigley, New York.

Breen and Quigley assured the bishops that the "producers jury" in the industry would be abolished —a move that found favor with the prelates, who felt that this jury had been instrumental in nullifying censorship efforts in the past. Additional authority for self-censorship is to be delegated to the film code administration under proposals outlined by the movie representatives.

While disclaiming any thought of crippling the industry, the Episcopal committee pointed to the need for "bitter opposition to salaciousness or immorality on the screen" and for condemnation of movies which "tend to corrupt public morals and promote a sexmania in our land."

Council Named

Efforts will be made, it was understood, to extend the legion of decency membership to every town and village in the United States, and a national council of Catholic priests has been appointed to carry on the work of obtaining pledges from laymen to boycott improper movies.

In a formal statement issued after the conference, the bishops revealed that the Hollywood producers' jury, "which has functioned ineffectively," will be replaced by a board of directors of the industry. This board will iron out disputes and will be the court of last resort in any difficulties which may arise between the studios and the code administration.

It was explained that Breen, as one of Will Hays' chief assistants, has been exercising some supervision over movie morals, but that the producers' jury has vitiated his authority by over-ruling him in many instances. Hereafter, when appeals are made from Breen's decisions against the whole or a part of a production, the board of directors will be summoned to meet in New York City.

WOMAN, 100, HEARS FROM PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, June 22.—(UP)—Grandma Mary Logan who lives in a little house amid a cluster of flowers, will celebrate her birthday next Sunday. It will be the most important birthday of her life, not because she will be 100 years old, but because she has a letter of congratulation from President Roosevelt.

Carefully fingering a long white envelope with the letters "the White House, Washington, D. C." in its upper left hand corner, she couldn't understand how the president learned about her birthday. Her neighbors, who will give an old-fashioned Irish party for her Saturday night, smiled but offered no explanation.

MISSISSIPPI DRYS BATTLE PROHIBITION REPEAL WITH PRAYERS IN CHURCH, HOME

JACKSON, Miss., June 22.—(UP)—Mississippi drys are trying to beat prohibition repeal in this state with "prayers."

In scores of Mississippi churches, rural and urban, on Sundays and every Wednesday night, prayers are said which stress the evils of "demon rum" and the iniquity of state sale of hard liquors.

The temperance songs are heard, and silver tinkles in the plates as collections are taken for the "holy" cause.

In private homes and cabins, where the women's missionary circles and temperance societies meet, the same prayers are heard, plans are made to get out a dry vote, and sister tells sister that this unregenerate or that probably will vote wet.

Thus the churches and the women prepare for the showdown in July when Mississippi votes on the May-Roberts liquor control bill, with its county option features and its creation of a state liquor commission to buy liquor and sell it through state stores in the counties.

It is a church fight, a religious fight, a fight for what these thousands believe is a holy cause.

In most of the churches grape juice has been substituted for wine in holy communion of the Lord's Supper, not for economy but admittedly "to avoid any chance of permitting the young people to learn to like wine."

TWENTY KILLED IN RIOTING IN FRENCH TOWNS

Cabinet Ministers Study Measures to Restore Order, Reported

PARIS, June 22.—(UP)—Cabinet ministers, fearing street fights between fascists and communists may reach a bloody climax, are studying emergency measures to restore order, it was learned today.

Twenty have been killed in recent riots in provincial towns. Hundreds have been wounded.

Delegates of 3,000,000 war veterans, of the Neo-Socialist party and the extreme fascist "cross of fire" organization are to convene here July 8.

The cabinet fears that unless it can halt present fights in provincial towns, it may face a situation as grave as that of Feb-

PODERJAY FACING CHARGE OF MURDER

VIENNA, June 22.—(UP)—Police have placed a charge of suspected murder against Ivan Poderjay in connection with the disappearance of Miss Agnes Tufverson, New York and Detroit lawyer, they announced today.

Mlle. Margaret Ferrand, arrested with Poderjay, was charged with suspicion of being an accomplice after the fact.

The suspicion of murder charge against Poderjay is in addition to that of bigamy put against him when New York police asked for his detention. Mlle. Ferrand also is charged with bigamy.

Poderjay and Mlle. Ferrand are now under the jurisdiction of the court of investigation, which in Austria decides whether a charge is justified and returns an indictment if one is indicated.

TOKIO PROBES INTO CONSUL'S ACTIONS

TOKYO, June 22.—(UP)—The Japanese foreign office today confirmed the report that it is investigating the allegedly "radical" activities in Tokyo of M. K. Galkovich, new Soviet consul general in San Francisco.

Galkovich was attached to the Soviet embassy here in 1932. According to the foreign office a suspected Communist accused the diplomat of the "radical" activities.

Details of the assertion were not made public.

TUGWELL WILL MAKE NATIONAL SPEAKING TOUR

Postmaster General Farley And Gen. Hugh Johnson Also Will Tour

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—New Dealers are scattering through the nation to show the voters a few brain trusters in the flesh and to put sectional emphasis on what has been accomplished since March 4, 1933.

Dr. Rexford Guy Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture despite a bitter senate minority fight against him, will tour the country in his role of brain truster No. 1. Tugwell departs June 24 for Des Moines.

The Iowa Bankers association will get a close-up of a brain truster thinking and talking when the undersecretary speaks at the state convention. Equally important from the standpoint of politics and the New Deal will be Tugwell's appearances in Brookings, S. D. Farmers from adjoining states gather annually there for a picnic. Tugwell will deliver the principal speech to explain to the horny handed men of the grain and cattle country how AAA, planned economy, or what you will, has aided them.

To Visit Northwest

The northwest, Pacific coast states and finally Arizona will see Tugwell in turn. The journey will have some aspects of a personal appearance tour of a famous moving picture star. The farm belt will discover in Tugwell a collegiate type, handsomer than many movie heroes.

But the Columbia professor is not the only pre-election traveller. Postmaster-Gen. Farley shortly

GASOLINE TAXES IN CALIFORNIA SOAR

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22.—(UP)—California motorists paid $3,529,779 to the state in gasoline taxes last month, according to a report of John C. Corbett, member of the state board of equalization.

The total revenue was $114,055 under that of April, and $518,732 under collections in March, but showed an increase of $270,304 over gasoline taxes of May, 1933.

Returns each month this year have been greater than those of the corresponding month of 1933.

"These unbroken gains," Corbett said, "are gratifying indications of substantial improvement in business conditions.

"Distributions for the summer months invariably show increased sales and it is reasonable to anticipate that at the current rate of increase, the gross tax for 1934 may approach $40,000,000."

Committee Probes Into Contracts

Colonel in Judge Advocate Office Admits Signing First Contract

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—Assistant Secretary of War Harry A. Woodring and Quartermaster General L. H. Bash will be given opportunity to defend "peculiar war department practices," it was announced today as the house military affairs committee dug further into department contract awards.

The committee invited the two to testify after Col. Joseph I. McMullen of the army judge advocate general's office, admitted he wrote an original contract for sale of surplus army goods on instructions from Woodring.

He also admitted participation in a secret contract conference with Ralph O'Neil, former commander of the American Legion, and Joseph Silverman, purchaser of army goods who once was barred from war department awards.

The colonel flushed with anger as committee chairman William N. Rogers forced answers which McMullen refused to give earlier on grounds they would "incriminate him." He said the contract in question provided surplus goods be sold in export markets but Woodring wanted changes made to reach the domestic market.

He admitted Silverman got the contract, terms of which Silverman allegedly dictated, and that Woodring, O'Neil, Robert Jackson, former treasurer of the Democratic National committee and Robert Fechner, director of the CCC, figured in the preliminaries.

The contract was a major point in grand jury investigation of army surplus sales last winter.

When the committee recessed Woodring and Maj. Gen. Bash were telephoned and invited to appear at 3 p. m.

VANDEGRIFT NOT TO MAKE OFFICE RACE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 22.—(UP)—Withdrawal of Finance Director Rolland Vandegrift from the lieutenant governorship race, and qualification of Raymond L. Haight on the Republican, Progressive and Commonwealth tickets featured political developments here today.

Although Vandegrift had not announced his candidacy, he was determined to enter the race several weeks ago. He gave no reason for withdrawing, other than indicating he thought the political situation was entirely too unsettled.

DETAILS OF FLIGHT ANNOUNCED TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(UP)—Details of the mass flight of army airplanes to Alaska were announced by the war department today.

The flight, starting early next month, is believed the air corps' answer to recent severe criticism which has been received by the aviation wing.

TRACK RESULTS

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Johnny Lyhan, Stanford, one of the favorites in the shot-put, tossed the 16-pound ball 53.7 3-4 feet on his second try, a new N. C. A. A. record. Entrants were given four trys this afternoon, the 10 best throws to qualify for the semi-finals.

MEMORIAL COLISEUM, LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Results of the qualifying trials of the National Collegiate Athletic association follow:

440-yard run—First heat (three to qualify) won by uvalle, U. C. L. A.; McCarthy, U. S. C., second; Brothers, Rice, third. Time, 48.3.

Last Member Of Klutas Mob Arrested

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 22.—(UP)—Edward Dorow, 32, alleged to be the last member of the "Jack Klutas mob", notorious for kidnaping and banditry in Illinois and Iowa, was arrested here at midnight by Chicago officers and local deputy sheriffs.

Chicago officers said Dorow was wanted in Cook county, Ill., on kidnaping charges. He will be returned to Chicago today.

Officers revealed they had been watching Dorow for a week in the hope he might attempt to establish contact with John Dillinger. They decided to arrest him last night when he made no move to communicate with the Indiana killer.

ROOSEVELT AT HARVARD RACES SEES SON LOSE

President Attends Annual Harvard-Yale Regatta at New London

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—(UP)—Yale first, Harvard second—thus the first setback of the Roosevelt administration. The blow to the new deal came when Yale and Harvard opened their 72nd regatta today.

With President and Mrs. Roosevelt looking on, their son, Franklin Delano Roosevelt jr., stroked at No. 6 in the Harvard freshman shell and although the Crimsons were the favorites, Yale won the boat race, crossing the line three quarters of a length ahead of the Cambridge eight.

Yale's time for the two mile dash was 9:47.6.

The president watched the rowing from the referee's boat while Mrs. Roosevelt, attended by their son, James, rode in the wake of the crews aboard the committee boat.

Yale Wins Again

Half an hour later the Yale and Harvard junior varsity crews rowed over the same course, Yale winning by three lengths in 9:40.2. (Official.)

Because of young Roosevelt's presence in the Harvard boat chief interest attached to the freshman race.

The Yale boat jumped to a quarter-length lead at the start, stretched it to a length at the mile, stood off a powerful Harvard challenge early in the second mile without raising its steady beat of 36 and finished untired.

Waves to Father

Young Roosevelt slumped forward a picture of dejection and fatigue, as the Harvard shell split the finish line. He released his oar and rested his forehead on his arms. Several other men in the Crimson shell appeared spent.

After a few moments, Roosevelt straightened up, waved reassuringly to his father seated on the foredeck of the referee's cruiser, and the freshmen paddled slowly back to their boat house.

Young Roosevelt "didn't say a thing" and appeared thoroughly blue, according to those who saw him.

BLAME SHIFTED BY CAPTAIN OF SHIP

KOPERVIK, Norway, June 22.—(UP)—The captain and Norwegian pilot of the German liner Dresden, which sank off Karmo island, sought today to shift blame for the disaster while the Dresden's 975 passengers, most of them without any clothes but those they wore, awaited passage home.

Capt. Peter Moeller, master, blamed a British admiralty chart partly for the wreck in which five died. He testified at a preliminary inquiry that the rock which the Dresden struck was uncharted. But he said also that when he altered the ship's route along the coast because of dangerous fog, Norwegian Pilot Jacobsen, said he knew the Rysylkefford which the ship entered.

STRIKERS IN RETALIATION MOVE TODAY

ULTIMATUM ISSUED

Government and Private Agencies Seek Formula to End Strike on Pacific

BULLETIN

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(UP)—Striking longshoremen of San Francisco today telegraphed to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins the conditions under which they will return to work.

The telegram was in response to a request by Madame Perkins that the federal government start new arbitration of the coastwide maritime strike.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—(UP)—Striking Pacific coast maritime workers, held back by police clubs from interferring with strikebreakers, retaliated today by calling all union workers off Alaska-bound ships.

While government and private agencies groped futilely for a formula to end the shipping strike, the union delivered their ultimatum against attempts to move cargoes under arms, a plan attempted by Seattle and Portland civic authorities.

The ultimatum was served in Seattle where armed guards provided by Mayor Charles Smith protected strikebreakers unloading cargo from the motorship Modevia.

Issue Ultimatum

The longshoremen, sailors and other strikers announced that unless the police are withdrawn they would not load or work vessels bound for Alaska. Their decision terminated the only peace pact negotiated since the shipping tieup started 46 days ago. Alaska shippers had agreed to recognize the International Longshoremen's Association and grant other union demands when the territory faced a food shortage.

Mayor Smith accepted the ultimatum as a declaration of war.

"I'll fight this thing to the finish," he said.

Union teamsters aided Portland strikers in their fight against police protection of cargo movements. Not on strike themselves, the teamsters refused to handle oil taken from the tanker Lio, which was unloaded under arms.

Arrests Made

Several arrests were made after a demonstration at Portland. A man was stabbed in San Francisco when strikers and alleged strikebreakers clashed. Two men were injured in a disturbance at Los Angeles.

There was no sign of any break in the ranks of the strikers nor any apparent indications of an immediate peace. Both employers and strikers found objections to the plea of Secretary of Labor Perkins to accept federal arbitration of the longshoremen's dispute. The strikers replied that six marine union are involved and that any settlement must affect all six, not the longshoremen exclusively.

All the unions have similar demands—complete recognition of their organizations and protection of their members against any discrimination because of strike activities.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

EL PASO, Texas, June 22.—(UP)—A woman who said she was Mrs. Sybil Fidanque, 39, missing from San Jose, Calif., was found at an El Paso hotel today. The woman asked to speak to officers. Police said she appeared to be suffering from amnesia.

OXFORD, O., June 22.—(UP)—By a tie vote of 113 to 113 the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church in America defeated today a move for a vote by its constituency for a merger with the Presbyterian church in the United States. A two-thirds majority vote was necessary for passage.

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Louis Rude Payne, 21, confessed hatchet murderer of his mother and 15-year-old brother, was "physically and mentally insane" at the time of the killings, one of three court-appointed alienists reported today to Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron. Each alienist will make a separate report.

the amendment was wiped out in the house.

When Sen. Hugo L. Black, D., Ala., ordered Captain E. Stanley Dollar of the Dollar steamship lines to produce a list of office holders including congressmen, who have enjoyed free transportation on the Dollar lines, Dollar sent the ocean and air mail committee a list. But it was never published in the record of hearings.

Black, however, sought to reform this particular custom by introducing a bill making it illegal for congressmen and public officers to accept free transportation on ocean and airmail lines. The bill died.

Even a shorter life was accorded the proposal that wives of members should no longer be allowed free flowers from the botanical gardens back of the capitol. For years congressmen and their wives have had this privilege.

It worked a hardship on florists of the District of Columbia and someone spoke guardedly of a resolution against the practice. Then someone remembered that the district had no vote, not even florists, and there the matter dropped.

Utopian Society Meets At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 22.—The Utopian organization in Huntington Beach held a meeting at a private home in the 600 block on Geneva street Thursday night. About 40 cars were parked in front of the meeting place.

The Utopian group is a new secret organization and admission to the meetings is by invitation. The organization is said to have for its purpose the support of the Roosevelt policies and the inaugurating of new policies for the benefit of the people. Any person over 21 years of age is eligible for membership without any other requirement than that of American citizenship, it is reported.

This is said to have been the fifth meeting held in Huntington Beach, with several hundred members already enrolled.

GAS, OIL STOLEN

Ten gallons of gasoline and three gallons of oil, valued at $2.50, were stolen Wednesday night from a small garage at the rear of the United Cooperative Exchange, 1202 West Fourth street, it was reported to police yesterday by N. A. Lucas, president.

HOLLYWOOD, June 22.—(To the Editor of The Register): Yale gave President Roosevelt a degree, but they made him make a speech for it. Degrees are getting higher priced. That's the most anybody has given for one in years.

The President kinder held up for his brain trust. He said he would take brains anytime in preference to politics. He just as good as admitted you couldn't get both in the same body.

He paid a very high compliment to Congress, and he should. They had just adjourned the day before.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS

TRAFFIC MEN TESTIFY TODAY IN DEATH CASE

Damaging evidence against Al Brunner, 40, Long Beach fishing boat captain who is being tried in Judge James L. Allen's department of superior court on a murder charge resulting from the deaths of three women in an automobile accident near Dana Point on the Coast Highway, was offered by California Highway Patrolmen Ben Craig and George Peterkin late yesterday afternoon.

Both officers testified that Brunner was under the influence of intoxicating liquor immediately after the fatal crash. Patrolman Lloyd Groover, in the morning session, also testified that the defendant was drunk. An attendant at the Santa Ana Valley hospital testified that Brunner vomited when brought there after the crash, and that he could smell liquor.

Peterkin submitted photographs of the car in which Mrs. Jennie Orenstine and her daughter, Beverly Orenstine, both of Los Angeles, burned to death after the accident.

While Judge Allen admitted the photographs as testimony, he would not accept moving pictures taken by Peterkin until he had an opportunity to see their nature.

Brunner was driving a car which collided with one driven by Max Devitt, Los Angeles, in which the two women who were burned to death were passengers. Mrs. Mildred Beckman Devitt died later of injuries suffered in the accident.

TWENTY KILLED IN RIOTING IN FRENCH TOWNS

ruary 6 when the capital's streets were reddened with blood.

The government's problem is puzzling. So condemnatory was public reaction to the way the authorities handled the February riots that it seemed certain the use of firearms by police and soldiers would not be permitted except in absolute emergency.

The government also must be cautious in any action to preserve the freedom of the press, of association and of public meeting guaranteed under the code Napoleon.

Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut told the United Press that the government was studying possible measures. Other sources said the government was determined to use whatever force necessary, barring the use of firearms except in extremity, next month.

Present fighting is between fascists and the new "united front" of socialists and communists.

A majority of the riots are precipitated at fascist meetings. Various leaders are touring the country making speeches, and each speech is the occasion for a fight when the "united front" men try to break up the meeting.

War veterans themselves are in fighting mood, not against the "united front" but against politicians in general.

JUNIOR LIONS IN DISTRICT MEETING

Four members of the Santa Ana Metropolitan chapter of Federated Junior Lions were in attendance at the district's monthly council meeting in Covina last night. Omar Williams, member of the district board of directors; Eric Twist, tentative chairman of the 1935 convention; John Smith, Santa Ana secretary; and Paul Wright, Santa Ana director, represented the Metropolitan den.

An educational talk on South America by Wilbur L. Tupper, Whittier college professor, featured the banquet program. Fathers of several of the Junior Lion delegates were present.

A report on the recent Senior Lion convention at Santa Cruz, where representatives told their sponsors more about Junior Lionism, was given by a member of the Covina chapter. Ontario was chosen for the next council meeting July 18, to be preceded by a board meeting in James cafe of Santa Ana July 12.

MAN JAILED ON WIFE'S CHARGE THIRD TIME

Dave Lowen, 37, Long Beach, who was paroled on a charge of non-support of minor children last August, was rearrested last night and booked at the county jail on the same offense. He was released several hours later on a $150 bail bond.

Lowen was jailed on a warrant from Fullerton which was secured by his wife, Mrs. Helen Lowen O'Leary, on February 20, 1934, when she is reported to have lived in Fullerton. Mrs. O'Leary is now living in Pomona, according to sheriff's officers, and has her three children living with her.

Lowen was previously arrested on complaint of his wife on December 11, 1931, and was found guilty by a jury and sentenced to two years in jail on January 29, 1932. While Lowen was in jail, his family was supported by county funds, it was reported. He was paroled on August 22, 1933.

Lowen had only recently secured a job in Wilmington, he said when arrested. He expressed surprise that he should be held on such a charge in Orange county, since he, his wife and their children all live in other counties. It was also reported by officers that both Mrs. O'Leary and her husband have positions and are driving a new automobile.

Mrs. O'Leary, shortly after her separation from her husband in 1931, attempted to have him convicted for non-support but he was found not guilty in justice court here on June 23, 1931.

DILLINGER STILL ALIVE SAYS SISTER

GALION, O., June 22.—(UP)—John Dillinger still lives, according to his sister, Mrs. Audrey Hancock, Maywood, Ind., who has written Mrs. Eulalia Callender, a friend here, that "we have heard from John and he is well."

Reports have been recurrent since the Indiana desperado shot his way from a trap set by federal officers at a Wisconsin resort that he might have died of wounds.

"We do not know where John is hiding," Mrs. Hancock wrote. "I wish I did know. We have so much mail for him. Today, Friday, June 22, is his thirty-second birthday."

ARMOUR OFFICIAL COMMITS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, June 22.—(UP)—Frederick James Reynolds, vice president of Armour and company, shot himself to death today in the bathroom of his home in suburban Highland Park.

Rushed to the Highland Park hospital by his wife, Reynolds died within an hour.

Reynolds, who was 58, long had been ill. He contracted a serious throat ailment recently which necessitated the removal of his teeth and seriously impaired his nervous system.

He had been in charge of the purchasing department at Armour and company which he joined in 1896 as a clerk.

Oil Worker Hurt At Costa Mesa

Either struck by a pipe or victim of a severe fall, Cecil Cox, Long Beach oil worker, was critically injured shortly before noon today on an oil well in Costa Mesa and rushed to the St. Joseph's hospital, where he is unconscious.

The economic arguments are little heard, scarcely considered. The contention that legalization of the existing liquor traffic would be a moral improvement is hooted.

The prohibitionists contend in circulars and sermons that state liquor stores would be on a par with state owned and operated houses of ill repute.

The veteran Sen. W. B. Roberts, co-author of the bill and the only outstanding and persistent "wet" speaker, week by week issues statements embodying the economic arguments in favor of state control, but for each of these statements a score of "moral" sermons are preached.

Aside form Sen. Roberts, the "crusaders" are mildly active in behalf of the bill. Otherwise the "wets" seem poorly organized and mute, with a majority of the county weeklies militantly dry.

Practically all state officials and candidates have announced their prohibition allegiance. Theodore G. Bilbo, two-time governor and present senatorial candidate, devotes about one-third of each of his campaign speeches to condemnation of liquor.

Under the May-Roberts bill every voter will vote for or against prohibition, and for or against sale of liquor in his country. The election will be held July 10.

TUGWELL WILL MAKE NATIONAL SPEAKING TOUR

will carry his engaging smile across the country. Nominally scheduled to dedicate new postoffices, the ex-amateur politician and New York state boxing commissioner will be loaded for votes as he starts west.

At about the same time Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson will launch a nationwide speaking tour which NRA attaches ascribe as a "campaign to re-sell the blue eagle to the American public." He will outline all phases of the recovery program, speaking in 15 major cities from New England to San Francisco.

New Deal Drive

As New Deal campaign strategy unfolds it becomes evident that each section will hear this summer and with some emphasis about the re-employment and expenditures which Mr. Roosevelt's policies have made possible.

As a starter, Chester Davis, AAA administrator, appeared in Burlington, Vt., this week. His auditors learned that textile industry payrolls had jumped $160,000,000 under the NRA code, that the area had received an aggregate of $126,000,000 from CAA, FERA and CWA. Davis explained that AAA payments had not been large because New England is not now a great agricultural area. New Dealers learned from the Pennsylvania primary campaign that tremendous AAA payments in the west can be emphasized with some effect by eastern Republican orators.

Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation this week carried the New Deal story to Milwaukee. He estimated various government agencies had sent $66 into Wisconsin for every man, woman and child in the state.

The Republican counter attack develops continually along the line of protest against federal expenditures and the grant of vast power by congress to the president.

"SMOKEY" OPENS AT WALKER'S TODAY

"Smokey," the story of a wild horse, who acknowledges only one man as master and who becomes a killer after separation from that man, is the current attraction at Walkers State theater. It is from the story of the same name by Will James. Victor Jory and Irene Bentley have leading roles.

The program also includes a news reel, another chapter of "The Wolf Dog," a Mickey Mouse comedy, "Mickey's Mechanical Man" and a comedy "The Farmer's Fatal Folly."

The Mickey Mouse club meets at the theater at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

SUMMIT ROAD OILED

MAN HIT BY CAR; CRITICALLY HURT

Fitz Eide, Long Beach truck driver, was critically injured at 11:30 o'clock this morning when he was struck by a car driven by Le Roy Hinkle, 1816 North Main street, at Washington avenue and North Main street.

Eide had parked his truck on the west side of the highway and was crosiang to a drug store when hit by the Hinkle machine, which was crowded by a car suddenly pulling away from the curb, according to witnesses. After striking Eide, the Hinkle car crashed into the truck and both were badly damaged. Hinkle escaped unhurt.

Eide was rushed to the Santa Ana Valley hospital in an unconscious condition and is suffering from a broken arm and possible head injuries.

the amendment was wiped out in the house.

When Sen. Hugo L. Black, D., Ala., ordered Captain R. Stanley Dollar of the Dollar steamship lines to produce a list of office holders including congressmen, who have enjoyed free transportation on the Dollar lines, Dollar sent the ocean and air mail committee a list. But it was never published in the record of hearings.

Black, however, sought to reform this particular custom by introducing a bill making it illegal for congressmen and public officers to accept free transportation on ocean and airmail lines. The bill died.

Even a shorter life was accorded the proposal that wives of members should no longer be allowed free flowers from the botanical gardens back of the capitol. For years congressmen and their wives have had this privilege.

It worked a hardship on florists of the District of Columbia and someone spoke guardedly of a resolution against the practice. Then someone remembered that the district had no vote, not even florists, and there the matter dropped.

Utopian Society Meets At Beach

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 22.—The Utopian organization in Huntington Beach held a meeting at a private home in the 600 block on Geneva street Thursday night. About 40 cars were parked in front of the meeting place.

The Utopian group is a new secret organization and admission to the meetings is by invitation. The organization is said to have for its purpose the support of the Roosevelt policies and the inaugurating of new policies for the benefit of the people. Any person over 21 years of age is eligible for membership without any other requirement than that of American citizenship, it is reported.

This is said to have been the fifth meeting held in Huntington Beach, with several hundred members already enrolled.

GAS, OIL STOLEN

Ten gallons of gasoline and three gallons of oil, valued at $2.50, were stolen Wednesday night from a small garage at the rear of the United Cooperative Exchange, 1202 West Fourth street. It was reported to police yesterday by N. A. Lucas, president.

WILL ROGERS says:

HOLLYWOOD, June 22. —(To the Editor of The Register): Yale gave President Roosevelt a degree, but they made him make a speech for it. Degrees are getting higher priced. That's the most anybody has given for one in years.

The President kinder held up for his brain trust. He said he would take brains anytime in preference to politics. He just as good as admitted you couldn't get both in the same body.

He paid a very high compliment to Congress, and he should. They had just adjourned the day before.

Yours,

TRAFFIC MEN TESTIFY TODAY IN DEATH CASE

Damaging evidence against Al Brunner, 40, Long Beach fishing boat captain who is being tried in Judge James L. Allen's department of superior court on a murder charge resulting from the deaths of three women in an automobile accident near Dana Point on the Coast Highway, was offered by California Highway Patrolmen Ben Craig and George Peterkin late yesterday afternoon.

Both officers testified that Brunner was under the influence of intoxicating liquor immediately after the fatal crash. Patrolman Lloyd Groover, in the morning session, also testified that the defendant was drunk. An attendant at the Santa Ana Valley hospital testified that Brunner vomited when brought there after the crash, and that he could smell liquor.

Peterkin submitted photographs of the car in which Mrs. Jennie Orenstine and her daughter, Beverly Orenstine, both of Los Angeles, burned to death after the accident.

While Judge Allen admitted the photographs as testimony, he would not accept moving pictures taken by Peterkin until he had an opportunity to see their nature.

Brunner was driving a car which collided with one driven by Max Devitt, Los Angeles, in which the two women who were burned to death were passengers. Mrs. Mildred Beckman Devitt died later of injuries suffered in the accident.

TWENTY KILLED IN RIOTING IN FRENCH TOWNS

ruary 6 when the capital's streets were reddened with blood.

The government's problem is puzzling. So condemnatory was public reaction to the way the authorities handled the February riots that it seemed certain the use of firearms by police and soldiers would not be permitted except in absolute emergency.

The government also must be cautious in any action to preserve the freedom of the press, of association and of public meeting guaranteed under the code Napoleon.

Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut told the United Press that the government was studying possible measures. Other sources said the government was determined to use whatever force necessary, barring the use of firearms except in extremity, next month.

Present fighting is between fascists and the new "united front" of socialists and communists.

A majority of the riots are precipitated at fascist meetings. Various leaders are touring the country making speeches, and each speech is the occasion for a fight when the "united front" men try to break up the meeting.

War veterans themselves are in fighting mood, not against the "united front" but against politicians in general.

JUNIOR LIONS IN DISTRICT MEETING

Four members of the Santa Ana Metropolitan chapter of Federated Junior Lions were in attendance at the district's monthly council meeting in Covina last night. Omar Williams, member of the district board of directors; Eric Twist, tentative chairman of the 1935 convention; John Smith, Santa Ana secretary; and Paul Wright, Santa Ana director, represented the Metropolitan den.

An educational talk on South America by Wilbur L. Tupper, Whittier college professor, featured the banquet program. Fathers of several of the Junior Lion delegates were present.

A report on the recent Senior Lion convention at Santa Cruz, where representatives told their sponsors more about Junior Lionism, was given by a member of the Covina chapter. Ontario was chosen for the next council meeting July 18, to be preceded by a board meeting in James cafe of Santa Ana July 12.

MAN JAILED ON WIFE'S CHARGE THIRD TIME

Dave Lowen, 37, Long Beach, who was paroled on a charge of non-support of minor children last August, was rearrested last night and booked at the county jail on the same offense. He was released several hours later on a $150 bail bond.

Lowen was jailed on a warrant from Fullerton which was secured by his wife, Mrs. Helen Lowen O'Leary, on February 20, 1934, when she is reported to have lived in Fullerton. Mrs. O'Leary is now living in Pomona, according to sheriff's officers, and has her three children living with her.

Lowen was previously arrested on complaint of his wife on December 11, 1931, and was found guilty by a jury and sentenced to two years in jail on January 29, 1932. While Lowen was in jail, his family was supported by county funds, it was reported. He was paroled on August 22, 1933.

Lowen had only recently secured a job in Wilmington, he said when arrested. He expressed surprise that he should be held on such a charge in Orange county, since he, his wife and their children all live in other counties. It was also reported by officers that both Mrs. O'Leary and her husband have positions and are driving a new automobile.

Mrs. O'Leary, shortly after her separation from her husband in 1931, attempted to have him convicted for non-support but he was found not guilty in justice court here on June 23, 1931.

DILLINGER STILL ALIVE SAYS SISTER

GALION, O., June 22.—(UP)—John Dillinger still lives, according to his sister, Mrs. Audrey Hancock, Maywood, Ind., who has written Mrs. Eulalia Callender, a friend here, that "we have heard from John and he is well."

Reports have been recurrent since the Indiana desperado shot his way from a trap set by federal officers at a Wisconsin resort that he might have died of wounds.

"We do not know where John is hiding," Mrs. Hancock wrote. "I wish I did know. We have so much mail for him. Today, Friday, June 22, is his thirty-second birthday."

ARMOUR OFFICIAL COMMITS SUICIDE

CHICAGO, June 22.—(UP)—Frederick James Reynolds, vice president of Armour and company, shot himself to death today in the bathroom of his home in suburban Highland Park.

Rushed to the Highland Park hospital by his wife, Reynolds died within an hour.

Reynolds, who was 58, long had been ill. He contracted a serious throat ailment recently which necessitated the removal of his teeth and seriously impaired his nervous system.

He had been in charge of the purchasing department at Armour and company which he joined in 1896 as a clerk.

Oil Worker Hurt At Costa Mesa

Either struck by a pipe or victim of a severe fall, Cecil Cox, Long Beach oil worker, was critically injured shortly before noon today on an oil well in Costa Mesa and rushed to the St. Joseph's hospital, where he is unconscious.

The economic arguments are little heard, scarcely considered. The contention that legalization of the existing liquor traffic would be a moral improvement is hooted.

The prohibitionists contend in circulars and sermons that state liquor stores would be on a par with state owned and operated houses of ill repute.

The veteran Sen. W. B. Roberts, co-author of the bill and the only outstanding and persistent "wet" speaker, week by week issues statements embodying the economic arguments in favor of state control, but for each of these statements a score of "moral" sermons are preached.

Aside form Sen. Roberts, the "crusaders" are mildly active in behalf of the bill. Otherwise the "wets" seem poorly organized and mute, with a majority of the county weeklies militantly dry.

Practically all state officials and candidates have announced their prohibition allegiance. Theodore G. Bilbo, two-time governor and present senatorial candidate, devotes about one-third of each of his campaign speeches to condemnation of liquor.

Under the May-Roberts bill every voter will vote for or against prohibition, and for or against sale of liquor in his country. The election will be held July 10.

TUGWELL WILL MAKE NATIONAL SPEAKING TOUR

will carry his engaging smile across the country. Nominally scheduled to dedicate new postoffices, the ex-amateur politician and New York state boxing commissioner will be loaded for votes as he starts west.

At about the same time Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson will launch a nationwide speaking tour which NRA attaches ascribe as a "campaign to re-sell the blue eagle to the American public." He will outline all phases of the recovery program, speaking in 15 major cities from New England to San Francisco.

New Deal Drive

As New Deal campaign strategy unfolds it becomes evident that each section will hear this summer and with some emphasis about the re-employment and expenditures which Mr. Roosevelt's policies have made possible.

As a starter, Chester Davis, AAA administrator, appeared in Burlington, Vt., this week. His auditors learned that textile industry payrolls had jumped $160,000,000 under the NRA code, that the area had received an aggregate of $126,000,000 from CAA, FERA and CWA. Davis explained that AAA payments had not been large because New England is not now a great agricultural area. New Dealers learned from the Pennsylvania primary campaign that tremendous AAA payments in the west can be emphasized with some effect by eastern Republican orators.

Chairman Leo T. Crowley of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation this week carried the New Deal story to Milwaukee. He estimated various government agencies had sent $66 into Wisconsin for every man, woman and child in the state.

The Republican counter attack develops continually along the line of protest against federal expenditures and the grant of vast power by congress to the president.

"SMOKEY" OPENS AT WALKER'S TODAY

"Smokey," the story of a wild horse, who acknowledges only one man as master and who becomes a killer after separation from that man, is the current attraction at Walkers State theater. It is from the story of the same name by Will James. Victor Jory and Irene Bentley have leading roles.

The program also includes a news reel, another chapter of "The Wolf Dog," a Mickey Mouse comedy, "Mickey's Mechanical Man" and a comedy "The Farmer's Fatal Folly."

The Mickey Mouse club meets at the theater at 1 p. m. tomorrow.

SUMMIT ROAD OILED

MAN HIT BY CAR; CRITICALLY HURT

Fitz Eide, Long Beach truck driver, was critically injured at 11:30 o'clock this morning when he was struck by a car driven by Le Roy Hinkle, 1816 North Main street, at Washington avenue and North Main street.

Eide had parked his truck on the west side of the highway and was crosiang to a drug store when hit by the Hinkle machine, which was crowded by a car suddenly pulling away from the curb, according to witnesses. After striking Eide, the Hinkle car crashed into the truck and both were badly damaged. Hinkle escaped unhurt.

Eide was rushed to the Santa Ana Valley hospital in an unconscious condition and is suffering from a broken arm and possible head injuries.

A WORD OF COMFORT

You must either push forward or slip backward. You cannot stand still.

You yourself must determine whether the great experience which has come into your life, shall crowd you down among those who are gradually degenerating, or whether it will spur you to make a supreme effort to find and know the God with whom your dearest one now abides.

Make your venture of faith in Him and in what He will do in and for you. Shoulder your burden and march on.

YEOMAN—At her home in Orange, June 21, Miss Flora Yeoman, aged 73. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m., Saturday, from the Coffey Funeral home in Orange. Interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

Commander Voices Gratification At Legion Response

Commander Charles D. Swanner of Santa Ana American Legion Post No. 131 today expressed considerable satisfaction over the emergency mobilization staged by local Legoinnaires Wednesday night as part of the state-wide mobilization.

A check completed today showed that more than 150 members of the local Legion post responded to the emergency summons, while 22 members of the Auxiliary, five doctors and two ambulances rushed to Veterans' hall in answer to the call.

The original call came over a Los Angeles radio station, after which the Legion organization here fired the bomb and flare signal which calls members of the post and others to the Veterans' hall to aid in taking care of emergencies.

While the emergency summons this time was for practice, the call a year ago last March, when the earthquake struck, showed the value of the service rendered by the Legionnaires.

Commander Swanner pointed out that no members of the Legion here knew that the mobilization call would be issued before the call was given.

Gun Club Water Waste Case Up In Beach Court

Trial of the Los Gatos Gun club on a charge of wasting water in violation of a county ordinance was under way before a jury in Judge Chris P. Pann's court at Huntington Beach today. The prosecution rested its case at noon.

During the morning the complaint against Bill Phillips, caretaker at the club, was withdrawn, and he took the stand as a prosecution witness, telling of pumping water on the land.

The case was opened yesterday morning, the entire day being required for the selection of a satisfactory jury. Constable Gail Bergey had summoned a panel of 20 and when this was exhausted, he was forced to call 10 more psospective jurors.

The Westminster Gun club was recently found guilty of the same charge in Judge Pann's court.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Thomas Quinlen, 40, 714 West Fifth street, who came to police and asked to be taken to the county hospital following overindulgence of liquor, was taken to the hospital and arrested for drunkenness yesterday afternoon.

Court Notes

Seeking total damages amounting to $1065, George H. Gober has filed suit in superior court against Paul Pouplier and Kate M. Pouplier. The suit is based on injuries received in an automobile accident which happened August 23, 1933 on Spadra road between Fullerton and Anaheim.

Claiming that wages amounting to $2066.88 have not been paid him, R. R. Earhart has filed suit in superior court against K. P. Norswing, said to be general manager of the Saline Products company, which went into receivership. The plaintiff also is representing other employes of the company whose unpaid wages amount to $6477.69, which have been assigned to the plaintiff, the complaint said.

N. T. Zuver today filed suit in superior court against R. M. Thomas et al to quiet title to oil and gas producing property in the Yorba Linda section. The plaintiff charged in the complaint that he has asked the defendant to give up a lease agreement entered into May 22, 1933, and for all assignments to be cancelled. The complaint asks that the lease and assignments be cancelled and that an accounting be made of all gas and oil taken from the property since June 12, 1934. The plaintiff said he secured the lease from the General Petroleum company.

The county of Orange today sought foreclosure of a lien on property belonging to Tillie K. Contreras, charging that she has not paid a bill of $5.25 which is against her property as the result of pest eradication work done by the agricultural commissioner.

Jose Castro, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday, had his trial without a jury set for June 26 at 2 p. m. and was released from the county jail without bond by Judge J. G. Mitchell.

George E. Hubbard, jr., charged with drunkenness, paid a $5 fine and had a 10 days jail sentence suspended by Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday.

GAMBLING SHIP OPERATORS IN COURT TODAY

With indications that the case would be placed in the hands of the jury early this afternoon, additional testimony was given this morning in the Seal Beach justice court concerning the nine men and three women operators from the pleasure ship Monte Carlo, who are faced with gambling charges.

The ship is anchored off the coast of Seal Beach and was raided on May 3 by Orange county and Los Angeles county officers. The trial started yesterday with the state presenting the main portion of the testimony. The proceedings today were chiefly concerned with the defense.

Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner is representing the state.

Attorneys Jonah Jones jr., of Long Beach and Harold Judson of Los Angeles introduced varied testimony yesterday in an attempt to prove that the Monte Carlo is anchored 4.2 miles off the nearest point of land at Alamitos bay, and thus out of jurisdiction of the Seal Beach court. This stand will be attacked by the state with the presentation of an opinion by Superior Judge H. G. Ames, stating that the pleasure ship lies within the jurisdiction of Orange county.

One of the highlights of the evidence yesterday was a report that Ed Turner, owner of the boat, told Vincent Higgins of the Los Angeles district attorney's office at the time of the raid that he would "beat the rap" in Orange county if arrested.

Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey and Robert Sandon, district attorney's investigator, were put on the stand by Attorney Turner, together with Los Angeles officers, who assisted in the raid.

The equipment on the boat, valued at $50,000, still remains in the Orange county jail, despite recent attempts of the operators to have it relinquished by Sheriff Logan Jackson. They obtained a Seal Beach court order to secure the equipment but were blocked by a superior court restraining order issued here before the beach order could be served.

At the subsequent hearing to determine what should be done with the equipment, Judge Ames ruled that the ship was inside the three-mile limit and within the jurisdiction of the Seal Beach court. Jackson was ordered to keep the equipment and has refused to turn it over to the boat owners.

BUENA PARK GIRL PARALYSIS PATIENT

Striking twice in the same family, infantile paralysis was reported yesterday at the Wamble home in Buena Park, where Rosella Wamble, 12, was removed to the county hospital to join her brother, Wayne, who has been confined for several days.

The new case brought the total of patients reported to 30 for the county. There are 11 now under quarantine, all being from the northern part of the county except three in Costa Mesa.

Complaint Asks $34,265 Damages

The Alpha Beta Food Markets Inc., were named defendants today in a suit filed in superior court by F. Winans, after the case had been changed from Los Angeles to Orange county courts.

In his complaint, Winans charged that the market corporation, with general offices located in Santa Ana, refused to place his 623 shares of capital stock on the company books and issue new certificates in the name of the defendant.

Because the corporation officials refused to do this when he asked them to on August 2, 3 and 4, the plaintiff claims he has been damaged in the sum of $34,265. He asks juldgment for that amount and interest since August 4.

A WORD OF COMFORT

You must either push forward or slip backward. You cannot stand still.

You yourself must determine whether the great experience which has come into your life, shall crowd you down among those who are gradually degenerating, or whether it will spur you to make a supreme effort to find and know the God with whom your dearest one now abides.

Make your venture of faith in Him and in what He will do in and for you. Shoulder your burden and march on.

YEOMAN—At her home in Orange, June 21, Miss Flora Yeoman, aged 73. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m., Saturday, from the Coffey Funeral home in Orange. Interment in Fairhaven cemetery.

Commander Voices Gratification At Legion Response

Commander Charles D. Swanner of Santa Ana American Legion Post No. 131 today expressed considerable satisfaction over the emergency mobilization staged by local Legoinnaires Wednesday night as part of the state-wide mobilization.

A check completed today showed that more than 150 members of the local Legion post responded to the emergency summons, while 22 members of the Auxiliary, five doctors and two ambulances rushed to Veterans' hall in answer to the call.

The original call came over a Los Angeles radio station, after which the Legion organization here fired the bomb and flare signal which calls members of the post and others to the Veterans' hall to aid in taking care of emergencies.

While the emergency summons this time was for practice, the call a year ago last March, when the earthquake struck, showed the value of the service rendered by the Legionnaires.

Commander Swanner pointed out that no members of the Legion here knew that the mobilization call would be issued before the call was given.

Gun Club Water Waste Case Up In Beach Court

Trial of the Los Gatos Gun club on a charge of wasting water in violation of a county ordinance was under way before a jury in Judge Chris P. Pann's court at Huntington Beach today. The prosecution rested its case at noon.

During the morning the complaint against Bill Phillips, caretaker at the club, was withdrawn, and he took the stand as a prosecution witness, telling of pumping water on the land.

The case was opened yesterday morning, the entire day being required for the selection of a satisfactory jury. Constable Gail Bergey had summoned a panel of 20 and when this was exhausted, he was forced to call 10 more prospective jurors.

The Westminster Gun club was recently found guilty of the same charge in Judge Pann's court.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Thomas Quinlen, 40, 714 West Fifth street, who came to police and asked to be taken to the county hospital following overindulgence of liquor, was taken to the hospital and arrested for drunkenness yesterday afternoon.

Court Notes

Seeking total damages amounting to $1065, George H. Gober has filed suit in superior court against Paul Pouplier and Kate M. Pouplier. The suit is based on injuries received in an automobile accident which happened August 23, 1933 on Spadra road between Fullerton and Anaheim.

Claiming that wages amounting to $2066.88 have not been paid him, R. R. Earhart has filed suit in superior court against K. P. Norswing, said to be general manager of the Saline Products company, which went into receivership. The plaintiff also is representing other employes of the company whose unpaid wages amount to $6477.69, which have been assigned to the plaintiff, the complaint said.

N. T. Zuver today filed suit in superior court against R. M. Thomas et al to quiet title to oil and gas producing property in the Yorba Linda section. The plaintiff charged in the complaint that he has asked the defendant to give up a lease agreement entered into May 22, 1933, and for all assignments to be cancelled. The complaint asks that the lease and assignments be cancelled and that an accounting be made of all gas and oil taken from the property since June 12, 1934. The plaintiff said he secured the lease from the General Petroleum company.

The county of Orange today sought foreclosure of a lien on property belonging to Tillie K. Contreras, charging that she has not paid a bill of $5.25 which is against her property as the result of pest eradication work done by the agricultural commissioner.

Jose Castro, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday, had his trial without a jury set for June 26 at 2 p. m. and was released from the county jail without bond by Judge J. G. Mitchell.

George E. Hubbard, jr., charged with drunkenness, paid a $5 fine and had a 10 days jail sentence suspended by Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday.

PLAN PROGRAM FOR MEET OF CITY LEAGUE

Municipal problems of budgeting and tax allocation, SERA program in Orange county, election of new league officials and approval of a new plan of finances will be discussed at the meeting next Thursday of the Orange County League of Municipalities, it was decided last night at a meeting of the executive committee in the Green Cat cafe.

The SERA program will be explained by Mayor Harold Pomeroy of South Gate and Charles Schottland, temporary director for Orange county.

A representative of the California Taxpayers association will be invited to discuss with the city officials the question of making budgets.

Former Mayor Paul Witmer of Santa Ana was present at the meeting and said that he would resign as a representative of the county league on the board of directors for the state league because of his new federal position and resignation from the council in Santa Ana. The executive group them recommended that Mayor Charles Mann of Anaheim be elected in his place at the next meeting of the county league.

It is possible that a general change will be made in the league, since President A. C. Hasenjaeger may also tender his resignation. He resigned from the Santa Ana council a week prior to Witmer because of his appointment to a banking position.

The question of dues of member cities was brought up, and a new clause inserted in proposed action to be taken at the next meeting. This sets a minimum charge of $12 for small cities, with others to be charged on a basis of $5 per 1000 population per year, based on the 1930 census.

Under this rate, the cities will pay as follows: Anaheim, $50; Brea, $12; Fullerton, $50; Huntington Beach, $17.50; La Habra, $12; Laguna Beach, $12; Newport Beach, $12; Orange, $40; Placentia, $12; Santa Ana, $150; San Clemente, $12; Tustin, $12.

It was also decided to issue a standing invitation to all candidates for governor to attend the meetings of the league and become acquainted with the city officials. Governor Frank Merriam will be in Southern California next week, and may possibly be able to attend the meeting, which will be held in the Aquarium cafe in San Clemente.

In the absence of President Hasenjaeger, Witmer acted as chairman pro tem last night, with Councilman A. T. Smith of San Clemente presiding at the close of the session.

CELEBRATES

JUDGE ELLIS OBSERVES HIS 91ST BIRTHDAY

Completing today the first year's lap on the final decade before he may celebrate his centenary, Judge Charles W. Ellis, 602 South Birch street, was receiving congratulations of relatives and friends upon his 91st birthday anniversary. In accordance with his own wishes, the day is being observed quietly by his daughters, Mrs. Irwin F. Landis, Mrs. Roy Hall and Mrs. Charles R. Couden, although Judge Ellis declares that they may have a small party when he reaches his ninety-fifth anniversary, while on the hundredth, he himself will entertain the entire city.

His many friends, aware of his vigorous health and his alert mind, feel that they are justified in anticipating this event with him.

The 91 years of a richly varlegated life have carried C. W. Ellis from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific. He was born in Main, June 22, 1843, one of a family of nine brothers and sisters. When he was 11 years old, his parents, obeying the pioneer instinct, followed the frontier to northern Illinois near the Wisconsin line where his early youth was devoted to farming. He read law in Beloit, Wisc., and eventually gained the reputation of being the finest criminal lawyer in that section of Kansas where he eventually located at the age of 25. Medicine Lodge was his choice of a home, and one of his interesting recollections is that of defending the famous temperance worker, Carrie Nation, in the divorce suit and property settlement brought by her husband. He won this case as he did the majority of those in which he appeared.

His legal work was not all as a practicing lawyer, for he served five years as district judge. The first year he was appointed to office, but on the four succeeding years, won by large majorities in the elections.

In the meantime his marriage to Miss Frances Mary Cartan had taken place on April 25, 1872 in Manchester, Ill., the home of his bride. In the meantime also had come the stirring Civil war days, and Mr. Ellis suffered one of the big disappointments of his life when he enlisted for service with his two brothers, only to be refused because of injuries which he had sustained in a fall several years earlier, resulting in a broken thigh. One of his brothers served throughout the war, the other, John Ellis, sleeps in a soldier's grave in the south.

Judge Ellis had the experience of voting for Abraham Lincoln when he cast his first vote after attaining his majority in 1864. He has many stirring tales to relate of his life on what was then the frontier. Some of these tales deal with big cases in which he was enployed as counsel or which were tried before him. Others are of the varied life on the plains. Particularly does he recall the hunting, and he took pride in being a "Mighty Nimrod." Today he declares that he feels compunction for the many deer that fell to his rifle, nine on one occasion when game laws were not stringent, and of these nine, three shot directly through the heart. This was near Coffeyville, Kans.

When he was 60 years old, Judge Ellis retired from active life devoting himself to his family and to property interests. He and Mrs. Ellis came to Santa Ana 17 years ago with their youngest daughter Marjorie, now Mrs. Charles R. Couden. One son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hall, had preceded them here, another son-in-law and daughter, Lieutenant Commander and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis came here a few years ago. The only son, Frederick R. Ellis, is a prominent stock man and rancher at Ardmore, Okla. The death of Mrs. Ellis occurred at the family home some two years ago.

At the family dinner which sons-in-law and daughters are sharing Sunday at the Ellis home, birthday honors are being divided between Mr. Ellis and Lieut.-Com. Landis whose anniversary comes tomorrow, June 23.

BAIL SET AT $2500 FOR THEFT SUSPECT

M. C. Kerr, 40, Long Beach man arrested yesterday by sheriff's officers for burglary of the Santa Ana Bottling Works on West First street, was arraigned in the justice court late yesterday, had his preliminary hearing set for June 28 at 9 a. m. and had bail fixed at $2500.

Kerr has admitted breaking into the office of the plant and stealing a typewriter and adding machine Wednesday night, according to officers. His arrest followed the report that a suspicious car was standing near the bottling works. When it was learned that the office had been burglarized, the license number of the car was traced and the equipment found in the possession of Kerr at his home.

Deputy Sheriffs G. F. McKelvey and James Musick made the arrest and arraigned Kerr before Judge Kenneth Morrison.

DINNER PLANNED

BALBOA, June 22.—Announcement was made today by Mrs. Theodore Fleshower, of Costa Mesa, member of the Altar soicety of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, of Newport Beach, that a benefit in the form of a baked ham dinner has been arranged by members of the society. The dinner will be served Sunday at 315 Island avenue from noon to 6 p. m.

INTERNES GET DIPLOMAS FROM C.O. HOSPITAL

Seven graduating internes of the Orange County hospital were presented with their diplomas and keys at a banquet given in the hospital dining room last night by members of the staff.

Following the dinner, Dr. J. Luther Maroon of Santa Ana presented diplomas to the class, after which Dr. H. A. Johnston of Anaheim gave a short address. Interne keys were presented by Dr. J. M. Burlew of Santa Ana. An enjoyable musical program followed the dinner.

Graduating internes are C. Norman Abbott, Barney Iwanaga, Llewellyn Wilson, Paul Murphy, Edward Phorstenberg, Dale Phetteplace and Phil Vogel.

New internes who will start duty July 1 were announced by Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, superintendent, as W. Raphael Sensman, Lloyd S. Greenlea, William J. Schroer and Marley L. Chang, all graduates from the College of Medical Evangelists in Los Angeles; Henry R. Hall, graduate of the University of Illinois College of Medicine; Allen Pepple, graduate of the University of Minnesota, and Arthur E. Aine and Luther C. Davison, graduates of the University of Oregon.

Arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Dr. and Mrs. Harry E. Zaiser, Mrs. Donald Abbott and Mrs. Robert Blanch.

ASKS ANNULMENT

Seeking annulment of her marriage to E. Chalman, M. C. Chalman has filed suit in superior court. The plaintiff charges that her husband had a wife living from whom he was not divorced, when they were married in Yuma, Arizona, on September 4, 1932.

GIVE RULES ON GETTING HOME OWNER'S LOANS

While the Home Owners' Loan Corporation is anxious to grant loans to all distressed home owners, its work has been somewhat hampered at times by efforts on the part of ineligible persons to obtain loans.

To lessen the number of ineligible applicants and thus conserve their time as well as expediting those cases which come under the provisions of the act of congress, it has been decided to make stricter tests as to the eligibility of applicants at the time of filing of applications.

The Home Loan Board at Washington, according to information received at California headquarters in Los Angeles, has provided more stringent rules governing applicants. These have been embodied in the series of thirteen tests of eligibility which will be the guide on loan applications in California. These tests are as follows:

1. Was the property described in the application a home on June 13, 1933, and is it a home at the time of filing of the application for a loan?

2. Was the home encumbered by a mortgage or other obligations or liens secured by real estate (including the interest of a vendor under a purchase-money mortgage or contract) executed, recorded or filed in the proper office prior to June 13, 1933, and was such lien in involuntary default on such date?

To be eligible for refunding it must have been in involuntary default on such date, or it must be conclusively shown to the satisfaction of the corporation that default after such date was due to unemployment or to economic conditions or misfortune beyond the control of the applicant, or in any case in which the home mortgage or other obligation or lien is held by an institution which is in liquidation.

3. If the property described as a home was not encumbered by a home mortgage and other obligations and liens secured by real estate on such date, but if it is encumbered by taxes and assessments or in need of such repairs and maintenance as to make it habitable, the property is eligible.

4. The home must be occupied by the owner:

(a) or be held by him as his homestead though temporarily absent therefrom with intention to return.

5. The value of the property as determined by the corporation appraisal must not exceed $20,000.

6. The dwelling cannot have facilities for more than four families, and must be used by the owner as a home or held by him as his homestead.

Where the building contains four ordinary compartments and the basement is fitted up for shops or stores, the loan is ineligible.

7. Where more than one property is owned by an applicant, and applicant makes application on property not occupied by him, the application is ineligible, unless he makes a sworn statement which will qualify such other property as his home under (a) of paragraph 4.

8. If the mortgagee will renew or carry the indebtedness, even though a commission is charged, the application is ineligible per se. If the applicant pleads inability to pay a commission or brokerage, the plea must be verified by the adjustment and consent department by contacting the mortgagee or his representative and by making other investigations to determine the ability of the mortgagor to pay such commission or brokerage.

9. If the applicant or the spouse of the applicant is gainfully employed, or if either has an income from a business or profession or from any other source sufficent to pay interest and taxes on the home; or if by hypothecating or sacrificing other investments owned by either spouse the home property can be saved from foreclosure, the application is ineligible since the act is designed to save homes and not to save outside investments of either spouse directly or indirectly.

10. The eligibility of combined business and residence property is questionable, and the test is: If residence is merely incidental to the business, the loan is ineligible; if business is incidental to the residence, the loan is eligible, but if the business property is rented, rents must be assigned to the corporation as additional security, but may be retained by the borrower so long as installments are paid as due.

11. Any applicant who has secured one loan is not eligible for another loan even though the properties are located in different states.

12. The moral character and past record for honesty and integrity of the applicant must be considered as an element of eligibility. Where there is an apparent total lack of these qualities, such an applicant should be considered as ineligible.

13. An alleged home which is openly used for illegal or immoral purposes is ineligible.

Democratic Ranks Increased

There may be limits by Democrats upon production of corn and cotton, but there are no limits to the production of Democrats.

Some of them are converted, while others are born.

Jules W. Markel, well known Santa Ana Democrat and contractor, believes the "born" variety are best, and apparently has undertaken to control the Democratic party in Santa Ana that way.

He has nine children of his own, all Democrats, and with the birth today of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Emil Wetzel, he has a total of eleven Democratic grandchildren.

Reports from Storktown are that this 11 total will be made an even dozen in the very near future.

DEFENDANTS IN INSURANCE CASE IN JAIL HERE

Six of the nine men arrested yesterday in Los Angeles on charges of misusing the mails in what was declared to be "a ten million dollar insurance swindle," were booked last night by federal officers at the county jail and released on bail at 2:30 a. m. today.

The men taken in custody were officials of the National Security Life association, with headquarters in Beverly Hills. The men booked here were Attorney Arnold D. Kreiger, 35, legal advisor for the organization; Dr. George H. Lew, 36, medical director; Donald D. Rose, Sydney Rose and M. Rosenthal, vice-president; and D. S. Kent, secretary-manager. Others arrested but not brought here were Abe Rose, president; B. Katz, cashier, and B. Abrams, secretary.

Krieger and Dr. Lew were released on $2500 bonds each and the other four on $10,000 each.

The defendants were alleged, in nine counts of a secret federal grand jury indictment, with having defrauded hundreds of policy holders in connection with an asserted nationwide swindle directed against purchasers of life, sick and accident insurance. They are said to have advertised in 1700 periodicals, used the radio and used nearly a dozen fictitious names for their organization.

WARNER, M'BRIDE AT LEAGUE MEET

Councilman E. G. Warner and City Engineer J. L. McBride represented Santa Ana last night at the meeting of the Los Angeles County League of Municipalities, held in Santa Monica, and heard talks on municipal problems by several prominent state and city officials.

Mayor Earl C. Thomas of the California League of Municipalities, spoke on the legislative plans of the organization for the next legislature and Mayor Harold E. Pomeroy of South Gate, field representative of the state league, told of the distribution of gasoline tax monies.

Louis Burke, legal counsel for the state league, gave a general talk on legislative problems of the state and Lawrence Cobb, assemblyman from Los Angeles, spoke on the Mattoon act, its effect on cities and the need for concerted action from the cities in matters of state legislation.

Late News From Fullerton And Vicinity

BRIDGE PARTY IS ENJOYED BY CLUB MEMBERS

FULLERTON, June 22.—Mrs. Homer Pyron, of North Richman avenue, Thursday night opened her home to members of the Amaranth Club royal for their monthly dinner meeting. After dinner and a short business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Hazel Smalley, cards occupied the time. Twenty-five attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Anderson, former Fullerton residents residing on Elm street, and now of Bakersfield, visitors in Fullerton, were special guests and Mr. Anderson carried away a first prize in bridge. Mrs. Ely Biggs won one first prize and Mr. and Mrs. Hazel Smalley won second prizes. Mrs. J. Charles Thamer won the first prize in hearts and Mrs. Mary Dent won second prize.

Mrs. Charles Grafton will be hostess to the group July 19 at her home at 320 Adams street for a pot luck dinner.

SUPERVISORS' WATER PLANS GET APPROVAL

FULLERTON, June 22.—Directors of Fullerton Chamber of commerce yesterday gave approval to the efforts of the supervisors of Orange county in submitting to the federal government a plan for county wide flood control and water conservation, outlined to receive funds under PWA, when they met in regular session at the Hughes safe.

The plan as submitted to the federal government was the Elliot plan, as submitted in 1931 to the supervisors. Walter Humphreys, chairman of the chamber water committee, presented the project, and appealed for endorsement, a well as for a vote of commendation for the supervisors for their efforts to develop harmonious support of the plan to insure federal aid.

LeRoy Lyon, supervisor of the third district, urged harmonious action concerning flood control. He also commented on a proposed new Los Coyotes Diagonal highway from Long Beach to Pomona, suggesting it will likely cost Orange county $60,000.

Chamber meetings are to be alternate Thursday during July and August.

Gentlemen:

We could not rightfully close up the affairs of Fullerton's first Valencia Orange festival without taking the opportunity to express to you our sincere appreciation for the splendid co-operation which you gave to us through the medium of your good paper. We feel that the first of what it is hoped will be an annual celebration of this nature has more than fulfilled our expectations, and we are confident that through the publicity and help you have extended to us you have had a large part in making this affair a success.

We are deeply appreciative and express our sincere thanks.

Funeral Services Of Ned C. Emerson Held On Saturday

FULLERTON, June 22.—Funeral services for Ned C. Emerson, 66, resident of Brea for 13 years, are to be held at 10 o'clock Saturday from the Brea Congregational church, with the Rev. Donald F. Gaylord in charge.

Death occurred yesterday at the home at 314 West Birch street, Brea. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Adeline Emerson, and by two stepsons, William Richter, of San Francisco, and Otto Richter, of San Gabriel, and by a sister in the East. The remains are at the McAulay and Suters Funeral home. Interment will be in Melrose Abbey mausoleum.

MRS. CLINE NEW GRAND TRUSTEE FOR DAUGHTERS

PLACENTIA, June 22.—Members of Grace parlor, Native Daughters of the Golden West, last night heard the official report of the election of one of their members, a past president, Mrs. Nellie Cline, to the position of grand trustee of the grand parlor at the convention being held in Santa Cruz this week. They planned to hold a reception for Mrs. Cline next Thursday at the home of Mrs. Helen Anderson, Crowther and Placentia avenues, to open with a covered-dish dinner.

Mrs. Cline, with Mrs. Matilda Enfield, incoming president of Grace parlor, and Mrs. Erna Watts, president, attended the convention.

Following the business meeting, where plans were made for the annual picnic for July 13 and for a garden party to be held at the home of Mrs. T. L. McFadden the last of July, the exact date not set yet, members played cards. Mrs. Rena Johnson won the first prize for "500" high score, and Mrs. T. J. Hirigoyen won first and Mrs. Dean Hasson second in bridge. Mrs. Hasson, second vice president, presided at the business meeting.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG
-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

STEEL STRIKE

Some new chapters will be added to the political cook books when the kitchen secrets of this administration are out. What these new deal cooks did to the steel strike situation is a choice chapter in itself.

The high tension strike leaders were in control up until a few days ago. Their strike plans had been made. Everything was ready for their steel kettle to explode.

All of a sudden, the high tensionists found themselves in the ice box. When they looked around, there was the similarly high tension federal negotiator, General Johnson, sitting in the cooler alongside them.

Control of the situation had passed suddenly back to easy-going steel Labor Leader Mike Tighe and to soft-voiced Frances Perkins, the labor secretary for President Roosevelt.

DEAL

This happy change was not accomplished as naturally as it looked. Some very vigorous spoon-stirring was done on the inside by the joint cooperation of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Tighe. How Mr. Tighe won the labor convention over from the rank and file agitators in a series of meetings in his hotel room is a story he will have to tell.

Nearly everyone seems to be satisfied now. Labor has far more confidence in Madame Perkins than in General Johnson. Under Tighe's leadership, it will play along toward a calmer plan for holding labor union elections. Its rank and file leadership had clearly carried it too far toward an angry strike.

The strike issue is not settled, but it has been delayed at least for two or three months.

VIEWS

There are two opposite inside views about the national labor situation now. You can get one from a congressional labor expert who could not speak frankly if he spoke openly. In private he says:

"I am very worried about Mr. Roosevelt going off to Hawaii. He is the only man in the country who could handle a national labor uprising if it came. In view of the labor feeling in the various sections of the country (the dock strike on the Pacific coast, the steel, automobile and other situations), I believe there is just an outside chance that the labor question may become nationally serious."

A calmer view is reflected by a labor spokesman of the administration, who whispers:

"The labor situation cannot become nationally serious any time soon. There have been many strikes, but there is little relation and no coordination among them. They are being settled swiftly. Organizations of labor and their leadership are not yet very strong. They cannot afford to take the bit in their teeth. They are too sensible to try it.

"Everything will be ironed out gradually during the course of the next year without any more trouble than we are having now."

OPEN SHOP

It is supposed to be a secret, and it may be kept as one, that certain industrial leaders will hold what amounts to an open shop meeting at a certain hotel in Chicago within a few days. They will organize to contest the labor program of the administration.

The call for the meeting specified that the matter should be kept confidential. Uninvited guests will not be permitted to attend. The administration already knows all about it.

HOT SPRINGS

Several business leaders had a highly confidential plan at the Hot Springs NRA meeting to spring something hot on the labor subject. They had figured out a substitute for the NRA program. It would have softened the labor features and made the NRA fundamentally a cooperative business movement.

Wiser heads prevailed upon the authors of the plan to keep it unsprung in their pockets. It would have been adopted, if offered, but it would have caused a tremendous fuse.

The result was that the meeting went off smoothly in a sympathetically NRA vein.

NEWS

There is so much news in Washington now that it sometimes takes a year for a congressman to find out what is going on.

Recently, a group of western manufacturers wired their congressman, urging him to appear for them at an NRA code hearing. He did, making one of his best speeches, and concluded with an outraged demand that his manufacturers be given a code.

"But," said the administrator in charge, "this industry has had a code for nearly a year."

"In that case," said the congressman, "I subscribe to it."

You cannot floor a congressman, or fool him—for more than a year.

NOTES

No effort is being made to hold the cabinet officers here during the absence of the president on his vacation cruise. Mr. Roper is going to Alaska, Mr. Morgenthau to Montana and others are making plans.

The new Republican chairman, Henry Fletcher, has been doing a little job of making friends with the senate Republicans who were dismayed at his election. He has held several private dinner parties, at which everything was peaceful although not exactly happy.

Mr. Morgenthau successfully put down the inner agitation against him in the senate, and none of the threatened steps against him were taken. The silver bill helped to soothe many senatorial tempers.

Louis Howe will not use paper matches. He insists on safeties.

GERMANY

Informed New York calls the German moratorium on medium and long-term foreign debts a prelude to outright default. It will be camouflaged as long as possible to try to protect German commercial credit but experts can't see how the Reich will be either able or willing to resume payments six months from now.

Also—despite Dr. Schaacht's vehement protestations—insiders are confident mark devaluation is only a matter of weeks. That would mean chaos with a capital C in internal German affairs and quite possibly the beginning of the end for the Hitler regime.

Local bankers are sore at the "breach of faith" but can't see that there's anything to be done about it. They will not lift their voices in public protest—figuring it would be futile and might invite Congressional scrutiny of their part in marketing the Dawes and Young bonds to the American public. Not that the bankers feel guilty about it—they just don't crave any more contacts with Congress than they can help.

BAG

As usual Uncle Sam will be bagholder-in-chief. Germany's European creditors mostly buy more from Germany than they sell to her and can arrange to seize German trade balances as a partial offset. This procedure dims the chances for American holders of German bonds to collect anything. New Yorkers comment it's the price we pay for the favorable balance of trade with Germany in which we took such pride.

Switzerland and Holland—with the largest proportional unfavorable trade balance—are in the strongest position to come out even.

INGENIOUS

New York banks with short-term German credit payable in blocked marks have been as ingenious as Robinson Crusoe at collecting without taking a loss. The commonest method has been to buy jewelry or art objects in Germany with the blocked marks and ship them here for resale. In a few cases this system has netted a profit. Furs have also been used as a medium of exchange.

One bank bought German real estate with its discounted marks and resold the property to German-Americans for dollars. This stunt was only tried once. It was too much of a headache to find someone who wanted German land.

Perhaps the prize transaction was one that involved exchange transactions in five countries—winding up with a coffee shipment from Brazil to London. The result was worth while in terms of dollars.

OIL

Failure of the Oil Control Bill to get through this session of Congress is likely to give the oil industry a hot summer. New York sharps predict price cuts which may amount to as much as 40 cents a barrel.

"Hot" oil production has been increasing rapidly the last few weeks. It's estimated 75,000 barrels beyond the official quota are produced daily in the East Texas fields alone. Local authorities say the violators are well heeled politically and financially and have no fear of prosecution. They're confident no jury of Texans would rate it a crime for a man to exploit his own property.

An effort will be made to get united price action by the big companies to freeze out the chisellers.

FINANCING

New corporate issues will soon bloom like the flowers in spring as evidence that Wall Street is appeased by the Securities Act amendments. Boston Edison and Standard Gas & Electric are the pioneers. Schenley Distilleries, Anaconda Copper and Sears Roebuck are planning convertible bond issues. The sponsoring investment houses include Lehman Brothers, W. C. Langley & Co., and the First Boston Corporation.

HONEY

Elliot Roosevelt's new Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce job is another sign the industry figures it's time to lay off the vinegar and try a little honey. The visit of the airline boys to the White House to talk things over points the same way.

It's expected Elliot's pigeon will be air transport—the branch of the industry in toughest straits. His brief connection with a west coast airline furnishes the background. Local observers withhold judgment on the stunt's value until it's clearer how much water the President's second son draws in family councils.

FLIVVER

Cold water thrown from here hasn't dampened Gene Vidal's flivver plane enthusiasm but local skeptics still don't like it. The new kick is that a check of dealers indicates they could sell only 10 per cent more ships even if current prices were halved.

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

STEEL STRIKE

Some new chapters will be added to the political cook books when the kitchen secrets of this administration are out. What these new deal cooks did to the steel strike situation is a choice chapter in itself.

The high tension strike leaders were in control up until a few days ago. Their strike plans had been made. Everything was ready for their steel kettle to explode.

All of a sudden, the high tensionists found themselves in the ice box. When they looked around, there was the similarly high tension federal negotiator, General Johnson, sitting in the cooler alongside them.

Control of the situation had passed suddenly back to easy-going steel Labor Leader Mike Tighe and to soft-voiced Frances Perkins, the labor secretary for President Roosevelt.

DEAL

This happy change was not accomplished as naturally as it looked. Some very vigorous spoon-stirring was done on the inside by the joint cooperation of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Tighe. How Mr. Tighe won the labor convention over from the rank and file agitators in a series of meetings in his hotel room is a story he will have to tell.

Nearly everyone seems to be satisfied now. Labor has far more confidence in Madame Perkins than in General Johnson. Under Tighe's leadership, it will play along toward a calmer plan for holding labor union elections. Its rank and file leadership had clearly carried it too far toward an angry strike.

The strike issue is not settled, but it has been delayed at least for two or three months.

VIEWS

There are two opposite inside views about the national labor situation now. You can get one from a congressional labor expert who could not speak frankly if he spoke openly. In private he says:

"I am very worried about Mr. Roosevelt going off to Hawaii. He is the only man in the country who could handle a national labor uprising if it came. In view of the labor feeling in the various sections of the country (the dock strike on the Pacific coast, the steel, automobile and other situations), I believe there is just an outside chance that the labor question may become nationally serious."

A calmer view is reflected by a labor spokesman of the administration, who whispers:

"The labor situation cannot become nationally serious any time soon. There have been many strikes, but there is little relation and no coordination among them. They are being settled swiftly. Organizations of labor and their leadership are not yet very strong. They cannot afford to take the bit in their teeth. They are too sensible to try it.

"Everything will be ironed out gradually during the course of the next year without any more trouble than we are having now."

OPEN SHOP

It is supposed to be a secret, and it may be kept as one, that certain industrial leaders will hold what amounts to an open shop meeting at a certain hotel in Chicago within a few days. They will organize to contest the labor program of the administration.

The call for the meeting specified that the matter should be kept confidential. Uninvited guests will not be permitted to attend. The administration already knows all about it.

HOT SPRINGS

Several business leaders had a highly confidential plan at the Hot Springs NRA meeting to spring something hot on the labor subject. They had figured out a substitute for the NRA program. It would have softened the labor features and made the NRA fundamentally a cooperative business movement.

Wiser heads prevailed upon the authors of the plan to keep it unsprung in their pockets. It would have been adopted, if offered, but it would have caused a tremendous fuss.

The result was that the meeting went off smoothly in a sympathetically NRA vein.

NEWS

There is so much news in Washington now that it sometimes takes a year for a congressman to find out what is going on.

Recently, a group of western manufacturers wired their congressman, urging him to appear for them at an NRA code hearing. He did, making one of his best speeches, and concluded with an outraged demand that his manufacturers be given a code.

"But," said the administrator in charge, "this industry has had a code for nearly a year."

"In that case," said the congressman, "I subscribe to it."

You cannot floor a congressman, or fool him—for more than a year.

NOTES

No effort is being made to hold the cabinet officers here during the absence of the president on his vacation cruise. Mr. Roper is going to Alaska, Mr. Morgenthau to Montana and others are making plans.

The new Republican chairman, Henry Fletcher, has been doing a little job of making friends with the senate Republicans who were dismayed at his election. He has held several private dinner parties, at which everything was peaceful although not exactly happy.

Mr. Morgenthau successfully put down the inner agitation against him in the senate, and none of the threatened steps against him were taken. The silver bill helped to soothe many senatorial tempers.

Louis Howe will not use paper matches. He insists on safeties.

News Of Orange County Communities

NEW TEACHERS FOR LA HABRA GRADE SCHOOLS

LA HABRA, June 22.—Superintendent of Schools E. R. Berry today announced the list of teachers for the coming year for the three La Habra schools, following a meeting of the school board held Wednesday evening.

Miss Loraine Reeder has signed a contract to fill the new position created by the board this year to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Ruth Dickey. Miss Dickey taught class room, penmanship, girls physical education and home economics. Miss Reeder will be art supervisor in the three schools and will take charge of home economics in the seventh and eighth grades. Miss Reeder is a graduate of Columbia university and has just completed a course in teaching art in Delaware. Her present home is in Los Angeles.

Miss Erma Epperly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Epperly, of La Habra, has been employed to teach in the kindergarten. She takes the place of Miss Charlotte Hewitt, who has resigned. She has had 11 years experience in teaching kindergarten work, receiving her degrees in U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles and also in Drake university in Iowa.

Ralph Alredich, cadet teacher for the past two years in La Habra, has signed a contract as grade teacher and also as coach for boys' physical education. He is a graduate of Whittier college.

The three principals, Joe Severson, Washington school; S. L. Creff, Wilson school, and Mrs. E. E. Proud, Lincoln school, are to be returned for another year. Mrs. Gordon Drew, of Fullerton who has had two years leave of absence, was given a contract and Miss Dorothy Doane, who was employed last year on a part time schedule, has been given a regular contract.

Teachers who are to return are Mrs. Bruce Stanford, Miss Blanche Perdine, Miss Bessie Ward, Miss Leah Fulton, Mrs. John Gard, Mrs. Lillian Milligan, Miss Barbara Higgins, Mrs. Beulah Wagner, Mrs. Ann Marie Marsh, Mrs. Carrie Glazier, Miss Avis Elder, Miss Gladys Sorbee Mrs. Dora Linke, Mrs. Margaret West, Paul Blocker, and Frank Barrows, supervisor of music, who is to be employed four and one half days per week.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED FOR OFFICERS OF BREA LIONS CLUB

BREA, June 22.—Installation of officers of the Brea Lions club was observed Thursday night in the Masonic hall following a turkey dinner served by a committee of Pythian Sisters.

Dr. Elliott Rowland, director of Lions International, presented by President R. E. Barnes, inducted the new officers into their respective offices. Those installed were Dr. Glenn Curtis, president; J. B. Phillips, first vice-president; J. R. Collins, second vice-president; W. W. Hay, third vice-president; Louis Papillo, tail twister; John Daugherty, Lion tamer; Dr. C. C. Jarvis treasurer; Dr. John Holland, secretary; Rev. Donald F. Gaylord, chaplain; W. D. Shaffer, newly elected director. Dr. Jarvis was presented with framed testimonial for 10 years' service as treasurer of the club.

E. H. Peterkin, chairman of the entertainment committee, presented James Barker, of Fullerton, who favored with baritone solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Glenn Curtis. Including Peterkin, each of the active past presidents of the club provided a stunt for entertainment. They were Ed. Curtis, L. A. Hogue, W. A. Culp and W. E. Fanning.

Guests presented were deputy district governor and Mrs. Fred Neutescheutz, past president Clint Woodruff and Mrs. Woodruff; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Sidebottom, Assemblyman and Mrs. Ted Craig; Assemblyman and Mrs. James Utt, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Luddy, Dr. and Mrs. Rowland and Miss Rowland, Mrs. R. S. Newman of Texas, visiting here with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harris Newman; Mrs. Marian Little of Atlanta, Ga., house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Curtis.

FRUIT MARKETS DESCRIBED FOR TUSTIN CENTER

TUSTIN, June 22.—"A Grower's Observation of the Eastern Valencia Markets" was the theme of an interesting talk given by F. B. Browning, president of the county farm bureau, at the regular meeting of the Tustin Farm center Wednesday night in the Woodward hall. H. C. Timmons, president, presided.

Browning stated that in Florida, many of the orange groves looked very much like California groves, except that they were in swampy surroundings. He told of some pests with which the Florida grower has to contend.

Oranges back east are really selling at a reasonable price and the dealers and brokers would rather see oranges selling at a fair price instead of a low price as they base their margin on a percentage basis, according to Browning. A much larger supply of Oranges is going into consumption this year than last and bringing a higher price, he said.

The better price of oranges Browning believes due to three things: First, the buying power in the east is better; second, the fruit has been universally good this last winter and spring, and third, during the period of the depression, the desire to eat citrus fruits has been increasing.

The auction markets were described and the speaker he could see a great deal of good in the auction method of selling. Brown said he came home more optimistic than he left and feels that there is a bright future for the orange industry.

D. R. Gardner, member of the tax committee of the farm bureau, gave a talk on "Our California Sales Tax and the Farmer." He said the sales tax has reduced the tax on land by about one-third and that real property now carries 65 per cent of all taxes collected in California. He added that if the sales tax is repealed, some other tax will have to take its place.

The monthly director's report was made by C. J. Marks. President Timmons announced there would be no picnic this summer due to the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the county. The next farm center meeting will be in October.

Refreshments of ice cream and homemade cookies were served by Mesdames F. B. Browning, Howard Timmons and Perry E. Lewis to the 50 members and friends present.

NEW SYNDICATE PREPARES TO DRILL ON 60-ACRE MESA LEASE

COSTA MESA, June 22. — The latest project in the oil operations in this section is being started by a syndicate of Kansas and Oklahoma oil men, operating under the name of Pitts and Collins of Wichita, Kans. An 84-foot derrick has been erected on a 60-acre lease at the intersection of Santa Isabel and Santa Ana avenues and a crew of men is rigging up with what is said to be the latest improved unit in gasoline powered drilling machinery.

They expect to spud in the well early next week, it was stated by those in charge. They are equipped to go to the 3000-foot zone, but it is believed that a producing sand will be found at a shallower depth, according to consulting geologists.

The Southern California Drilling company is reported seeking a 60-acre to 100-acre lease north and west of the Pitts-Collins holdings.

The Nuoil company, operating in South Costa Mesa on the Banning property, has dropped a cement plug into the bottom 50 feet of its 6000-foot well to shut off water found entering at that point. Other tests for water will be made before bringing the well in, it was stated by those in charge. In a preliminary production test, oil and mud was thrown over 85 feet into the air by the gas pressure from the well. The well is being watched with considerable interest by oil companies having holdings in the vicinity of the well and others.

The Spiek Oil company and the Harding interests are idle at present preparing for water tests in their respective wells. They both ceased drilling at the 1000-foot level.

CHAIRMEN FOR P.-T. A. NAMED BY PRESIDENT

WESTMINSTER, June 22.—Grade mothers and chairmen of committees for the Westminster Parent-Teacher association have been appointed by Mrs. R. P. Meairs, president. Each chairman is to select two or three helpers for her work.

The chairman named are: Kindergarten, Mrs. Mae Finley; first grade, to be chosen; second grade, Mrs. F. OIL MEN GET BACK PAY BEFORE AUG. 19

BREA, June 22.—The Brea local of the American Federation of Labor has received from one of the federation's affiliated branches, the International Association of Oilfield, Gas, Well and Refinery Workers of America, further instructions pertaining to wages due workers by reason of a previous order of Secretary Ickes.

The information is that any wage increases found necessary by reason of this order shall be retroactive to September 2, 1933. This was recommended by the Planning and Coordination committee and approved by Ickes on November 15, 1933. All remuneration due employes by reason of this order is to be paid on or before August 19, 1934.

Provision is made that in carrying out this order for workers employed prior to August 19, 1933 and who left the service of the employer after September 2, 1933, employers will be acting in good faith if they, within one month from the date of the order, give notice by registered mail for employees to call at a designated place for such payments.

If the employe does not make other arrangements to receive such payment within two months after the mailing of the notice, the employer is relieved of any further obligation to make such payments.

Lions Club Told Of State Meeting

GARDEN GROVE, June 22.—A report on the state convention of Lions clubs held at Fresno was given by E. M. Sundquist, of Santa Ana, at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday in Legion hall.

A committee consisting of L. L. Doig, Ray Johnson and Robert Smith was appointed to make arrangements for the installation of new officers and a dinner to be held in the near future.

TUSTIN PASTOR'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVED

TUSTIN, June 22.—The birthday anniversary of the Rev. Howard F. Nason, who for the past three years has served as pastor of the Tustin Advent Christian church, was the occasion for a delightful surprise party at his home on Main street this week. Approximately 65 persons of the church attended the affair, which was planned by the Woman's Missionary society of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Idus Harper sang "We'll Never Grow Old," with their daughter, Helen Harper, accompanying at the piano. A Sunday school class of young girls sang "Shining for Jesus," accompanied by Miss Harper. Short talks, congratulating the pastor, were made by Lon McAllister, of Midway City; George C. Pickering, of Santa Ana, and C. E. Hatch. Mrs. Harry Hanson, of Santa Ana, entertained with two instrumental solos and a reading, "Bobby Shafto Has Gone to Sea."

Mrs. Sarah M. G. Brown, on behalf of the church, presented the honor guest with a purse of money. Members of two of the Sunday school classes presented him with gifts.

As a climax to the celebration, refreshments of fruit juice and wafers were served

TUSTIN BOARD IN HEARING ON SCHOOL PLANS

TUSTIN, June 22.—A public hearing to discuss the raising of a building fund for a new grammar school building to replace the one damaged by the earthquake of March, 1933, was held Wednesday night by the grammar school board of trustees in the kindergarten room. G. R. Seacord, president, presided. Approximately 18 persons were present.

County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson was present and explained the proposed building program and discussed the estimated school budget for the next year.

Architect Frank Lansdown, of Santa Ana, explained the plans for the proposed school building, which call for a frame stucco building of 14 class rooms, with basement, to be erected on the site of the old building. This can be erected at an estimated cost of $36,000.

An election to give the school board authority to raise funds for the new school building will be held June 25. The polling place will be the primary building and the polls will be open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The school board will meet at the school office at 7:30 p. m. June 28, to open the bids for construction of the school.

Miss Beebe will be accompanied by a group of girls who will sing hymns in the Japanese language.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, Madeline Siddal, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of the deception but keeps it up, even when Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married.

Mrs. Planter, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

Amos Siddal, Madeline's grandfather, has a stroke.

Meanwhile Madeline who has married Con David, the animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna agrees to meet him. Mrs. Planter learns of this and writes Bill an anonymous letter.

Donna departs, telling Bill she is going to a neighbor's. Instead she meets Con who threatens to cause trouble for her. While they are talking Donna discovers that someone is spying on them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XL

"There's another gate," Donna whispered tremulously. "Let's go out that way."

"What are you shaking for?" Con demanded. "Whoever that was beside the bushes didn't hear anything we said and probably didn't even recognize you."

"I'm sure it was a woman—and that I was followed."

"In heaven's name why should anyone follow you?"

In her dismay Donna forgot that Con himself was an enemy. She said slowly, "Because there is a woman—she used to be our housekeeper—who would do anything on earth to cause me trouble. She hates me like poison, though I don't know why. Somehow she got hold of the handbill that announced your marriage to Madeline—"

Again Con whistled softly. It was not due to surprise but because he had just thought of something. They were moving cautiously now toward the rear gate, opening into the church grounds proper. They walked close to the vine-covered wall, hidden by the shadows cast by the trees.

"Yes," Donna continued. "She accused me of bigamy and I discharged her."

"Bigamy, eh? Well, it was natural for her to think that, wasn't it?"

"Not if she liked me and accepted my word that the person who was married that day was another woman. She knows you are in town, and nothing would suit her more than to find out that I came here to meet you. But how could she know I was coming? How could she find that you?"

"Search me! I think you're worrying without any cause. It's dollars to doughnuts that wasn't an evesdropper but someone taking a short cut through the grave yard."

"I hope so."

"Where's your car?"

"I left it on a side street not far from here. We'll have to walk around past the front gate, though. If I were only sure Mrs. Planter—"

Con squeezed her arm to reassure her and her anxiety was such that she did not notice the caress. Nor did she notice, as they turned the corner after passing the gate, that he slipped an arm around her.

The Baptist Church was at the extreme limit of the town. There were no street lights within a block. The snow was blinding and neither saw the figure crouching beside the iron pillars that supported the gate. But Mrs. Planter, who had seen the couple disappear, had judged correctly that they would not leave through the main entrance. Having passed Donna's car, she felt sure they would return to it. She had been within arm's reach of Donna when the girl stepped out of the machine, but had been too shrewd to trail at her heels. She had waited until Donna had been with Con several minutes before entering the cemetery.

To her chagrin she had been unable to hear what they said. Much as her ears burned to catch the words, she had not dared to move closer. But, in spite of the obscuring darkness and the falling snow, she did see Con's arm around Donna's shoulder and her righteous soul boiled over with indignation at such "goings-on."

She had hoped Bill also would be a witness to the meeting, but she did not see him anywhere. One thing was certain, she had gauged Madeline Siddal correctly. The girl was a "hussy", unfit for decent folks to associate with, and before another 24 hours went by not only Bill Siddal but everyone in Lebanon was going to know about it!

But what could folks expect of a circus girl, who probably never attended services until she found it paid to do so? A girl who had married her own cousin! Well, half-cousins were too close kin to make marriage what it should be. Mrs. Planter would have felt more sympathy for Bill when he learned the truth if he had not been a party to such a Godless deed.

She waited until the man and woman had gone on about 50 yards. Then she gathered the shabby folds of her coat about her and began to run in the opposite direction. If that lazy Janie hadn't started supper there'd be the old Nick to pay. Jobs weren't so plentiful that Mrs. Planter wanted to chance losing hers, even in doing her duty towards the community.

She wished she could have found out where Madeline and that circus fellow went after they left the cemetery but, after all, that didn't matter much.

Donna and Con passed no one on their way to the car. Donna climbed in and unlocked the engine, and then held out her hand. "Let's part friends, Con. For the sake of Madeline. I know you didn't mean what you said back there."

"I'm going with you," he answered, ignoring her outstretched hand.

"But you can't!" she protested. "Not home with me."

"I don't mean that." As he spoke he got into the car beside her. "We haven't come to any sort of decision."

"There isn't any to come to. You feel you are entitled to what would have been Madeline's. I think it should belong to Bill." She switched on the engine and, with a sputter, the car leaped forward. "I'll drive you to the corner of the square. Then I'm going home."

"And try to induce the old man to change his will?"

"Yes."

"I wouldn't. I intend to stick around here. I don't want to make things unpleasant for you, but if you force my hand I'll have to. Madeline's death took a lot out of me—"

She laughed incredulously.

"I don't mean the way you think. I never loved her and I won't pretend I did. But it wasn't a particularly pleasant sensation to see my wife killed before my eyes—and they shot my best cat. I went to pieces. The story got around that I sent her to her death, and I could not get engagements. It will take a while to live all that down. I figure her folks owe me something for what she cost me."

"Poor Madeline," Donna murmured. "And how she adored you! You did send her to her death. I can never forgive you for that. You knew she hadn't the gift you had, yet you—" She choked, remembering the girl with whom she had worked for so long. "How do you expect to make family pay?"

"Through you, of course. Don't say it can't be done! I'll leave you to figure it out as best you can, but in some way you are going to invite me to visit you and I'm going to visit the farm and I'm going to stay there until I'm on my feet again. And—" he leaned closer, "I'm going to see that you don't get that will changed. Any monkey business and I'll tip off your beloved Bill to the truth!"

"So, it's blackmail?"

"I wouldn't call it that."

"I do. Well, I shan't invite you to the farm and I'll use every bit of persuasion I can to get Grandfather Siddal to make out a new will in favor of my husband—not because I want the farm for myself nor because Bill couldn't get along without it, but to keep you from getting something you have no right to."

"That's final?"

"Absolutely."

"You know what I can do to you?"

"I know what you think you can do. Go ahead! It happens that both my husband and grandfather love me. They'll believe my word against yours."

"I hardly think so, but we'll see."

"You're getting out here," Donna said, stopping the machine at the corner. Cold, devastating fury made her oblivious to the danger of being seen with him.

"Thanks so much for the lift," Con drawled sarcastically. He stepped out of the car, carefully avoiding a snowdrift, and tipped his hat.

The clock in the courthouse chimed four times. In the storm Dona knew it would take the better part of an hour to reach the farm. How foolish she had been to come, since nothing had been gained by the risk! Of course Con's threats were just words. He was a coward and he would never go to Bill. What could he prove if he did go? And to say she had committed a felony—it was ridiculous!

But if he should go to Bill she would lie. Lie to the last breath! Oh, God, if only she had never become tangled in such a mesh of lies! The truth seemed so dreadful as Con put it. How could she account to Bill for her silence during all those weeks when he had hesitated to ask her to marry him because he believed they were related? Bill would find that harder to forgive than anything. Keeping the knowledge of Madeline's death a secret seemed possible, too. It did make it look as though she wanted to inherit the farm. It had been glib and easy to say she would insist on the old man's will being changed, but how could she go about doing it?

She couldn't ask Grandfather if he had left everything to her. What would he think if she did? And he would expect explanations if she asked him to make Bill his heir. What explanations could she offer?

Her head was burning but her feet as they pressed were slowly freezing into ice. Her eyes and cheeks stung and she felt slightly giddy. The car skidded and she almost lost control of the wheel. When the danger was over she found herself sobbing hysterically.

She realized that she must pick her way carefully. It was impossible to see the road because of the snow and there was no path or wheel ruts to guide her.

She became so intent on driving, listening to the warning knock in the engine, that it wasn't until she had passed the Adams house that she remembered she was supposed to have gone there to see a sick baby. There was no time to stop now.

WHY WOMEN BUY

Asked why women like to buy, a prominent clubwoman explained, "We buy because we just can't help it. We buy as naturally as we breathe. And because we enjoy buying we're really efficient buyers, getting full value for every dollar spent."

"Full value"... this is why countless women enjoy buying S&W Mellow'd Coffee. They realize that other coffees may sell for more but no coffee is worth more than S&W. It is delicious everytime because it is MELLOW'D. Expect much from every cup.

NEW TEACHERS FOR LA HABRA GRADE SCHOOLS

LA HABRA, June 22.—Superintendent of Schools E. R. Berry today announced the list of teachers for the coming year for the three La Habra schools, following a meeting of the school board held Wednesday evening.

Miss Loraine Reeder has signed a contract to fill the new position created by the board this year to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Miss Ruth Dickey. Miss Dickey taught class room, penmanship, girls' physical education and home economics. Miss Reeder will be art supervisor in the three schools and will take charge of home economics in the seventh and eighth grades. Miss Reeder is a graduate of Columbia university and has just completed a course in teaching art in Delaware. Her present home is in Los Angeles.

Miss Erma Epperly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Epperly, of La Habra, has been employed to teach in the kindergarten. She takes the place of Miss Charlotte Hewitt, who has resigned. She has had 11 years experience in teaching kindergarten work, receiving her degrees in U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles and also in Drake university in Iowa.

Ralph Alredich, cadet teacher for the past two years in La Habra, has signed a contract as grade teacher and also as coach for boys' physical education. He is a graduate of Whittier college.

The three principals, Joe Severson, Washington school; S. L. Greff, Wilson school, and Mrs. E. E. Proud, Lincoln school, are to be returned for another year. Mrs. Gordon Drew, of Fullerton who has had two years leave of absence, was given a contract and Miss Dorothy Doane, who was employed last year on a part time schedule, has been given a regular contract.

Teachers who are to return are Mrs. Bruce Stanford, Miss Blanche Perdine, Miss Bessie Ward, Miss Leah Fulton, Mrs. John Gard, Mrs. Lillian Milligan, Miss Barbara Higgins, Mrs. Beulah Wagner, Mrs. Ann Marie Marsh, Mrs. Carrie Glazier, Miss Avis Elder, Miss Gladys Sorbeo Mrs. Dora Linke, Mrs. Margaret West, Paul Blocker, and Frank Barrows, supervisor of music, who is to be employed four and one half days per week.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED FOR OFFICERS OF BREA LIONS CLUB

BREA, June 22.—Installation of officers of the Brea Lions club was observed Thursday night in the Masonic hall following a turkey dinner served by a committee of Pythian Sisters.

Dr. Elliott Rowland, director of Lions International, presented by President R. E. Barnes, inducted the new officers into their respective offices. Those installed were Dr. Glenn Curtis, president; J. B. Phillips, first vice-president; J. R. Collins, second vice-president; W. W. Hay, third vice-president; Louis Papillo, tail twister; John Daugherty, Lion tamer; Dr. C. C. Jarvis treasurer; Dr. John Holland, secretary; Rev. Donald F. Gaylord, chaplain; W. D. A committee consisting of L. L. Doig, Ray Johnson and Robert Smith was appointed to make arrangements for the installation of new officers and a dinner to be held in the near future.

FRUIT MARKETS DESCRIBED FOR TUSTIN CENTER

TUSTIN, June 22.—"A Grower's Observation of the Eastern Valencia Markets" was the theme of an interesting talk given by F. B. Browning, president of the county farm bureau, at the regular meeting of the Tustin Farm center Wednesday night in the Woodward hall. H. C. Timmons, president, presided.

Browning stated that in Florida, many of the orange groves looked very much like California groves, except that they were in swampy surroundings. He told of some pests with which the Florida grower has to contend.

Oranges back east are really selling at a reasonable price and the dealers and brokers would rather see oranges selling at a fair price instead of a low price as they base their margin on a percentage basis, according to Browning. A much larger supply of Oranges is going into consumption this year than last and bringing a higher price, he said.

The better price of oranges Browning believes due to three things: First, the buying power in the east is better; second, the fruit has been universally good this last winter and spring, and third, during the period of the depression, the desire to eat citrus fruits has been increasing.

The auction markets were described and the speaker he could see a great deal of good in the auction method of selling. Brown said he came home more optimistic than he left and feels that there is a bright future for the orange industry.

D. R. Gardner, member of the tax committee of the farm bureau, gave a talk on "Our California Sales Tax and the Farmer." He said the sales tax has reduced the tax on land by about one-third and that real property now carries 65 per cent of all taxes collected in California. He added that if the sales tax is repealed, some other tax will have to take its place.

The monthly director's report was made by C. J. Marks. President Timmons announced there would be no picnic this summer due to the prevalence of infantile paralysis in the county. The next farm center meeting will be in October.

Refreshments of ice cream and homemade cookies were served by Mesdames F. B. Browning, Howard Timmons and Perry E. Lewis to the 50 members and friends present.

Missionary Will Conduct Service

MIDWAY CITY, June 22.—Miss Ruth Beebe, returned missionary from Japan, who leaves in three months to resume her work, will have charge of the church services Sunday evening at the Midway City Nazarene church, telling of work in the mission field. Miss Beebe will be accompanied by a group of girls who will sing hymns in the Japanese language.

NEW SYNDICATE PREPARES TO DRILL ON 60-ACRE MESA LEASE

COSTA MESA, June 22. — The latest project in the oil operations in this section is being started by a syndicate of Kansas and Oklahoma oil men, operating under the name of Pitts and Collins of Wichita, Kans. An 84-foot derrick has been erected on a 60-acre lease at the intersection of Santa Isabel and Santa Ana avenues and a crew of men is rigging up with what is said to be the latest improved unit in gasoline powered drilling machinery.

They expect to spud in the well early next week, it was stated by those in charge. They are equipped to go to the 3000-foot zone, but it is believed that a producing sand will be found at a shallower depth, according to consulting geologists.

The Southern California Drilling company is reported seeking a 60-acre to 100-acre lease north and west of the Pitts-Collins holdings.

The Nuoil company, operating in South Costa Mesa on the Banning property, has dropped a cement plug into the bottom 50 feet of its 6000-foot well to shut off water found entering at that point. Other tests for water will be made before bringing the well in, it was stated by those in charge. In a preliminary production test, oil and mud was thrown over 85 feet into the air by the gas pressure from the well. The well is being watched with considerable interest by oil companies having holdings in the vicinity of the well and others.

The Spiek Oil company and the Harding interests are idle at present preparing for water tests in their respective wells. They both ceased drilling at the 1000-foot level.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Donna Gabriel, circus performer, falls from the trapeze and is injured. To please her partner, Madeline Siddal, Donna goes to Madeline's home to recuperate, pretending to be the other girl. She is ashamed of the deception but keeps it up, even when Bill Siddal, Madeline's cousin, asks her to marry him. Bill and Donna are married.

Mrs. Planter, housekeeper discharged by Donna, is her enemy.

Amos Siddal, Madeline's grandfather, has a stroke.

Meanwhile Madeline who has married Con David, the animal trainer, is killed. Con knows of Donna's deception and decides to blackmail her. He comes to the nearby town and Donna agrees to meet him. Mrs. Planter learns of this and writes Bill an anonymous letter.

Donna departs, telling Bill she is going to a neighbor's. Instead she meets Con who threatens to cause trouble for her. While they are talking Donna discovers that someone is spying on them.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XL

"There's another gate," Donna whispered tremulously. "Let's go out that way."

"What are you shaking for?" Con demanded. "Whoever that was beside the bushes didn't hear anything we said and probably didn't even recognize you."

"I'm sure it was a woman—and that I was followed."

"In heaven's name why should anyone follow you?"

In her dismay Donna forgot that Con himself was an enemy. She said slowly, "Because there is a woman—she used to be our housekeeper—who would do anything on earth to cause me trouble. She hates me like poison, though I don't know why. Somehow she got hold of the handbill that announced your marriage to Madeline—"

Again Con whistled softly. It was not due to surprise but because he had just thought of something. They were moving cautiously now toward the rear gate, opening into the church grounds proper. They walked close to the vine-covered wall, hidden by the shadows cast by the trees.

"Yes," Donna continued. "She accused me of bigamy and I discharged her."

"Bigamy, eh? Well, it was natural for her to think that, wasn't it?"

"Not if she liked me and accepted my word that the person who was married that day was another woman. She knows you are in town, and nothing would suit her more than to find out that I came here to meet you. But how could she know I was coming? How could she find that you?"

"Search me! I think you're worrying without any cause. It's dollars to doughnuts that wasn't an evesdropper but someone taking a short cut through the grave yard."

"I hope so."

"Where's your car?"

"I left it on a side street not far from here. We'll have to walk around past the front gate, though. If I were only sure Mrs. Planter—"

Con squeezed her arm to reassure her and her anxiety was such that she did not notice the caress. Nor did she notice, as they turned the corner after passing the gate, that he slipped an arm around her.

The Baptist Church was at the extreme limit of the town. There were no street lights within a block. The snow was blinding and neither saw the figure crouching beside the iron pillars that supported the gate. But Mrs. Planter, who had seen the couple disappear, had judged correctly that they would not leave through the main entrance. Having passed Donna's car, she felt sure they would return to it. She had been within arm's reach of Donna when the girl stepped out of the machine, but had been too shrewd to trail at her heels. She had waited until Donna had been with Con several minutes before entering the cemetery.

To her chagrin she had been unable to hear what they said. Much as her ears burned to catch the words, she had not dared to move closer. But, in spite of the obscuring darkness and the falling snow, she did see Con's arm around Donna's shoulder and her righteous soul boiled over with indignation at such "goings-on."

She had hoped Bill also would be a witness to the meeting, but she did not see him anywhere. One thing was certain, she had gauged Madeline Siddal correctly. The girl was a "hussy", unfit for decent folks to associate with, and before another 24 hours went by not only Bill Siddal but everyone in Lebanon was going to know about it!

But what could folks expect of a circus girl, who probably never attended services until she found it paid to do so? A girl who had married her own cousin! Well, half-cousins were too close kin to make marriage what it should be. Mrs. Planter would have felt more sympathy for Bill when he learned the truth if he had not been a party to such a Godless deed.

She waited until the man and woman had gone on about 50 yards. Then she gathered the shabby folds of her coat about her and began to run in the opposite direction. If that lazy Janie hadn't started supper there'd be the old Nick to pay. Jobs weren't so plentiful that Mrs. Planter wanted to chance losing hers, even in doing her duty towards the community.

She wished she could have found out where Madeline and that circus fellow went after they left the cemetery but, after all, that didn't matter much.

Donna and Con passed no one on their way to the car. Donna climbed in and unlocked the engine, and then held out her hand. "Let's part friends, Con. For the sake of Madeline. I know you didn't mean what you said back there."

"I'm going with you," he answered, ignoring her outstretched hand.

"But you can't!" she protested. "Not home with me."

"I don't mean that." As he spoke he got into the car beside her. "We haven't come to any sort of decision."

"There isn't any to come to. You feel you are entitled to what would have been Madeline's. I think it should belong to Bill." She switched on the engine and, with a sputter, the car leaped forward. "I'll drive you to the corner of the square. Then I'm going home."

"And try to induce the old man to change his will?"

"Yes."

"I wouldn't. I intend to stick around here. I don't want to make things unpleasant for you, but if you force my hand I'll have to. Madeline's death took a lot out of me—"

She laughed incredulously.

"I don't mean the way you think. I never loved her and I won't pretend I did. But it wasn't a particularly pleasant sensation to see my wife killed before my eyes—and they shot my best cat. I went to pieces. The story got around that I sent her to her death, and I could not get engagements. It will take a while to live all that down. I figure her folks owe me something for what she cost me."

"Poor Madeline," Donna murmured. "And how she adored you! You did send her to her death. I can never forgive you for that. You knew she hadn't the gift you had, yet you—" She choked, remembering the girl with whom she had worked for so long. "How do you expect to make [illegible] family pay?"

"Through you, of course. Don't say it can't be done! I'll leave you to figure it out as best you can, but in some way you are going to invite me to visit you and I'm going to visit the farm and I'm going to stay there until I'm on my feet again. And—" he leaned closer, "I'm going to see that you don't get that will changed. Any monkey business and I'll tip off your beloved Bill to the truth!"

"So, it's blackmail?"

"I wouldn't call it that."

"I do. Well, I shan't invite you to the farm and I'll use every bit of persuasion I can to get Grandfather Siddal to make out a new will in favor of my husband—not because I want the farm for myself nor because Bill couldn't get along without it, but to keep you from getting something you have no right to."

"That's final?"

"Absolutely."

"You know what I can do to you?"

"I know what you think you can do. Go ahead! It happens that both my husband and grandfather love me. They'll believe my word against yours."

"I hardly think so, but we'll see."

"You're getting out here," Donna said, stopping the machine at the corner. Cold, devastating fury made her oblivious to the danger of being seen with him.

"Thanks so much for the lift," Con drawled sarcastically. He stepped out of the car, carefully avoiding a snowdrift, and tipped his hat.

The clock in the courthouse chimed four times. In the storm Dona knew it would take the better part of an hour to reach the farm. How foolish she had been to come, since nothing had been gained by the risk! Of course Con's threats were just words. He was a coward and he would never go to Bill. What could he prove if he did go? And to say she had committed a felony—it was ridiculous!

But if he should go to Bill she would lie. Lie to the last breath! Oh, God, if only she had never become tangled in such a mesh of lies! The truth seemed so dreadful as Con put it. How could she account to Bill for her silence during all those weeks when he had hesitated to ask her to marry him because he believed they were related? Bill would find that harder to forgive than anything. Keeping the knowledge of Madeline's death a secret [illegible] too. It did make it look as though she wanted to inherit the farm. It had been glib and easy to say she would insist on the old man's will being changed, but how could she go about doing it?

She couldn't ask Grandfather if he had left everything to her. What would he think if she did? And he would expect explanations if she asked him to make Bill his heir. What explanations could she offer?

Her head was burning but her [illegible] were slowly freezing into ice. Her eyes and cheeks stung and she felt slightly giddy. The car skidded and she almost lost control of the wheel. When the danger was over she found herself sobbing hysterically.

She realized that she must pick her way carefully. It was impossible to see the road because of the snow and there was no path or wheel ruts to guide her.

She became so intent on driving, listening to the warning knock in the engine, that it wasn't until she had passed the Adams house that she remembered she was supposed to have gone there to see a sick baby. There was no time to stop now.

WHY WOMEN BUY

Asked why women like to buy, a prominent clubwoman explained, "We buy because we just can't help it. We buy as naturally as we breathe. And because we enjoy buying we're really efficient buyers, getting full value for every dollar spent."

"Full value"... this is why countless women enjoy buying S&W Mellow'd Coffee. They realize that other coffees may sell for more but no coffee is worth more than S&W. It is delicious everytime because it is MELLOW'D. Expect much from every cup.

J. W. CRILL TELLS STAND ON ISSUES

GARDEN GROVE, June 22.—Expressing his support of local option, long time planning, organization programs and relief of the unemployed through worthwhile projects, John W. Crill, of Garden Grove, candidate for supervisor in this second district, addressed the Garden Grove Unemployed association this week.

Crill also answered questions propounded from the floor by the 40 members in attendance, clarifying the issues of the day in county affairs and affirming his stand upon them.

The speaker said he had lived in Orange county 23 years and believed strongly in organization efforts for betterment, such as the farm bureau, in which he has been active for many years, the unemployed self-help organizations, and others. Most abuses can be traced to individual action and not to collective action, he said.

Crill will speak at the commissary at Westminster this evening at 8 o'clock, it was announced.

Mrs. E. M. Cooper Entertains Group

FULLERTON, June 22.—Mrs. E. M. Cooper was hostess to members of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church at the Cooper beach home, 111 Crystal avenue, Balboa Island, Thursday.

The subject was "West India and the Philippines," and leaders were Mrs. Clara Kerr and Miss Minnie Morse. Mrs. Switzler led in a discussion of stewardship.

LEGION, LIONS, ENJOY PROGRAM BY SEA SCOUTS

ORANGE, June 22.—The Orange troop of Sea Scouts provided the program last night for the local American Legion post meeting, at which special guests were members of the lions club. Similar invitations will likely be extended to other local civic organizations in the future to participate in the Legion meetings.

In the short business meeting of the post, plans were made for the annual dinner given to Orange National Guardsmen the evening of their entrainment for summer camp, which this year will be July 7. A social time and suitable refreshments followed presentation of the Sea Scout program, which was in charge of First Mate Jack Rasch.

Carl Davis, officer of the deck, gave a short talk on the various types of ships; Seamen Charles Austin and Herbert Aebersold gave a demonstration of life saving; Seaman Homer Aebersold told of the outdoor activities of the Sea Scouts, sailing rates, cruisers, etc., and Seaman Burbridge told of the indoor meeting of the troop.

A Court of Honor was in charge of Skipper Merle Wilson, when various badges and certificates were awarded to the Scouts. Jack Rasch was given his commission as first mate, while Bert Hudson and George Bickford received their certificates as ship's committeemen.

Merit badges, denoting proficiency in swimming, life saving, cooking, electricity, firemanship, personal help, reading, seamanship, textiles and many other activities of the Sea Scout organization, were presented by Commander George Bickford of the Legion post to the following Scouts: Jack Rasch, Merle Wilson, Carl Davis, Norman Burbridge, Chester Caplen, Vernon Worden, Herbert Aebersold, Homer Aebersold and Charles Austin. Other Scouts participating in the program included LaVerne Rees and Paul Davis.

J. W. CRILL TELLS STAND ON ISSUES

GARDEN GROVE, June 22.—Expressing his support of local option, long time planning, organization programs and relief of the unemployed through worthwhile projects, John W. Crill, of Garden Grove, candidate for supervisor in this second district, addressed the Garden Grove Unemployed association this week.

Crill also answered questions propounded from the floor by the 40 members in attendance, clarifying the issues of the day in county affairs and affirming his stand upon them.

The speaker said he had lived in Orange county 23 years and believed strongly in organization efforts for betterment, such as the farm bureau, in which he has been active for many years, the unemployed self-help organizations, and others. Most abuses can be traced to individual action and not to collective action, he said.

Crill will speak at the commissary at Westminster this evening at 8 o'clock, it was announced.

Mrs. E. M. Cooper Entertains Group

FULLERTON, June 22.—Mrs. E. M. Cooper was hostess to members of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church at the Cooper beach home, 111 Crystal avenue, Balboa Island, Thursday.

The subject was "West India and the Philippines," and leaders were Mrs. Clara Kerr and Miss Minnie Morse. Mrs. Switzler led in a discussion of stewardship.

Mrs. J. P. LaRue presided. The next meeting will be held at Newport Beach at the home of Mrs Graham C. Hunter.

W. C. T. U. TO MEET

ORANGE, June 22.—There will be a meeting of the W. C. T. U. Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the women's parlor of the First Presbyterian church. The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Minnie Neville, president.

LEGION, LIONS, ENJOY PROGRAM BY SEA SCOUTS

ORANGE, June 22.—The Orange troop of Sea Scouts provided the program last night for the local American Legion post meeting, at which special guests were members of the lons club. Similar invitations will likely be extended to other local civic organizations in the future to participate in the Legion meetings.

In the short business meeting of the post, plans were made for the annual dinner given to Orange National Guardsmen the evening of their entrainment for summer camp, which this year will be July 7. A social time and suitable refreshments followed presentation of the Sea Scout program, which was in charge of First Mate Jack Rasch.

Carl Davis, officer of the deck, gave a short talk on the various types of ships; Seamen Charles Austin and Herbert Aebersold gave a demonstration of life saving; Seaman Homer Aebersold told of the outdoor activities of the Sea Scouts, sailing rates, cruisers, etc., and Seaman Burbridge told of the indoor meeting of the troop.

A Court of Honor was in charge of Skipper Merle Wilson, when various badges and certificates were awarded to the Scouts. Jack Rasch was given his commission as first mate, while Bert Hudson and George Bickford received their certificates as ship's committeemen.

Merit badges, denoting proficiency in swimming, life saving, cooking, electricity, firemanship, personal help, reading, seamanship, textiles and many other activities of the Sea Scout organization, were presented by Commander George Bickford of the Legion post to the following Scouts: Jack Rasch, Merle Wilson, Carl Davis, Norman Burbridge, Chester Caplen, Vernon Worden, Herbert Aebersold, Homer Aebersold and Charles Austin. Other Scouts participating in the program included LaVerne Rees and Paul Davis.

ORANGE, June 22.—Motion picture reels, showing the life and customs of people in the South Sea islands, were shown by John C. Tuffree, of Placentia, at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Orange Rotary club, held Thursday noon in the American Legion clubhouse. Of interest were the many ancient temples and shrines pictured in Java.

ORANGE PERSONALS

ORANGE, June 22.—J. C. Belton, of Los Angeles, was a business visitor in Orange Thursday.

Members of the Trinity guild of the Trinity Episcopal church will be entertained Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Walter Thomason, of Garden Grove. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 2 p. m.

The book of the Romans will be the topic of the Bible class of the Walther league of the Immanuel church which will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the social hall. The study will be led by the Rev. A. G. Webbeking, pastor. A topical study, "Church Work," will also be discussed.

The Rev. A. G. Webbeking, pastor of the Immanuel Lutheran church, and W. Mathis will represent the local church at a Lutheran convention to be held in Anaheim beginning Sunday.

Cecil Courtney, of El Centro, son of Mrs. Angeline Courtney, of 273 South Lemon street, spent Wednesday and Thursday in Orange.

PRESENT SKIT AT MEETING OF CHURCH CLASS

ORANGE, June 22.—A pleasant afternoon was shared Thursday by members of the Loyal Women's Sunday school class of the First Christian church when they met in the women's parlor of the church for their monthly party. Mrs. Margaret Moose and Mrs Charles Pulley were co-hostesses for the delightful occasion.

During a short business meeting, conducted by Mrs. V. A. Wood, class persident, devotionals were led by Mrs. Franklin Minck, while Mrs. Grace Strickland led group singing. Tentative plans for a picnic to be held in the Anaheim park during August were made.

A violin and piano duet was offered by Miss Lola June Ditchey and Miss Dorothy Windbigler, while two readings, "The Motto Church" and "My Mother's Bible," were interpreted by Mrs. Louise Gillian. Miss Georgia Lee Hicks, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dayton Ditchey, played a group of violin solos. "A Bargain Sale" was read by Miss Anna Granger, after which Miss Pauline Johnson and Miss Mary Moose presented several vocal solos. They were accompanied by Mrs. Neleta Wolfe at the piano.

A skit, "The Nut Party," was presented by a group of members, followed by three readings given by Eldon Winters. Mrs. Hager, accompnaied at the piano by her son, Ben Hager, offered a number of vocal selections, after which Mrs. Grace Strickland presented a short play, "The Magic Box," with 10 members of the class.

At the close of the meeting refreshments of cake and punch were served by the committee.

Vivid Stories of N.C.A.A. TRACK CLASSIC by BILL HENRY and BRAVEN DYER

The greatest track event since the Olympic games—the largest aggregation of college stars ever assembled on a single cinder path—the most determined assault ever launched against time and distance! That's the meet in a nutshell—and Bill Henry and Braven Dyer, The Times' two brilliant writers and able track and field authorities, will pool their efforts to bring you a flashing visualization of every stellar performance and every nip-and-tuck finish.

REGENERATION!

A short, three-part novel begins in the Sunday Magazine—It's an appealing and swiftly-moving romance of a modern girl who thought life was a joke and the world a comical whirligig—until she found love. It's written by Edgar C. Armes, a new author you'll be more than glad to meet.

"WE CAN WHIP CRIME!"

—says August Vollmer, famous criminologist—The footsteps of girls who hitchhike over the world are followed by Barbara Miller—A trip through our laboratory for wayward youth is conducted by Chapin Hall—That you may know both sides of the question, Frank H. Simonds lets you look at Asia through Japanese eyes—and that's only a smattering of the interesting features now being written for your Sunday morning reading pleasure.

Another New Feature Begins Next Monday in The Times

"MOTHER, WHAT CAN I DO?"

The friendly little column of this title will each day suggest healthy, independent and educational interests for the children during the long vacation days ahead—giving mothers a relief from the worry of having to keep the youngsters continually amused and out of mischief—It is written in children's language for youngsters from five to thirteen.

LIFE OF THE NEW CHAMPION

Maxie Baer Believes 'Little Voice' Guides Him

MAY RULE ROOST LONG TIME

By RONALD WAGONER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. — In a rough and tumble personal battle, Max Baer probably could swing Napoleon Bonaparte by the heels and toss him, in the mashion of an Irish hammer thrower, clear out of Madison Square Garden.

Were it possible for Baer and Napoleon to meet each other in a conflict of artillery, foot soldiers and a dashing cavalry, the odds would be heavily in favor of the late emperor.

But in one respect, the two men were alike. Napoleon possessed and Max possesses a consuming belief in an intangible called destiny.

Napoleon frequently was heard to speak of his "star of destiny." Even in his most humble days as a Corsican lieutenant, he was sure this star would guide him to great power.

The new heavyweight champion of the world speaks of a "little voice" that whispers to him. After bitter disappointments in his early career, this voice would say to Max: "Never mind, you are going to be heavyweight champion."

The voice was unusually clear in Reno, Nev., July 4, 1931, when Jack Dempsey scolded Max and called him a bum because of the way Max allowed Paulino Uzcudun to beat hi mto a decision because he didn't want his face marred for his marriage next day to Dorothy Dunbar.

The little voice was right. Max did become champ by whipping Primo Carnera, the huge Italian. Then the little voice told Max not to worry because he will be champion fo ra long, long time.

So Max knows he can be carefree and gay because the little voice will care for him and watch over him.

Waterloo came to Napoleon as it surely will some day to Max.

But those high in fistic circles say that Art Lasky, Walter Nuesel, the German; Steve Hamas, the collegian; Max Schmelling, who Max knocked out; or even poor old lame Primo, would not stand a chance at present against the flailing fists and concrete jaw of Mexie. And they are the leading contenders unless a dark horse pops up. So the little voice and Max never think about Waterloo.

Dolph Thomas, who trained Baer in the latter part of his grind for Carnera, came back to San Francisco believing Max would be on the top of the fistic heap for a long time.

"There isn't an outstanding challenger at present who figures to give him a fight," said Thomas. "That guy's going to hold the title much longer than many fans believe. He's a natural fighter. And what an actor."

Thomas said Baer was not a hard man to train because he possessed such a great physique.

"If he had trained for two weeks more he couldn't have been in better condition for Primo," said Thomas.

PLAY FIRST OF 'DONKEY-BALL' TILTS TONIGHT

"He-Haw!"

That means "Play Ball" in the Municipal Bowl at 8 o'clock tonight.

Politicians battle Townies in the first of the two donkey-baseball tussles involving Santa Ana teams. Sciots meet Elks Saturday at the same hour. Both are sponsored by Pyramid No. 41 of Sciots and Lodge No. 794 of Elks.

Games are played on the night ball diamond, all players being mounted on movie mules except pitcher, catcher and batter. Each batter, on making a hit, will leap astride his more or less sympathetic donkey in an effort to make the circuit of bases. Players on the defense can dismount to make a catch but must not throw the ball for a putout until remounted.

Tonight's lineups include some of the county's most prominent citizens: Earl R. Abbey, Logan Jackson, W. E. Williams, B. Z. McKinney, Hunter Leach, Sam Jernigan, W. C. Jerome, Floyd Howard, W. K. Hillyard, Lloyd Banks, J. H. Nicholson, Charles Mitchell, Larry Golden, Franklin G. West, W. A. Gordon, Charles D. Swanner, Carson Smith, Harold Brown, C. M. Derden, William Garvin, Don Jerome and "Red" Angell.

Committeemen today made public the names of players in tomorrow night's match:

Elks—R. E. Walker, p; K. Miller, c; W. R. Gordon, 1b; H. R. Brown, 2b; W. Garvin, 3b; Earl Abbey, ss; Jesse Elliott, lf; S. B. Kaufman, cf; V. L. Motry, rf; Don Jerome, Fred Ross, Parke S. Roper, Luke Miller, E. R. Majors, Joe Steele, substitutes.

Sciots—C. M. Derden, Wallie Kaufman, Ora Jennings, Claude McDowell, Dr. C. V. Doty, Dr. G. O. Grover, Henry Walker, J. E. Walker, Walter Wright, Ed Morrie, Ray Graham, Wayne Jaco, Ed Allen, Earl Livdig, H. C. Dale and Ralph Jones.

Captains request players to report at 7:30.

FUN A-FISHIN'

Steelhead trout, the fish Zane Grey made famous, needs little advertising.

His genealogy still a moot question among ichthyologists, the steelhead generally is accepted as the father of the rainbow trout. That is, steelhead, once landlocked, turns rainbow hue within the second generation.

Entering coastal streams en route to spawning grounds from the Pacific ocean, the steelhead is a terrific battler and a tackle smasher.

In size he runs from a half-pound to 25 pounds, striking a general average of from six to 14 pounds, depending on where taken.

When the steelhead first enters fresh water from the Pacific he is a brilliant silvery color with a blue-black line running down the back. After a short time away from the ocean, however, he assumes rainbow coloring.

In the famous Rogue and Umpqua rivers of Oregon he rises readily to a fly, farther north in Oregon salmon eggs and spinners most frequently are used as lures. The Klamath river in northern California also affords fine fly casting for steelhead.

The fly fisherman uses a nine to 10-foot regulation trout rod with a lot of "backbone," 30 yards of "V" taper line and at least 50 yards of linen "backing."

A wary fish, it is generally necessary to lay out at least 80 feet of line on the cast before the steelhead will rise. His first rush, reel screaming, generally takes out 150 feet before his rush is stopped.

FIERMONTE RETIRES FROM RING ACTION

Tonight's Games

Santa Ana at Westminster; Fullerton at Torrance; Huntington Beach at Long Beach.

Still struggling for a place high in the National league's first-half standings, Santa Ana invades the new Westminster ball park tonight for one of its last three starts.

The game is really of more importance to Westminster than Santa Ana. The Stars are all but out of the race, due to their recent defeat by Huntington Beach, but Westminster is only a step out of the lead and still a contender. Westminster's hopes would be considerably dimmed, however, if the Stars slip over a win while Huntington Beach is scoring what should be a fairly easy decision at Long Beach.

Santa Ana beat Westminster the last time the clubs tangled, but in a ding-dong engagement that went 14 innings before "Eeny" Wilcox, Jim Coates and Tom Denney bunched hits that broke it up.

Coates, who has been hurling high class ball for the club all season, will do the Stars' pitching, Manager Bill Cole said. Wilcox is expected home from the north today in time to resume his activities behind the log. "Bomo" Koral will be Coates' battery-mate if Wilcox isn't. No changes are planned in the Santa Ana lineup although the club as a whole has been in a prolonged batting slump, only Denney, Wilcox and George Preble coming anywhere near offensive expectations. Coates adds a punch to the list when he is in the game.

"Fuzzy" Errington undoubtedly will toil for Westminster, which is being managed by "Tuffy" Tyrrell and Les Haserot during George Lackaye's absence in the east. Ray Hapes will catch, with Ray Hodgson at first base, "Doc" Smith second, Cecil Sauers third, Haserot short, and Floyd Montgomery, Leavitt Daley and Dave Webb in the field.

Anaheim today remained a strong contender for National league championship laurels after defeating Olive, 10-5, at Olive last night.

The Packers got off in front, scoring three times in the first inning and another in the second, but Anaheim drove Paul Watson to cover in the third when it made five runs. Olive stayed in the ball game until the ninth when Anaheim put over three more. The Valencias gathered 18 hits off Watson and Heman. The box score:

Shields And Wood Reach Final Round

LONDON, June 22.—(UP)—Frank Shields of New York reached the final round of the annual Queen's club tennis tourney today by defeatin, George Lott of Chicago, 6-3, 6-4.

Sidney Wood of New York joined Shields in the final round by besting the towering Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, 3-6, 18-16, 6-3.

Both men's singles matches were marked by squabbling over decisions. The disputes were most heated during the Shields-Lott encounter. At one time Lott and Shields advanced to the umpire and told him, "If you can't see the shots, ask us and we will tell you what is right."

During the Wood-Stoefen match the umpire became offended at the players' criticism. He climbed from his official seat mid-way in the second set and "resigned." He was replaced.

Dorothy Andrus Burke of Stamford, Conn., reached the women's finals by defeating Mrs. B. H. Molesworth of Australia, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Four teams—Fullerton, Orange, Brea, and Long Beach—were all tied for first place in the Orange County Night league today as an aftermath of two startling upsets last night.

Anaheim and Irvine, a couple of second-division clubs, contributed the surprises. Anaheim routed Fullerton, 12 to 2, and Irvine shutout Orange, 2-0. Fullerton and Orange had been tied for the lead.

Brea beat Huntington Beach and Long Beach won from Olive, 3-1, thanks to two homers by Pitcher Foster, the second coming with one aboard.

Irvine scored in the fifth and seventh to turn back Orange. The box score:

TILDEN TENNIS TOUR FINACIAL FAILURE

BOSTON, June 21.—(UP)—The current East-Midwest tour of Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and the lesser lights of professional tennis will wind up "in the red" unless other cities show more interest than Boston.

Net receipts for the troupe during their week-long appearance at Longwood totaled $648. Of this Vines received $117, Tilden $70, Keith Gledhill $65, and the other troupers correspondingly smaller sums. For the Tilden-Vines final on Saturday there were less than 300 paid admissions.

But Bill O'Brien, general manager of the touring tennisers, was not disillusioned. He realizes, he said, that only indoor professional tennis will pay, and if the current outdoor exhibitions continue to flop he may halt them within a few weeks.

O'Brien claimed that he could sign any present amateur star in the country with the exception of Sidney B. Wood. "It may be Fred Perry of England, or Jack Crawford of Australia, or Frank Shields or Lester Stoefen next winter—

LOPEZ AWARDED DECISION OVER PADDY GUILLEN

The district's boxing clientele today reviewed with mingled emotions last night's developments at the Orange County Athletic club, where Leo Lopez was awarded a judges' decision over Paddy Guillen, and Paul Garcia got the nod over Bill Wana in a double main event.

Both verdicts were vigorously disputed and duly protested. Many, including Referee Steve Nyland, thought Wana was a conclusive winner over Garcia. Others believed Guillen, who waged an offensive fight, had outpointed the faster Lopez.

Matchmaker "Bud" Rutledge promised to see what could be done about rematching the men in an effort to please all parties involved. There seemed to be enough variety of opinion to warrant return engagements.

'Tunney Fight' Wins

Lopez waged a "Tunney fight" against hard-hitting little Guillen. Jabbing with lightning left just enough to keep Guillen off balance, Lopez would follow with a long right and then fade away from the exasperated Paddy's wild punches, which might have ended the bout had they reached vulnerable spots.

Lopez's superior boxing ability impressed the judges and most of the fans, although there were those who thought Guillen entitled to a better deal because of his unquestioned aggressiveness. All rounds were close, and only added to the confusion in scoring.

Garcia's victory over Westminster's Wana was booed lustily, perhaps with some virtue. Paul boxed beautifully but Wana did the real fighting. Garcia spoiled an otherwise flawless defensive exhibition by continual clinching, keeping Referee Nyland busy breaking them apart. Press row differed on this one too, some scribes figuring Garcia won four rounds and others spotting four for Wana. So it must have been even.

The judges also disagreed on the outcome of the semi-final, one stringing with Art Blanco and the other with Jack Curley. Nyland cast the deciding vote for Curley who really had a decisive edge.

Keup Technical Victor

Norman Keup, Anaheim, got credit for a technical knockdown over Julian Estrada who claimed he had broken his arm and refused to come out for the third round. An examining physician said Estrada's arm was not injured, so Estrada was disqualified.

Bounced to the floor twice, Don Benzor of Anaheim lost a decision to Fred Alvarez, who had an eight-pound weight pull. "Baby Face" Romeriez was down twice, too, but finished fast to beat Gil Rivers to a disputed decision. Al Garcia beat Art Hernandez decisively, Hernandez running most of the time. Frank Barago floored Fred Cerda twice, won easily. Gene Ogall, Westminster Filipino, took what looked suspiciously like a dive before Ben Esparez in the second round. A couple of waltzers, Babe Rosales and Lupe Cordovia, opened the show with the Babe getting the nod.

Next week's card will be moved ahead from Thursday night to Wednesday afternoon, Wednesday being the Fourth of July. The Ebony club's all-colored squad will be here for the occasion.

Rosenbloom Toils For Ramage Scrap

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, champion light heavyweight boxer, and Lee Ramage today took vigorous workouts in preparation for their bout here next Tuesday night at the Olympic stadium.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 21.—(UP)—Frankie Klick, lightweight contender from California who meets Tony Canzoneri, former champion, next Wednesday, has been given ring pointers by Willie Ritchie, former leightweight champion, in his training here.

Santa Ana City league baseball authorities today had before them the season's first official protest, filed by the Santa Ana Elks' team which last night lost a 3-2 game at the Municipal Bowl to the Union Oil company.

The Elks alleged that Lloyd Lichtenwalter, the Oilers' premier pitcher, is ineligible to play in the City league because of his appearance in the lineup of the Long Beach club of the National Night league June 12.

Lichtenwalter toiled for the Union Oilers against the Elks, shading Claude Gregory in an overtime pitcher's battle. The Elks tied the score in the last of the seventh when Wright tripled with two away, scoring Schwarm, but the Oilers won in a couple of extra innings. Wrigley opened the ninth by drawing a walk. He went to second on a wild pitch and tallied on Catcher Ojeda's wild throw.

The Twenty-Thirty club beat Weber's Baking company in an 8-2 preliminary. The Bakers got both their runs in the first, Joe Cornelius hurling shutout ball after coming into the conflict in the second. Cornelius drove in the 20-30 club's tying runs with a triple in the fourth, after which the clubmen made four in the fifth without a hit, and added a a couple more in the sixth.

Davidson, Army's Grid Coach, Weds

OMAHA, Neb., June 22.—(UP)—Lieutenant Garrison H. Davidson, head coach of the Army football team, and Miss Verone Gruenther Omaha debutante, were married at a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Gruenther, here, yesterday.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a two weeks' honeymoon in California, following which they will return to West Point, where Garrison is an aide to Gen. W. D. Connor.

Marathon Golf Player Sets World Record

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 22.—(UP)—Robert (Chief) Coy held a golfing record today that the Sarazens, Jones and Hagens probably wouldn't care to equal. He played 314 holes of golf in the 24 hours between 8 p. m. Wednesday and 8 p. m. Thursday.

Capturing the previous marathon record of 306 holes from Robert Swanson of Los Angeles, Coy wasn't even tired at the finish. To prove it he bent a five-foot heavy steel bar into a figure 8 and bent double a half-inch bolt. He capped his ironman performance by driving a 20-penny nail through an inch board with his bare hands.

Twenty caddies with flashlights made it possible for Coy to play golf all night. A large crowd of spectators helped him find the balls.

He walked 75 miles and swunk his club more than 1600 times. Occasionally he paused for a glass of chocolate milk.

OFFER $50,000 FOR BIG RACE ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Fifty thousand dollars for a race between Equipoise, Cavalcade and Sun Beau was the tempting offer reveoled today by Bill Kyne, turf promoter, as a feature for the opening of Bay Meadows, new track being built near San Mateo.

Kyne, here for a brief visit, said he would go East soon to invite personally owners of the three famous horses to run a three-way race at the track this fall.

Elder Injured In Fresno Bike Race

FRESNO, June 22. —(UP)—Lloyd ("Sprouts") Elder, recognized as the world's motorcycle race champion, was injured last night in a collision during a race here.

Machines ridden by Elder and Sam Arena collided. Elder received fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

QUARTER-MILE FEATURE RACE OF NCAA MEET

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—The 13th annual NCAA championships, featuring the greatest gatherings of track and field stars since the 1932 Olympics, opened today with 319 athletes from 88 colleges and universities competing for honors.

Weather conditions were close to perfect so it was expected that the trials this afternoon would report marks to insure world's records in many events in the finals tomorrow.

Chief interest centered in Louisiana State, Stanford and Southern California for they were bunched closely for team honors, and certain to finish one-two-three.

The fans that swarmed the Coliseum, site of the last Olympiad, were interested most in the contests in the 440, the mile and the shot put.

440 Promises Thrills

These events promised the most thrills, the probable turning points of the team title and, perhaps, new world records.

Excepting unforeseen accident, sure to qualify in the 440 were Glenn Hardin, Louisiana State, defending NCAA champion; Jimmy Luvalle, U. C. L. A.; Ivan Fuqua, Indiana, who finished second to Hardin last year at Chicago but later beat him in a dual meet; Al Blackman, Stanford, and John McCarthy and Ed Ablowich, Southern California.

Upon their respective abilities to work their way into the finals depended, to a great extent, their team's chances for meet honors. Hardin, granting always that he does not trip in the trials, was favored to win the final Saturday although it was conceded both Luvalle and Fuqua have good chances to beat him. Should Hardin lose the 440 then either Stanford or Southern California might easily slip through to defeat Louisiana State.

In the mile, were those three great distance men—Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, Bill Bonthron of Princeton and Gee Venzke of Pennsylvania. All were conceded the ability to finish one-two-three in the finals.

Webster May Turn Meet

Southern California had Fersis Webster in the mile and hoped he capture a fourth place. Since Louis-

LIFE OF THE NEW CHAMPION

Maxie Baer Believes 'Little Voice' Guides Him

MAY RULE ROOST LONG TIME

By RONALD WAGONER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. — In a rough and tumble personal battle, Max Baer probably could swing Napoleon Bonaparte by the heels and toss him, in the mashion of an Irish hammer thrower, clear out of Madison Square Garden.

Were it possible for Baer and Napoleon to meet each other in a conflict of artillery, foot soldiers and a dashing cavalry, the odds would be heavily in favor of the late emperor.

But in one respect, the two men were alike. Napoleon possessed and Max possesses a consuming belief in an intangible called destiny.

Napoleon frequently was heard to speak of his "star of destiny." Even in his most humble days as a Corsican lieutenant, he was sure this star would guide him to great power.

The new heavyweight champion of the world speaks of a "little voice" that whispers to him. After bitter disappointments in his early career, this voice would say to Max: "Never mind, you are going to be heavyweight champion."

The voice was unusually clear in Reno, Nev., July 4, 1931, when Jack Dempsey scolded Max and called him a bum because of the way Max allowed Paulino Uzcudun to beat hi mto a decision because he didn't want his face marred for his marriage next day to Dorothy Dunbar.

The little voice was right. Max did become champ by whipping Primo Carnera, the huge Italian.

Then the little voice told Max not to worry because he will be champion fo ra long, long time.

So Max knows he can be carefree and gay because the little voice will care for him and watch over him.

Waterloo came to Napoleon as it surely will some day to Max.

But those high in fistic circles say that Art Lasky, Walter Nuesel, the German; Steve Hamas, the collegian; Max Schmelling, who Max knocked out; or even poor old lame Primo, would not stand a chance at present against the flailing fists and concrete jaw of Mexie. And they are the leading contenders unless a dark horse pops up. So the little voice and Max never think about Waterloo.

Dolph Thomas, who trained Baer in the latter part of his grind for Carnera, came back to San Francisco believing Max would be on the top of the fistic heap for a long time.

"There isn't an outstanding challenger at present who figures to give him a fight," said Thomas. "That guy's going to hold the title much longer than many fans believe. He's a natural fighter. And what an actor."

Thomas said Baer was not a hard man to train because he possessed such a great physique.

"If he had trained for two weeks more he couldn't have been in better condition for Primo," said Thomas.

Tonight's Games

Santa Ana at Westminster; Fullerton at Torrance; Huntington Beach at Long Beach.

Still struggling for a place high in the National league's first-half standings, Santa Ana invades the new Westminster ball park tonight for one of its last three starts.

The game is really of more importance to Westminster than Santa Ana. The Stars are all but out of the race, due to their recent defeat by Huntington Beach, but Westminster is only a step out of the lead and still a contender. Westminster's hopes would be considerably dimmed, however, if the Stars slip over a win while Huntington Beach is scoring what should be a fairly easy decision at Long Beach.

Santa Ana beat Westminster the last time the clubs tangled, but in a ding-dong engagement that went 14 innings before "Eeny" Wilcox, Jim Coates and Tom Denney bunched hits that broke it up.

Coates, who has been hurling high class ball for the club all season, will do the Stars' pitching, Manager Bill Cole said. Wilcox is expected home from the north today in time to resume his activities behind the log. "Bomo" Koral will be Coates' battery-mate if Wilcox isn't. No changes are planned in the Santa Ana lineup although the club as a whole has been in a prolonged batting slump, only Denney, Wilcox and George Preble coming anywhere near offensive expectations. Coates adds a punch to the list when he is in the game.

"Fuzzy" Errington undoubtedly will toil for Westminster, which is being managed by "Tuffy" Tyrrell and Les Haserot during George Lackaye's absence in the east. Ray Hapes will catch, with Ray Hodgson at first base, "Doc" Smith second, Cecil Sauers third, Haserot short, and Floyd Montgomery, Leavitt Daley and Dave Webb in the field.

Anaheim today remained a strong contender for National league championship laurels after defeating Olive, 10-5, at Olive last night.

The Packers got off in front, scoring three times in the first inning and another in the second, but Anaheim drove Paul Watson to cover in the third when it made five runs. Olive stayed in the ball game until the ninth when Anaheim put over three more. The Valencias gathered 18 hits off Watson and Heman. The box score:

Garcia spoiled an otherwise flawless defensive exhibition by continual clinching, keeping Referee Nyland busy breaking them apart. Press row differed on this one too, some scribes figuring Garcia won four rounds and others spotting four for Wana. So it must have been even.

The judges also disagreed on the outcome of the semi-final, one stringing with Art Blanco and the other with Jack Curley. Nyland cast the deciding vote for Curley who really had a decisive edge.

Keup Technical Victor

Norman Keup, Anaheim, got credit for a technical knockdown over Julian Estrada who claimed he had broken his arm and refused to come out for the third round. An examining physician said Estrada's arm was not injured, so Estrada was disqualified.

Bounced to the floor twice, Don Benzor of Anaheim lost a decision to Fred Alvarez, who had an eight-pound weight pull. "Baby Face" Romeriez was down twice, too, but finished fast to beat Gil Rivers to a disputed decision. Al Garcia beat Art Hernandez decisively, Hernandez running most of the time. Frank Barago floored Fred Cerda twice, won easily. Gene Ogali, Westminster Filipino, took what looked suspiciously like a dive before Ben Esparez in the second round. A couple of waltzers, Babe Rosales and Lupe Cordovia, opened the show with the Babe getting the nod.

Next week's card will be moved ahead from Thursday night to Wednesday afternoon, Wednesday being the Fourth of July. The Ebony club's all-colored squad will be here for the occasion.

ELKS PROTEST GAME LOST TO UNION OILERS

Santa Ana City league baseball authorities today had before them the season's first official protest, filed by the Santa Ana Elks' team which last night lost a 3-2 game at the Municipal Bowl to the Union Oil company.

The Elks alleged that Lloyd Lichtenwalter, the Oilers' premier pitcher, is ineligible to play in the City league because of his appearance in the lineup of the Long Beach club of the National Night league June 12.

Lichtenwalter toiled for the Union Oilers against the Elks, shading Claude Gregory in an overtime pitcher's battle. The Elks tied the score in the last of the seventh when Wright tripled with two away, scoring Schwarm, but the Oilers won in a couple of extra innings. Wrigley opened the ninth by drawing a waik. He went to second on a wild pitch and tallied on Catcher Ojeda's wild throw.

The Twenty-Thirty club beat Weber's Baking company in an 8-2 preliminary. The Bakers got both their runs in the first, Joe Cornelius hurling shutout ball after coming into the conflict in the second. Cornelius drove in the 20-30 club's tying runs with a triple in the fourth, after which the clubmen made four in the fifth without a hit, and added a couple more in the sixth.

Rosenbloom Toils For Ramage Scrap

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, champion light heavyweight boxer, and Lee Ramage today took vigorous workouts in preparation for their bout here next Tuesday night at the Olympic stadium.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., June 21.—(UP)—Frankie Klick, lightweight contender from California who meets Tony Canzoneri, former champion, next Wednoesday, has been given ring pointers by Willie Ritchie, former leightweight champion, in his training here.

GOLF CLUB WOMEN ANNOUNCE OFFICERS

Officers to guide women golfers of the Santa Ana Country club through the next year were announced today.

Mrs. J. L. McFadden was elected captain of the golf team, Mrs. Hugh Shields was made general tournament director, Mrs. L. H. Robinson, handicap chairman, and Mrs. Don Andrews, publicity manager. Mrs. Ludy Schaffer will be in charge of the "B" team, Mrs. Charles Cogan the "C" team.

Results of Thursday's low ball foursomes: Mrs. G. B. Talbert, Mrs. H. W. Overmier, Mrs. F. C. Drumm and Mrs. L. W. Robbins, 86-21-65, rst; Mrs. E. B. Van Meter, Miss Lolita Mead, Mrs. W. F. Kistinger and Mrs. L. J. Bushard, 85-18-67, second.

Winners of the 54-hole tournament, completed yesterday: Lolita Mead, low gross, 269: Mrs. G. B. Talbert, low net, 269-48-221.

Davidson, Army's Grid Coach, Weds

OMAHA, Neb., June 22.—(UP)—Lieutenant Garrison H. Davidson, head coach of the Army football team, and Miss Verone Gruenther Omaha debutante, were married at a quiet ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. C. M. Gruenther, here, yesterday.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a two weeks' honeymoon in California, following which they will return to West Point, where Garrison is an aide to Gen. W. D. Connor.

Marathon Golf Player Sets World Record

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 22.—(UP)—Robert (Chief) Coy held a golfing record today that the Sarazens, Jones and Hagens probably wouldn't care to equal. He played 314 holes of golf in the 24 hours between 8 p. m. Wednesday and 8 p. m. Thursday.

Capturing the previous marathon record of 306 holes from Robert Swanson of Los Angeles, Coy wasn't even tired at the finish. To prove it he bent a five-foot heavy steel bar into a figure 8 and bent double a half-inch bolt. He capped his ironman performance by driving a 20-penny nail through an inch board with his bare hands.

Twenty caddies with flashlights made it possible for Coy to play golf all night. A large crowd of spectators helped him find the balls.

He walked 75 miles and swunk his club more than 1600 times. Occasionally he paused for a glass of chocolate milk.

OFFER $50,000 FOR BIG RACE ON COAST

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Fifty thousand dollars for a race between Equipoise, Cavalcade and Sun Beau was the tempting offer reveoled today by Bill Kyne, turf promoter, as a feature for the opening of Bay Meadows, new track being built near San Mateo.

Kyne, here for a brief visit, said he would go East soon to invite personally owners of the three famous horses to run a three-way race at the track this fall.

Elder Injured In Fresno Bike Race

FRESNO, June 22. —(UP)—Lloyd ("Sprouts") Elder, recognized as the world's motorcycle race champion, was injured last night in a collision during a race here.

Machines ridden by Elder and Sam Arena collided. Elder received fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

QUARTER-MILE FEATURE RACE OF NCAA MEET

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—The 13th annual NCAA championships, featuring the greatest gatherings of track and field stars since the 1932 Olympics, opened today with 319 athletes from 88 colleges and universities competing for honors.

Weather conditions were close to perfect so it was expected that the trials this afternoon would report marks to insure world's records in many events in the finals tomorrow.

Chief interest centered in Louisiana State, Stanford and Southern California for they were bunched closely for team honors, and certain to finish one-two-three.

The fans that swarmed the Coliseum, site of the last Olympiad, were interested most in the contests in the 440, the mile and the shot put.

440 Promises Thrills

These events promised the most thrills, the probable turning points of the team title and, perhaps, new world records.

Excepting unforeseen accident, sure to qualify in the 440 were Glenn Hardin, Louisiana State, defending NCAA champion; Jimmy Luvalle, U. C. L. A.; Ivan Fuqua, Indiana, who finished second to Hardin last year at Chicago but later beat him in a dual meet; Al Blackman, Stanford, and John McCarthy and Ed Ablowich, Southern California.

Upon their respective abilities to work their way into the finals depended, to a great extent, their team's chances for meet honors. Hardin, granting always that he does not trip in the trials, was favored to win the final Saturday although it was conceded both Luvalle and Fuqua have good chances to beat him. Should Hardin lose the 440 then either Stanford or Southern California might easily slip through to defeat Louisiana State.

In the mile, were those three great distance men—Glenn Cunningham, of Kansas, Bill Bonthron of Princeton and Gee Venzke of Pennsylvania. All were conceded the ability to finish one-two-three in the finals.

Webster May Turn Meet

Southern California had Fersis Webster in the mile and hoped he capture a fourth place. Since Louis-

PLAY FIRST OF 'DONKEY-BALL' TILTS TONIGHT

"He-Haw!"

That means "Play Ball" in the Municipal Bowl at 8 o'clock tonight.

Politicians battle Townies in the first of the two donkey-baseball tussles involving Santa Ana teams. Sciots meet Elks Saturday at the same hour. Both are sponsored by Pyramid No. 41 of Sciots and Lodge No. 794 of Elks.

Games are played on the night ball diamond, all players being mounted on movie mules except pitcher, catcher and batter. Each batter, on making a hit, will leap astride his more or less sympathetic donkey in an effort to make the circuit of bases. Players on the defense can dismount to make a catch but must not throw the ball for a putout until remounted.

Tonight's lineups include some of the county's most prominent citizens: Earl R. Abbey, Logan Jackson, W. B. Williams, B. Z. McKinney, Hunter Leach, Sam Jernigan, W. C. Jerome, Floyd Howard, W. K. Hillyard, Lloyd Banks, J. H. Nicholson, Charles Mitchell, Larry Golden, Franklin G. West, W. A. Gordon, Charles D. Swanner, Carson Smith, Harold Brown, C. M. Derden, William Garvin, Don Jerome and "Red" Angell.

Committeemen today made public the names of players in tomorrow night's match:

Elks—R. E. Walker, p; K. Miller, c; W. R. Gordon, 1b; H. R. Brown, 2b; W. Garvin, 3b; Earl Abbey, ss; Jesse Elliott, lf; S. B. Kaufman, cf; V. L. Motry, rf; Don Jerome, Fred Ross, Parke S. Roper, Luke Miller, E. R. Majors, Joe Steele, substitutes.

Sciots—C. M. Derden, Wallie Kaufman, Ora Jennings, Claude McDowell, Dr. C. V. Doty, Dr. G. O. Grover, Henry Walker, J. E. Walker, Walter Wright, Ed Morrie, Ray Graham, Wayne Jaco, Ed Allen, Earl Livdig, H. C. Dale and Ralph Jones.

Captains request players to report at 7:30.

FUN A-FISHIN'

Steelhead trout, the fish Zane Grey made famous, needs little advertising.

His genealogy still a moot question among ichthyologists, the steelhead generally is accepted as the father of the rainbow trout. That is, steelhead, once landlocked, turns rainbow hue within the second generation.

Entering coastal streams en route to spawning grounds from the Pacific ocean, the steelhead is a terrific battler and a tackle smasher.

In size he runs from a half-pound to 25 pounds, striking a general average of from six to 14 pounds, depending on where taken.

When the steelhead first enters fresh water from the Pacific he is a brilliant silvery color with a blue-black line running down the back. After a short time away from the ocean, however, he assumes rainbow coloring.

In the famous Rogue and Umpqua rivers of Oregon he rises readily to a fly, farther north in Oregon salmon eggs and spinners most frequently are used as lures. The Klamath river in northern California also affords fine fly casting for steelhead.

The fly fisherman uses a nine to 10-foot regulation trout rod with a lot of "backbone," 30 yards of "V" taper line and at least 50 yards of linen "backing."

A wary fish, it is generally necessary to lay out at least 80 feet of line on the cast before the steelhead will rise. His first rush, reel screaming, generally takes out 150 feet before his rush is stopped.

FIERMONTE RETIRES FROM RING ACTION

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

At last the Tinies heard a shout. "Don't knock so hard! Say, who is outside of this famous castle door, and what do you want here?"

"We're Tinymites," wee Scouty cried, "and we would like to come inside. We know how to behave ouselves, so there is naught to fear."

The door then was swung open wide. "Why, come right in," a strange man cried. "This is the palace of a king. A fine queen lives here, too.

"She's fond of youngsters, so you all will find she's glad you've plad a call. She's baking tarts, now, in the kitchen. Shortly she'll be through."

"Oh, gee," said Duncy, "Yum yum, yum! We all love tarts. Could we have some? We'll help the fair queen cook them, if you'll take us to her side."

"Ah, that's a good idea, son. I know that you'll have lots of fun." They shortly reached the kitchen. "Well, hello," the fair queen cried.

Then little Goldy said, "We wish to help you cook a dandy dish of tasty tarts. For doing it, we hope you'll give us some."

"Of course I will," replied the queen. "The finest tarts you've ever seen are made right in this kitchn. You'll be glad that you have come."

Soon, everyone was working hard in flour and water, salt and lard. And then the tarts were cut and placed in long rows, on a pan.

It didn't take them long to cook, and happy Dotty cried, "Oh, look!" They're nice and brown. Let's take them out, as quickly as we can."

They placed them on a table and, real shortly, Scouty saw a hand reach right in through a window. That's why he began to rave.

"Hey, somebody's taking our fine tarts. Let's catch him, lads, ere he departs. "I know him well," the queen exclaimed. "He is a pesky knave."

JUNE CITRUS SHIPMENTS UP; PRICES GOOD

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—June orange shipments to date have been 9 per cent heavier than the average of the past five years, and the market is still in very satisfactory condition, T. H. Powell, general sales manager, California Fruit Growers Exchange, reported at the weekly Exchange board meeting yesterday.

Summarizing the past Navel season, Powell stated that the Exchange Navel average was 31 cents ahead of 1933. Total orange shipments from all sources from January 1st to May 15th were 14 per cent greater than in 1933, and Exchange f. o. b. returns were 20 per cent greater. California shipped only 41 per cent of the total oranges during this period. The Exchange supplied 76 per cent of the California shipments and 30 per cent of the total.

Comparisons on loose fruit showed an increase of 75 per cent in return and 30 per cent in volume of fruit handled by the Exchange citrus distributing plant in Los Angeles. This business, including loose fruit sales at packing houses, equalled 1,432 cars of packed fruit.

Felton B. Browning, president of the Orange County Farm Bureau, and a prominent orange grower who had just returned from the East, reported checking prices on over 200 lots of fruit in 75 retail stores in southern and eastern markets.

"I wanted to learn first-hand about retail prices and margins, and am happy to say that I failed to find any out-of-line prices such as are often rumored among growers," he said.

"Another thing that I had never fully believed, but which is true, is that the jobbers and retailers don't like extremely low prices any better than we do," said Browning. "My trip left me more optimistic than I have been for years over the future of the orange business."

EXPECT DECISION ON TARIFF TREATY

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Southern California calavo-avocado growers may expect momentarily a climaxing decision by the Department of State, in Washington, announcing whether California and Florida growers are to receive any equality against the increasing imports of Cuban alligator pears into this country, according to wires to the Calavo Growers Exchange.

Through efforts of Phil D. Swing, legal counsel for the California growers, who is being employed by the Calavo Growers of California, the State Department recently granted California and Florida avocado growers and their representatives another hearing.

EXPONENT OF SINGLE TAX IS CLUB SPEAKER

Declaring there are but two sources of government revenue, either taxation upon the value of land, or the products of industry and enterprise, and that the value of land is the result of presence of population and not of the owner's efforts, Laurie J. Quimby of Los Angeles, single tax advocate, spoke on the Henry George proposed taxation system before the Santa Ana Lions club yesterday noon at James cafe.

It has been estimated that each resident of a community on the average creates an additional value of $1500 to real property in that community, the speaker said, and urged that this people-created value is the natural basis of taxation and creates a value that rightly belongs to the public, inasmuch as the land would be worth nothing were it not for the presence of people.

"The products of enterprise are always the result of human activity," Quimby said. "To tax these is a check upon production and distribution."

Decrying what he termed "our social stupidity," the speaker declared the present tax system, based on taxing enterprise and industry and the products of labor and capital, "deserves utter condemnation and destruction."

Quimby also attacked the present sales tax, which he termed double taxation.

New President In Chair

Yesterday's Lion meeting was the first to be presided over by Kenneth E. Morrison, recently installed president of the club, who asked members for their committee preferences and announced he would appoint committees in the near future.

Bruce Monroe was chairman of the day's program and introduced Mary Martin of Los Angeles, widely known soprano recently arrived in Southern California from the East where she sang in opera and on the radio, and who contemplates moving to Santa Ana. Miss Martin sang a group of three pleasing numbers, including an original Russian composition, accompanied at the piano by Inez Halloran.

Glen C. Griffin and C. W. Harrison were introduced as the latest new members and they, along with Carl Stein and Carlyle Dennis, other recent members, were received into the club with an appropriate talk by Past President Carson Smith.

Efficiency Club In Beach Picnic

Annual picnic of the Efficiency club of the Southern Counties Gas company was held Wednesday night on Balboa beach with about 300 club members and their wives attending the event.

Sandwiches, coffee and salad were served on the beach, after which the group attended a show and the dance. A large group from Pomona district were guests.

NEW MANAGER AT STROCK'S JEWELRY

Carl G. Strock, well-known jeweler, with offices at 112 East Fourth street, will leave in the near future for an extensive vacation trip to northern and eastern states, he announced today.

Harry Cutler of Orange has been secured to manage the Strock store, and will be assisted by his wife. There will be no change in the personnel of the store, it was learned. Strock has been identified with the jewelry business in Santa Ana since 1909.

CLUB ENTERTAINED

GARDEN GROVE, June 22.—Members of a neighborhood bridge club were entertained this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rosselot on West Chapman avenue. At the close of the games first prizes were awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyer. A yellow color scheme was carried out in the table appointments at the refreshment hour. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Wakeham, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Kearns and Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rosselot.

against all Road Hazards*

TO THE millions of satisfied users of Firestone Tires, this new guarantee will have no particular significance. They are familiar with the satisfaction, safety and care-free service given by Firestone Tires, which mean more than any written guarantees which lie behind them but to those who have never had the safe and satisfying experience of driving on Firestone Tires, we are announcing this all-inclusive guarantee in order that they may be assured beforehand of the satisfaction and safety which they will experience afterward.

The greatest guarantee of all is the time-established guarantee behind every Firestone Tire which comes from the unequalled performance records of Firestone Tires. The fact that every one of the thirty-three drivers at the Indianapolis Five Hundred Mile Sweepstakes chose and bought Firestone High Speed Tires, speaks for itself. Guarantees mean little to them. They must have the safety and protection in tires that actually guard their life. The greatest tire guarantee for you is the extra quality, strength, safety and dependability built into every Firestone Tire.

Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store in your community and equip your car with Firestone Tires today. Get the absolute protection of our guarantee for twelve months against all road hazards*, for life against all defects, and for safety, economy and greater service through the extra quality built into every Firestone Tire. Don't delay. You will save money at present prices, because crude rubber has advanced 442% and cotton 190%, and tire prices cannot remain at present low levels.

*When used in commercial service, these tires are guaranteed for six months.

JUNE CITRUS SHIPMENTS UP; PRICES GOOD

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—June orange shipments to date have been 9 per cent heavier than the average of the past five years, and the market is still in very satisfactory condition, T. H. Powell, general sales manager, California Fruit Growers Exchange, reported at the weekly Exchange board meeting yesterday.

Summarizing the past Navel season, Powell stated that the Exchange Navel average was 31 cents ahead of 1933. Total orange shipments from all sources from January 1st to May 15th were 14 per cent greater than in 1933, and Exchange f. o. b. returns were 20 per cent greater. California shipped only 41 per cent of the total oranges during this period. The Exchange supplied 76 per cent of the California shipments and 30 per cent of the total.

CYANIDE GAS FUMES MENACE TOLD CHIEFS

Twenty-five fire chiefs of Orange county met last night at the La Habra Masonic temple in their regular monthly meeting and heard J. J. Johnson, of the Pacific R. and H. Chemical company discuss hydro-cyanic acid which forms the deadly gas used extensively about the county for fumigation of citrus groves.

Johnson stated that about 75 per cent of those who work with the gas and are overcome, are those who have dealt with it for many years and have become careless in their operations. Contrary to the popular belief, this gas rises and does not follow the ground, and there is as much danger of death from the gas by absorption as from inhaling, he said. When a quantity becomes spilled, the best method of disposing of it at once, is to burn the gas, which burns with a low flame similar to the burning of alcohol, but care should be taken to advance from the windward side and holding the breath as approaching, light it with a match, he said.

He advised means of fighting a fire in a building in which tanks of the deadly gas may be stored, stating that if a steady flow of water can be played over the tanks and the temperature kept below 80 degrees, there is little danger of explosion. The gas is not stored in high pressure tanks he said. In closing he said that those having anything to do with the gas should ever be on the alert.

The meeting opened with a dinner served by the Wimo Dasi club of the La Habra O. E. S. Announcement of the Orange County Fireman's association meeting to be held in La Habra, early in July was made. The exact date and place is to be announced by Fire Chief Launer, of La Habra, later.

Complete Line Of G. E. Refrigerators Now At Horton's

With a complete line of all models of General Electric refrigerators in stock and prepared to make immediate delivery of any model, the J. C. Horton Furniture company is now county distributor for this electric appliance.

Lloyd Gowdy of the J. S. Horton appliance company is enthusiastic over the monitor top hermetically sealed refrigerator, and looks for a heavy movement of the machines during the next two months.

Speaking of the monitor top, Gowdy said, "All of my old conceptions about refrigerators lacked something, because when you come right down to it, there is no more reason why a modern, up-to-date General Electric refrigerator should have to look like an ice box in appearance than there would be for my insisting that my new 1934 automobile should be compelled to resemble the horse and buggy in appearance.

"The monitor top hermetically sealed mechanism is the finest and latest development by the General Electric company in the art of low cost and trouble free refrigeration. All working parts are contained within the hermetically sealed drum. They operate in a bath of oil, which means that one need never touch an oil can to a General Electrim monitor top refrigerator, and there is no chance whatsoever of this mechanism becoming affected by the action of dirt, dust, moisture or air."

CANDIDATE

N. E. West, below, of Laguna Beach, today announced his candidacy for supervisor from the fifth district subject to the August primaries.

HOLC BOND HOLDERS GIVEN EXTENSION

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Holders of 4 per cent bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation have until October 27, 1934, to exchange them for 3 per cent bonds of the corporation which are fully guaranteed both as to principal and interest by the United States government.

This information has just been received at the state headquarters of the corporation in Los Angeles in an announcement sent out from the federal board in Washington, which says:

"The Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 as amended on April 27, 1934, authorizes the corporation to extend the right to holders of the corporation's 4 per cent bonds, which are guaranteed by the United States as to interest only, to convert the same during a period of six months, up to and including October 27, 1934, for an equal face amount of the new series "A" 3 per cent bonds, guaranteed as to both principal and interest.

"The wording of the recent amendment to the act in this regard is permissive rather than mandatory."

WEST SEEKING POSITION ON COUNTY BOARD

Declaring himself in favor of reduced taxation, a position which he has consistently held for the past several years, N. E. West of Laguna Beach made formal announcement today of his candidacy for the office of supervisor of the fifth district at the August 28 primary election. He seeks the position on the board now held by George Jeffrey.

"My tax reduction program is no new front, put on for the purpose and duration of the election campaign," said West. "It is no disguise just for the purpose of getting votes. It reflects the long held conviction that taxes must be brought within the ability of the taxpayer to pay."

West has been active in tax reduction efforts for several years, and the tax committee of the coast association of which he is chairman has made a detailed study and analysis of the county government with a view to reduced tax burdens.

"These men, through their tax studies, have seen the ominous trend and have periodically presented requests for reduction of taxes and issued warnings of the disaster that threatened the taxpayers if such steps were not taken," said the announcement.

"Little heed has been paid to these diagnoses and warnings. Consequently West agreed with other members of the group that if real reductions in taxes were to be realized it would be necessary to have this fight for reduction made by officials of the tax-fixing group—the board of supervisors, and his candidacy followed."

West has been a resident of Southern California since 1916 and of Laguna Beach since 1921. As manager of the Yoch company, with extensive realty holdings at Laguna Beach, he has aided very substantially in the upbuilding of the city, and as a civic leader has been instrumental in bringing about many desired community developments.

Four of the first modern business buildings in the art colony were constructed under his direction, the bank building, bath house, lsch building and the Las Ondas cafe.

West assisted materially in securing right-of-way for the modern state highway from Laguna Beach to Doheny Park, reorganized the bank as a local owned institution, and organized the committee which conducted the incorporation of the city of Laguna Beach.

In December West was sent to Washington by the Laguna Beach city council to salvage the Arch Beach sewer project from a pigeonhole, and secured the PWA board's approval of the project, resulting in a government grant of $40,000 and the saving of $50,000 in interest.

Despite his strong stand against needless taxation, West has strongly supported the Arch Beach and Newport harbor projects, as well as many other beneficial undertakings, realizing that labor needs the jobs and the public needs the improvements.

West is a graduate of Harvard university, having received his M. A. degree in political science more than 20 years ago. He won the Adams-Woods scholarship and spent a second year in the Harvard graduate school in political science research.

Disturbing Peace Charges Dropped

Charged with disturbing the peace, Callie Qualls was found not guilty in justice court yesterday by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Qualls was charged with using indecent language and disturbing the peace in the presence of Rachel M. Beasley on May 24. Testimony was given by Rachel M. Beasley, Constance Stutts, Maude Wallace and Robert Wallace for the plaintiffs and Callie Qualls, Denver Hyder, Jessie Hyder, Jimmie Meaders, and Willard Coleman for the defense.

FILE PROTEST ON METHODS OF ADVERTISING

A protest against what is considered an unethical manner of advertising Long Beach merchants was lodged with the beach business men today by A. Cavalli, manager of the Merchants Division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Long Beach merchants, Cavalli said, have been sending a large truck with billboards on it through the streets of this city advertising a certain event.

When the driver of the truck was approached by the secretary-manager of the local Merchants Division, he stated that it was within his rights to drive around the streets of Santa Ana advertising Long Beach merchants.

This alleged right was opposed vigorously, Cavalli said, and with the aid of the police department, officers were notified to check up on the truck operation. The driver was told to keep out of Santa Ana and a letter was sent to the Long Beach Merchants association asking them to discontinue the practice.

"It is hoped that this action," Cavalli said, "will bring about more cordial relations and that the Long Beach merchants hereafter will refrain from entering this territory."

ANDERSON LEAVES FOR WEST POINT

WESTMINSTER, June 22.—With prospects of four years at West Point and four in army service, Charles Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Anderson, pioneer family of Westminster, left by stage from Los Angeles Thursday morning for New York to enter the U. S. Military academy as appointee of Congressman Collins, having won both the presidential and congressional recommendations this year for this district.

He is traveling with another appointee and they will be joined at Salt Lake City and at Denver, where they make stop overs, by others who go to West Point. The entire party will visit the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago enroute. They will reach West Point about July 1.

A weiner bake and beach party held Wednesday evening was the last of many parties held for him during the three weeks he has been at home since the close of West Point preparatory school at Ft. Scott, where he spent the past year.

BUDGET PREPARED BY LAGUNA COUNCIL

LAGUNA BEACH, June 22.—Budget figures now under consideration by the city fathers will contain an item of $12,000 for the old sanitary district, mostly comprising the business district and the Cliff's section, and another item of $7,000 for the new Arch Beach sewer project, inquiries at the city hall revealed today.

Of the first named figure, $3100 will be for operation and maintenance and $8900 for retirement of bonds and interest. The amount set aside for the Arch Beach sewer district will be used to meet maturing obligations coming due early next year, it was explained.

In the matter of maturing obligations charged against the Sleepy Hollow and the Broadway Improvement districts, the city is now taking steps to ascertain whether or not it is possible to effect an adjustment under provisions of the Sumner-Wilcox Municipal Debt Adjustment bill, passed by Congress and signed recently by President Roosevelt, further inquiries disclosed. In this connection it also was learned that the city council has asked the Pasadena corporation, a financial clearing house representing both bondholders and municipalities in the matter of adjusting claims, to make a survey of the local situation, providing, however, that no charge is made for such a service.

Court Notes

Charging cruelty, Ella Nordstrom has filed suit in superior court for divorce from her husband, Paul T. Nordstrom. The couple was married on June 24 in Santa Ana and was separated last Friday, the complaint said.

Seeking $21,000 damages for asserted failure to convey to him a five-acre oil and gas lease on property located in Rancho Canon de Santa Ana in return for property in Southgate, Eugene L. Graves has filed a civil action in superior court. The plaintiff and defendants, who are R. C. Quinn and the McQuinn Ridge Leasing company, had entered into an agreement for an exchange but the defendants refused to carry out the terms of the agreement, the complaint stated.

ART EELLS IN CONTEST FOR SHERIFF POST

"Service to, and protection for, every good citizen of Orange county" is promised in a statement issued today by Art Eells in announcing his candidacy for sheriff.

"Relentless war against every form of crime and criminal that endangers the people of the county will be his solemn duty," it continues. "War is no novelty to Art—he was in the thick of it, and his experience with the 91st Division in France and Belgium makes him thoroughly equipped for the war against crime in Orange county that society must always wage for the protection of children, homes and property. He was in St. Mihiel, the Meuse-Argonne battle, the Ypres-Lys offensive and suffered wounds in action.

"He knows how to organize an efficient army of law enforcement and how to direct it. He is experienced and skilled in local law enforcement, having been of the office force of former Sheriff C. E. Jackson, which he left for U. S. service in Europe and resumed when he returned. He was chief of police of Fullerton four years—and the record made there is open to all. He became chief criminal deputy for Sheriff Logan Jackson and for three and one-half years was available night and day to every need of any citizen. Finally advanced to under sheriff, he voluntarily retired last May.

"Born in Kansas, he has been a Californian for 25 years, and of Orange county, except while overseas in war. He is married, lives at 805 North Van Ness avenue, Santa Ana, has raised three children, and both home and office will always be cheerfully open to anyone needing help or guidance. He also states that no business relations, no social connection, no political entanglement will or can interfere with his duty of law enforcement in Orange county.

ASSOCIATED C. OF C. TO MEET TUESDAY

Next regular monthly meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County will be Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock in the Peacock Tavern, formerly the old country club house located on the bluffs overlooking Newport Harbor, it was announced today by George A. Raymer, Santa Ana, secretary.

The program will be in charge of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, Rayner announced. The secretary urged everyone to make reservations for the dinner meeting.

LIVING MAN BEGINS STAY IN BALBOA GRAVE

"Graves?" said Billy West, on the way down eight feet. "They don't worry me a bit!"

Stuntman Billy West was buried alive last night at 8 o'clock in Balboa, for a period estimated at from 18 days to a month, but generally believed to depend on the number of dimes paid to look down the chute.

Billed as a "stuntman extraordinary," West claimed from his new grave last night that "this stuff is pie for a guy that ain't scared." His last underground stay was of 65 days duration at Compton.

Several score spectators gathered around his temporary tomb on Washington street in Balboa last night as he was lowered with fitting ceremony into the eight-foot grave. Astonishingly enough, his first remarks from his interment were in the shape of a request to a Register reporter peering into the peep-hole for a Register to be sent to him daily. "I'll bet its's the first time one was ever delivered daily to a grave," he said.

Forty-five minutes after his burial, West held up a thermometer reading 88 for inspection, remarking that he expected it to go up to 100 daytimes.

LEAVE FOR MONTANA

BREA, June 22.—C. O. Harvey, principal of the Brea-Olinda Union High school, and Mrs. Harvey and Helen and Carl jr. have left for Montana, where they will visit with the families of two of his brothers, a third brother to join them there from Sioux Falls, S. D. Harvey has been granted a month's vacation from his duties at the high school.

NAME DWYER AS FEDERAL CONCILIATOR

J. J. Dwyer, prominent Anaheim rancher, late yesterday received formal notice of his appointment as Orange county debt conciliation commissioner.

The formal appointment was made by Judge William P. James, district federal judge of Los Angeles. Dwyer will take the position made vacant through the death of Lucien Flippen last Sunday.

Dwyer's appointment was recommended by the board of supervisors and officers of the Orange County Farm Bureau, as well as members of the Orange County Debt Adjustment committee, set up by appointment by the governor under the federal bankruptcy act.

At the same time, it was learned that the fee for each case handled by the debt commissioner has been increased from $10 to $25. Several other changes in rulings on procedure in adjusting debts were made.

Dwyer has not yet decided where he will have his offices, but yesterday afternoon he conferred with Farm Bureau officials concerning this and other matters.

Duties of the debt commissioner are to negotiate between persons in distress because of debts and those to whom they are indebted, in attempts to work out satisfactory agreements.

The new commissioner has lived west of Anaheim for about 40 years. He is a director of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, a member of the debt adjustment committee, a director of the First National bank of Anaheim, has been a director of the Anaheim Union Water company and at one time was mayor of Anaheim.

TWO NEW FILMS AT WEST COAST TODAY

Richard Barthelmess and Jean Muir are co-featured in "Modern Hero," an unusually dynamic picture, and "Finishing School," a dramatic comedy which exposes life in certain fashionable "finishing" schools for girls, which opens at the West Coast theater today, according to Manager Lester J. Fountain.

"Modern Hero" is a dramatic and colorful film based on the romance of a country girl for a glamorous circus rider who later becomes a captain of industry. The supporting cast includes Marjorie Rambeau, Verree Teasdale, Florence Eldridge, Dorothy Burgess, Hobart Cavanaugh and William Janney.

Frances Dee, Billie Burke, Ginger Rogers, Bruce Cabot, John Halliday, Beaulah Bondi, Sara Haden and Marjorie Lytell are among the popular players in "Finishing School." A late cartoon and a World News Events rounds out the program.

CYANIDE GAS FUMES MENACE TOLD CHIEFS

Twenty-five fire chiefs of Orange county met last night at the La Habra Masonic temple in their regular monthly meeting and heard J. J. Johnson, of the Pacific R. and H. Chemical company discuss hydro-cyanic acid which forms the deadly gas used extensively about the county for fumigation of citrus groves.

Johnson stated that about 75 per cent of those who work with the gas and are overcome, are those who have dealt with it for many years and have become careless in their operations. Contrary to the popular belief, this gas rises and does not follow the ground, and there is as much danger of death from the gas by absorption as from inhaling, he said. When a quantity becomes spilled, the best method of disposing of it at once, is to burn the gas, which burns with a low flame similar to the burning of alcohol, but care should be taken to advance from the windward side and holding the breath as approaching, light it with a match, he said.

He advised means of fighting a fire in a building in which tanks of the deadly gas may be stored, stating that if a steady flow of water can be played over the tanks and the temperature kept below 80 degrees, there is little danger of explosion. The gas is not stored in high pressure tanks he said. In closing he said that those having anything to do with the gas should ever be on the alert.

The meeting opened with a dinner served by the Wimo Dasi club of the La Habra O. E. S. Announcement of the Orange County Fireman's association meeting to be held in La Habra, early in July was made. The exact date and place is to be announced by Fire Chief Launer, of La Habra, later.

Complete Line Of G. E. Refrigerators Now At Horton's

With a complete line of all models of General Electric refrigerators in stock and prepared to make immediate delivery of any model, the J. C. Horton Furniture company is now county distributor for this electric appliance.

Lloyd Gowdy of the J. S. Horton appliance company is enthusiastic over the monitor top hermetically sealed refrigerator, and looks for a heavy movement of the machines during the next two months.

Speaking of the monitor top, Gowdy said, "All of my old conceptions about refrigerators lacked something, because when you come right down to it, there is no more reason why a modern, up-to-date General Electric refrigerator should have to look like an ice box in appearance than there would be for my insisting that my new 1934 automobile should be compelled to resemble the horse and buggy in appearance.

"The monitor top hermetically sealed mechanism is the finest and latest development by the General Electric company in the art of low cost and trouble free refrigeration. All working parts are contained within the hermetically sealed drum. They operate in a bath of oil, which means that one need never touch an oil can to a General Electrim monitor top refrigerator, and there is no chance whatsoever of this mechanism becoming affected by the action of dirt, dust, moisture or air."

CANDIDATE

N. E. West, below, of Laguna Beach, today announced his candidacy for supervisor from the fifth district subject to the August primaries.

HOLC BOND HOLDERS GIVEN EXTENSION

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Holders of 4 per cent bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation have until October 27, 1934, to exchange them for 3 per cent bonds of the corporation which are fully guaranteed both as to principal and interest by the United States government.

This information has just been received at the state headquarters of the corporation in Los Angeles in an announcement sent out from the federal board in Washington, which says:

"The Home Owners' Loan Act of 1933 as amended on April 27, 1934, authorizes the corporation to extend the right to holders of the corporation's 4 per cent bonds, which are guaranteed by the United States as to interest only, to convert the same during a period of six months, up to and including October 27, 1934, for an equal face amount of the new series "A" 3 per cent bonds, guaranteed as to both principal and interest.

"The wording of the recent amendment to the act in this regard is permissive rather than mandatory."

WEST SEEKING POSITION ON COUNTY BOARD

Declaring himself in favor of reduced taxation, a position which he has consistently held for the past several years, N. E. West of Laguna Beach made formal announcement today of his candidacy for the office of supervisor of the fifth district at the August 28 primary election. He seeks the position on the board now held by George Jeffrey.

Announcement Made of Couple's Plans For June Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Richards, 816 French street, today made formal announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Emalena Richards to Hugh Harris Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Anderson, 400 North Mentor, Pasadena.

The young people have named Saturday, June 30 as the date for their marriage. Since Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Stanford university he and his charming young fiancee will have the privilege of being married in Stanford Memorial chapel. Miss Richards has just returned from Palo Alto where she went to attend commencement ceremonies Monday, June 18 at which Mr. Anderson received his degree. She made the trip in company with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson, who has been with the American Trust company in Menlo, will be identified with the company's branch at Burlingame after July 10.

Miss Richards, talented violinist, is prominent in musical circles of the community. She followed graduation from Santa Ana High school with a year at Pasadena Junior college, completing her second year of college work in Santa Ana with the class of 1933.

The couple plan to make their home on the campus at Stanford university.

Announcements

Girls' Ebell society members who are to have an all-day meeting tomorrow in the Robert G. Tuthill summer home at Laguna Beach to conclude their year's club activities, are to telephone Miss Mary Lou McFarland, at 564, in case they wish to arrange for transportation to the beach. They are to have both lunch and picnic supper, so all are reminded to take contributions of food for the two meals, and also to take their individual needs in table service. During the afternoon they will hold a business meeting and elect officers to serve during the new club year.

American Legion Auxiliary Mothers' club will hold its June meeting Monday in Veterans' hall, with the customary covered dish luncheon at noon. A good attendance of members is expected to continue the sewing program of the group. The monthly meetings will continue through summer months, and July and August picnics and park parties will be discussed among other features of Monday's session.

Luncheon

Bread and Milk de luxe:
1 1-2 cups milk with cream taken off
2 slices whole wheat bread
1 very ripe apple
1 tsp. brown sugar

Calory value 425

Suppose the morning has been hot right from day break and you've done a full day's work by noon: would you feel like cooking a luncheon, or even going to the bother of making a salad and setting the table if only you were home to eat luncheon? I know you wouldn't, so that's why I am offering the type of luncheon listed today. The apple, by rights, should be an Early Transparent, dead ripe, and sliced with the peeling on.

Just put the bread, etc., in a cold bowl, get something to read and take yourself out on the shady porch or in the cool living room, and eat in peace and coolness.

Do you know that children love this kind of meal for supper? Hot nights especially. It should go great at the beach, too, but would need other things with it . . . maybe fruit and cake. (See today's cooky recipe . . . grand for picnics.)

TODAY'S RECIPES

Walnut Sheet Cookies

1 cup flour
2 cups brown sugar
1-2 tsp. soda
1-2 tsp. salt
2 cups walnut (or peanut) meats
1 tsp. vanilla
2 well beaten eggs

Sift flour once before measuring. Add soda, salt and flour and sift into the mixing bowl. To the sifted flour add the chopped nut meats and sugar and stir until well mixed. Beat the eggs in a separate bowl, add the vanilla, and use the eggs to mix the dry ingredients. The mixture will be rather crumbly, but that's all right, just smooth it into a shallow oiled pan and bake in a medium quick oven. While still hot, crease into strips with a knife, then sift some sugar over the hot top and let stand until cold, then cut, and store it—if you have any left to store.

Calories per strip of 1 by 3 inches: 125. Intensive energy and tissue building foods.

Clear Onion Soup

6 large mild onions, sliced thin
2 Tbsps. butter
Salt, pepper and a dash of sugar
2 quarts veal or chicken broth
6 slices thin toasted bread
Grated Parmesan cheese or dry Swiss cheese.

Peel and slice the onions, cook in butter very slowly until they take on a yellow tinge and become soft. Season them and add the broth. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat so that the soup will just simmer and let it cook for an hour.

Toast the bread, sprinkle with grated cheese and set back in the oven until the cheese melts and crusts on the bread. Put a few cheese squares in the bottom of each soup plate, fill plate with soup and pass more grated cheese for those who wish it.

This soup, while not extremely high in calory value, is sufficiently nourishing for the main dish of the meal. Each of the 6 portions has a value of 250 calories. Serve a crisp green salad and a fruit dessert with the soup.

Drill Team Takes Part In Farewell Party For Mrs. Post

American Legion Auxiliary drill team members took part in a farewell affair given this week in compliment to Mrs. Lee Post, 1615 West Tenth street, who left the following day for Conley, Okla., where she will spend the summer. She was accompanied by her son, Clifford Lee Post.

Mrs. Clay Minnix was hostess at the party, entertaining in her home, 530 South Garnsey street. During the evening guests wrote letters to be read by Mrs. Post when she makes stopovers at Albuquerque, N. M., and Fort Worth en route to Oklahoma. She also was showered with handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Minnix made use of small tables in serving refreshments. Her guests included Mrs. Post and Mesdames J. A. Anderson, Marion Goddard, D. M. Jellis, Russell Hardcastle, Fred Halber, Charles Leimer, Warren McCarthy, Raymond Marsile, Ira Mercier, William Penn, Willard Swarthout, George Sullivan, Robert Sandon, Evelyn Imhoff and the Misses Gladys Young and Pearl Christiansen.

YOU and Your Friends

Returning this week from Bakersfield, Mrs. H. A. Smith, 2397 North Flower street, announced the birth of a baby daughter, Flora May, to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Craig of Bakersfield. Mrs. Smith was accompanied north by her little granddaughter, Marguerite Craig who had been visiting in this city, and by Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Frazee, Miss Carol Smith and Mrs. P. R. Merryfield. Little Miss Marguerite Craig was happy to join her parents and see her new baby sister. The Frazees, Miss Smith and Mrs. Merryfield remained in the north for a short visit, while Mrs. Smith remained for an extended stay with her son-in-law and daughter. Mrs. Craig will be remembered as Miss Herma Smith, formerly of Santa Ana.

Miles Cruickshank arrived Tuesday from New York City to spend a two weeks' vacation with his parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank, and the Misses Constance and Marian Cruickshank, at the family home, Main street, Tustin. Letters which the family receives from the third daughter, Miss Josephine Cruickshank, are now especially interesting for their accounts of her experiences in England and France as a member of the Wightman Cup team. She had the privilege not only of playing but of practicing on the new inner court at Wimbledon, hitherto reserved only for tennis players in their third season at Wimbledon.

Dr. Zoe N. Bulpitt, 212 Buffalo street, returned home today from St. Joseph hospital, where she has been confined with a serious illness. She is reported making a nice improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krock, 1501 West Fifth street, had as guests early in the week Henry Pochert George Pochert and R. Van of Tacoma, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hoenshel, 701 South Garnsey street, are starting tomorrow morning on a summer motoring trip through the east. They will visit many friends and relatives, but will spend the greater part of the summer in the home of their son, Dr. Howard Hoenshel of Charleston, W. Va., research chemist for the DuPont company. They will be accompanied on the journey by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Kindy of Glendale H. E. Spick and family will occupy the Hoenshel home during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker, 511 West Third street, are entertaining as house guests Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Brown and their daughter and son, Beverly and C. J. Brown jr., of Kansas City, who have been spending the past week with Dr. Brown's relatives in Long Beach. Before the eastern visitors leave next week for their return trip to Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. Walker plan to show them various points of interest in Orange county and take them on a tour of the Hollywood studios. Mrs. Brown is a niece of Mrs. Walker, and Dr. Brown also has a Santa Ana cousin, Robert R. Schilling of Orange avenue.

Mrs. Lillian D. Pritchett, 1321 North Ross street, left this week by automobile for a summer visit in her childhood home, Durham, N. C. She was accompanied on the trip by Farris Glover, youthful Tennessean, who has been employed at the Bill Jones Service station, East First stret, and who will assist in the driving, and then visit his relatives before returning to Santa Ana.

Women Golfers Elect Officers Following Breakfast

Women golfers of Santa Ana Country club made ready for a new year of activity at the clubhouse where they held election of officers yesterday morning following a 9 o'clock breakfast. Honor guest at the enjoyable affair was Dr. G. C. Ross, country club president, and donor of the president's cup for which teams have contested. He made an interesting little talk as his contribution to the breakfast gayety.

Mrs. Charles V. Doty was elected as general chairman to succeed Mrs. J. LaMont McFadden, just completing a year in office. Mrs. McFadden was elected to serve as team captain, while other officers were Mrs. Hugh Shields, general tournament chairman; Mrs. L. H. Robinson, handicap chairman; Mrs. Ludy Shafer, Class B tournament chairman; Mrs. C. J. Cogan, class C. tournament chairman, and Mrs. Don L. Andrews, publicity chairman.

The 54-hole tournament launched three weeks ago, was concluded during the after breakfast round of the course. Miss Lolita Mead held low gross; Mrs. Gordon Talbert, low net, and Mrs. Don Andrews, second net, in class A. In class B, Mrs. N. W. Miller, Mrs. W. F. Kistinger and Mrs. Ludy Shafer held first, second and third net.

Thursday's main tournament was an 18-hole low ball foursome. The winning group was composed of Mesdames G. B. Talbert, H. W. Overmier, F. C. Drumm, L. W. Robbins. The second group of winners included Mrs. E. B. Van Meter, Miss Lolita Mead, Mrs. W. F. Kistinger and Mrs. L. J. Bushard.

Players present for the breakfast were Mesdames F. C. Drumm, L. H. Robinson, Norbert Lentz, Robert R. Lowe, Edgar Chapman, Ludy Shafer, N. W. Miller, B. W. McClure, H. W. Overmier, C. J. Cogan, J. L. McFadden, C. V. Doty, E. B. Van Meter, J. K. McDonald, L. W. Robbins, Hugh Shields, Harry Bakre, Edgar Wilson, A. M. Anderson, L. J. Bushard, Emil Kettler, Gordon Talbert and Miss Lolita Mead.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Joined by visitors from Los Angeles and Fullerton, members of Calumpit Auxiliary met Tuesday evening in Knights of Columbus hall, with Mrs. Eleanor Shaw, president, in the chair. The charter was draped for Mrs. Mary Cruzon of Northern California, past department president.

Plans were furthered for a dinner to be held next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the hall as a compliment to Mrs. May Glaze, department senior vice president. Special guests will include Ida Blakemore of San Fernando, department chaplain; Frank Ziegler of Los Angeles, department senior vice commander; Winifred Ketchum of Fresno, junior past department president, and others. A covered-dish dinner will be served, with a program to follow.

Announcement was made that the Auxiliary will join with the Mother Colony chapter Daughters of the G. A. R. in presenting Los Angeles Chief of Police Davis as speaker Thursday, June 28 at 7:30 p. m. in Anaheim Elks' hall. "Prevention of Crime" will be his topic.

V. F. W. Auxiliary

Ernest L. Kellogg auxiliary Sewing Circle met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Juanita Cozad, 1413 South Garnsey street. Members were busy with their needles during the afternoon, making plans for a bazaar to be held sometime in the fall. The hostess served refreshments.

Those present were Miss Charlene Kincaid and Mesdames Elzora Area, Eva Dusenberry, Anna McCleary, Edna Camm, Florence Perry, Lila Kincaid, Bell Catherman, Effie Hawley, Esther Hendrickson and Juanita Cozad.

Church Societies

Delta Alpha Class

Delta Alpha class members of First M. E. church met Monday night in one of the church social rooms, to discuss plans for coming class activities. The program for the next six months was outlined in detail, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served to the accompaniment of the many pansies, fuchsias and stocks arranged with artistry by the Misses Lily and Lena Confer.

Those present were the Misses Clara Barnes, Melissa Burt, Bertha Briney, Olive Briney, Lily Confer, Lena Confer, Irma DeBarr, Kezia Hay, Esther Henrickson, Virginia Johnston, Edna Knoll, Elizabeth Sherman, Laura Sherman, Beulah Stone, Maude Thomas, Alta Thomas, Minnie Wild and Mesdames Jessie Craig and L. Moore.

School Day Party

The balcony of Bowers' museum was arranged as an old time school room for the latest party held by members of First Baptist Women's Bible class.

Members attended wearing appropriate school day outfits, and carrying lunch pails whose toothsome contents were enjoyed in advance of other special features.

Miss Emily Cox presided as teacher for the afternoon, conducting lessons from old school books. The merriment reached its climax with a spelling match in which Mrs. Charles Baldwin was the victor.

Members present with Miss Cox were Mesdames Anna Peterman, Nancy Mullis, Mary Baird, Hortense Bureau, Josie Antisdel, Mary Havens, Rose Cole, Edna Aldrich, Effie Ward, Cora Walker, Helen Tarbell, Mary McAllister, Ella West, Ella Anderson and Ida Tripp. Guests were Mrs. Charles Baldwin, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Smith and granddaughter, Ruth Cooley, Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. May Waterman, Miss Darlie Hunton, Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, Mrs. C. M. Ward and children, Margie and Carl jr.

Northerner Concludes Pleasant Visit in This City

Leaving tonight for her home in Portland, Ore., after a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Walker, 401 East Bishop street, Miss Medeline Sparks will take with her memories of a week crowded with delightful courtesies planned by her hosts.

With Miss Sparks' arrival in this city several days ago, she and Mrs. Walker became reacquainted, for they had not seen each other since childhood days when they attended first grade together in Anaheim.

Mrs. Walker complimented her houseguest at an afternoon card party this week in her home, carrying out a black and white theme in all details, including tallies and score pads.

Guests spent the time playing 500, in which Miss Sparks scored high, Mrs. Albert Cranston and Mrs. Wilbert Bonney, second high and low. Prizes as well as their wrappings conformed to the chosen color motif.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a large table lighted with black tapers tied with white tulle and centered with a black vase of white blooms.

Mrs. Walker's guests included Miss Sparks and Mesdames Paul Dominguez, Haven Leavitt, Eugene Toelle, Earl Jackson, Virgil Paxton, Emma Hunton, Albert Cranston, Wilbert Bonney, Anaheim; A. H. Jamieson and G. M. Hunton, Santa Ana.

Other Events

The Walkers and their houseguest spent one doy in Hollywood. Early in the week guests in the Walker home included Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Craig and William Payne, Anahcim, Miss Dorothy Rose, Los Angeles, and Dean Millen, Santa Ana. Guests invited in the following evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Woodhead of La Verne and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hunton of Santa Ana.

Dinner guests Wednesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Walker were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mathis of Orange and Dean Millen. Thursday evening friends who came in to meet Miss Sparks were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirven of Anaheim. Dean Millen joined the group.

Party Marks Finish of First Year Piano Studies

Having completed her first year of piano studies under direction of Miss Taressa Koonce, little Miss Anna Marie Mustard was complimented at a party this week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Mustard, 2107 Rousselle street.

The early part of the evening was given over to a musical program by students of Miss Koonce. Part of the time was devoted to games. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Mustard, with assistance of Mrs. Byron Mustard and Mrs. E. R. Davidson. The honor guest received gifts including flowers and a cake bearing one candle. Her diploma came the day after the celebration.

Taking part in the event were Betty Trewett, Roberta Emmerson, Marian Zlaket, Verna Harvey, Clarence Harvey, Lola Marie Harman, Le Roy Harman, Velma Stroud, Betty Crawford, Doris June Mustard, Ann Louise Patton, Rose Marie Patton, Icycle Sieweke, Edith Sieweke, Sam Harman, Velda Vetter, Betty Starkey, Le Roy Starkey, Anna Marie Mustard, Jimmy Mustard, Earl Mustard, Elvira Armstrong, Jim Vroman, Christine Hansen.

Parents and friends present with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Mustard, were Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mustard, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trewett, Mrs. Vetter, Mrs. Will Sieweke, Mrs. C. Patton, Miss Mildred Vehr and Mrs. Athea Harman.

Trio's Plans for June Travels Occasion Pretty Affair

Three Santa Anans' plans for summer travels inspired a party given recently when Mrs. Corwin Frazee (Geraldine Smith) was hostess in her home, 212½ North Olive street.

Her honor guests were her sister, Miss Carol Smith, who leaves soon by automobile for Iowa and Illinois; Mrs. Helen McCollum, who sailed this week for an extended stay in San Francisco; Miss Loyce Waldren, who since the party has departed by bus for Winnebago, Minn., to spend the summer.

Indicative of the ways in which the three were to travel were invitations issued to the party, some bearing automobile designs, some boats and others busses.

The game of cootie was played during the evening, with prizes going to Miss Jeannette Roby and Miss Betty Niedergall, scoring first and second high.

The hostess served refreshments of strawberry mousse and coffee. Dahlias and marguerites were used in decorating.

Mrs. Frazee's guests included Mesdames Violet Plavan and Helen McCollum and the Misses Jeannette Roby, Betty Niedergall, Mary Alice White, Carol Smith, Lois Waldren, Velma Forrester and Mary Bowyer.

Baptists Attend Quilting Affair

BREA, June 22.—An all-day quilting party held at the ranch home of Mrs. E. L. Hodges, near La Habra, Thursday was attended by several members of the Baptist church and by visitors from La Habra. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon.

Those attending from Brea were the Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Blanchar; Mesdames Alice Allen, Perry Bales, Tom Howe, Sarah Howe, Luella Cox, W. W. King, Alice Stevens, Joe Smith, E. E. Hyder, Fannie Hatfield, Ida McDermott, Lora Schoff, Roy Monroe, Cora Stewart; the Misses Virginia Blanchar, Beverley Smith, Laverne Hodges, Lois Hodges, Martha and Keith Bales, all of Brea, and Mrs. Edna Bowman, Mrs. Carrie Sullivan and Miss Marjorie Bowman of La Habra.

ONE OF THOSE VERY SUBTLE SIMPLE FROCKS

PATTERN 1912

By ANNE ADAMS

You might think to look at it, that it would be difficult to wear—the silhouette is so simple. But haven't you overlooked the clever lines which the seaming traces on the figure? They are astonishingly grace-giving as well as very smart. On the bodice, buttons call attention to the side seams which carry the eye down to the long panel of the skirt and create an illusion of additional height and slenderness. The unbelted front waistline is extremely chic and the belt joined in the side seams fastens smartly in back. The back neck opening is the last word!

Pattern 1912 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

The smartest warm weather fashions, the newest fabrics, and the Summer season's outstanding accessories are illustrated and described in the NEW ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK FOR SUMMER. ORDER YOUR COPY OF THIS HELPFUL NEW SUMMER BOOK. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Announcement Made of Couple's Plans For June Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Richards, 816 French street, today made formal announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Emalena Richards to Hugh Harris Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Anderson, 400 North Mentor, Pasadena.

The young people have named Saturday, June 30 as the date for their marriage. Since Mr. Anderson is a graduate of Stanford university he and his charming young fiancee will have the privilege of being married in Stanford Memorial chapel. Miss Richards has just returned from Palo Alto where she went to attend commencement ceremonies Monday, June 18 at which Mr. Anderson received his degree. She made the trip in company with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Anderson.

Mr. Anderson, who has been with the American Trust company in Menlo, will be identified with the company's branch at Burlingame after July 10.

Miss Richards, talented violinist, is prominent in musical circles of the community. She followed graduation from Santa Ana High school with a year at Pasadena Junior college, completing her second year of college work in Santa Ana with the class of 1933.

The couple plan to make their home on the campus at Stanford university.

Announcements

Girls' Ebell society members who are to have an all-day meeting tomorrow in the Robert G. Tuthill summer home at Laguna Beach to conclude their year's club activities, are to telephone Miss Mary Lou McFarland, at 564, in case they wish to arrange for transportation to the beach. They are to have both lunch and picnic supper, so all are reminded to take contributions of food for the two meals, and also to take their individual needs in table service. During the afternoon they will hold a business meeting and elect officers to serve during the new club year.

American Legion Auxiliary Mothers' club will hold its June meeting Monday in Veterans' hall, with the customary covered dish luncheon at noon. A good attendance of members is expected to continue the sewing program of the group. The monthly meetings will continue through summer months, and July and August picnics and park parties will be discussed among other features of Monday's session.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Luncheon

Bread and Milk de luxe:
1 1-2 cups milk with cream taken off
2 slices whole wheat bread
1 very ripe apple
1 tsp. brown sugar

Calory value 425

Suppose the morning has been hot right from day break and you've done a full day's work by noon: would you feel like cooking a luncheon, or even going to the bother of making a salad and setting the table if only you were home to eat luncheon? I know you wouldn't, so that's why I am offering the type of luncheon listed today. The apple, by rights, should be an Early Transparent, dead ripe, and sliced with the peeling on.

Just put the bread, etc., in a cold bowl, get something to read and take yourself out on the shady porch or in the cool living room, and eat in peace and coolness.

Do you know that children love this kind of meal for supper? Hot nights especially. It should go great at the beach, too, but would need other things with it . . . maybe fruit and cake. (See today's cooky recipe . . . grand for picnics.)

TODAY'S RECIPES

Walnut Sheet Cookies

1 cup flour
2 cups brown sugar
1-2 tsp. soda
1-2 tsp. salt
2 cups walnut (or peanut) meats
1 tsp. vanilla
2 well beaten eggs

Sift flour once before measuring. Add soda, salt and flour and sift into the mixing bowl. To the sifted flour add the chopped nut meats and sugar and stir until well mixed. Beat the eggs in a separate bowl, add the vanilla, and use the eggs to mix the dry ingredients. The mixture will be rather crumbly, but that's all right, just smooth it into a shallow oiled pan and bake in a medium quick oven. While still hot, crease into strips with a knife, then sift some sugar over the hot top and let stand until cold, then cut, and store it—if you have any left to store.

Calories per strip of 1 by 3 inches: 125. Intensive energy and tissue building foods.

Clear Onion Soup

6 large mild onions, sliced thin
2 Tbsps. butter
Salt, pepper and a dash of sugar
2 quarts veal or chicken broth
6 slices thin toasted bread
Grated Parmesan cheese or dry Swiss cheese.

Peel and slice the onions, cook in butter very slowly until they take on a yellow tinge and become soft. Season them and add the broth. Bring to a boil, then reduce heat so that the soup will just simmer and let it cook for an hour.

Toast the bread, sprinkle with grated cheese and set back in the oven until the cheese melts and crusts on the bread. Put a few cheese squares in the bottom of each soup plate, fill plate with soup and pass more grated cheese for those who wish it.

This soup, while not extremely high in calory value, is sufficiently nourishing for the main dish of the meal. Each of the 6 portions has a value of 250 calories. Serve a crisp green salad and a fruit dessert with the soup.

Drill Team Takes Part In Farewell Party For Mrs. Post

American Legion Auxiliary drill team members took part in a farewell affair given this week in compliment to Mrs. Lee Post, 1615 West Tenth street, who left the following day for Conley, Okla., where she will spend the summer. She was accompanied by her son, Clifford Lee Post.

Mrs. Clay Minnix was hostess at the party, entertaining in her home, 530 South Garnsey street. During the evening guests wrote letters to be read by Mrs. Post when she makes stopovers at Albuquerque, N. M., and Fort Worth en route to Oklahoma. She also was showered with handkerchiefs.

Mrs. Minnix made use of small tables in serving refreshments. Her guests included Mrs. Post and Mesdames J. A. Anderson, Marion Goddard, D. M. Jellis, Russell Hardcastle, Fred Haiber, Charles Leimer, Warren McCarthy, Raymond Marsile, Ira Mercier, William Penn, Willard Swarthout, George Sullivan, Robert Sandon, Evelyn Imhoff and the Misses Gladys Young and Pearl Christiansen.

YOU and your friends

Returning this week from Bakersfield, Mrs. H. A. Smith, 2397 North Flower street, announced the birth of a baby daughter, Flora May, to her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Craig of Bakersfield. Mrs. Smith was accompanied north by her little granddaughter, Marguerite Craig who had been visiting in this city, and by Mr. and Mrs. Corwin Frazee, Miss Carol Smith and Mrs. P. R. Merryfield. Little Miss Marguerite Craig was happy to join her parents and see her new baby sister. The Frazees, Miss Smith and Mrs. Merryfield remained in the north for a short visit, while Mrs. Smith remained for an extended stay with her son-in-law and daughter. Mrs. Craig will be remembered as Miss Herma Smith, formerly of Santa Ana.

Miles Cruickshank arrived Tuesday from New York City to spend a two weeks' vacation with his parents and sisters, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cruickshank, and the Misses Constance and Marian Cruickshank, at the family home, Main street, Tustin. Letters which the family receives from the third daughter, Miss Josephine Cruickshank, are now especially interesting for their accounts of her experiences in England and France as a member of the Wightman Cup team. She had the privilege not only of playing but of practicing on the new inner court at Wimbledon, hitherto reserved only for tennis players in their third season at Wimbledon.

Dr. Zoe N. Bulpitt, 212 Buffalo street, returned home today from St. Joseph hospital, where she has been confined with a serious illness. She is reported making a nice improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krock, 1501 West Fifth street, had as guests early in the week Henry Pochert George Pochert and R. Van of Tacoma, Wash.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hoenshel, 701 South Garnsey street, are starting tomorrow morning on a summer motoring trip through the east. They will visit many friends and relatives, but will spend the greater part of the summer in the home of their son, Dr. Howard Hoenshel of Charleston, W. Va., research chemist for the DuPont company. They will be accompanied on the journey by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Kindy of Glendale H. E. Spick and family will occupy the Hoenshel home during the summer months.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker, 511 West Third street, are entertaining as house guests Dr. and Mrs. C. J. Brown and their daughter and son, Beverly and C. J. Brown jr., of Kansas City, who have been spending the past week with Dr. Brown's relatives in Long Beach. Before the eastern visitors leave next week for their return trip to Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. Walker plan to show them various points of interest in Orange county and take them on a tour of the Hollywood studios. Mrs. Brown is a niece of Mrs. Walker, and Dr. Brown also has a Santa Ana cousin, Robert R. Schilling of Orange avenue.

Mrs. Lillian D. Pritchett, 1321 North Ross street, left this week by automobile for a summer visit in her childhood home, Durham, N. C. She was accompanied on the trip by Farris Glover, youthful Tennessean, who has been employed at the Bill Jones Service station, East First stret, and who will assist in the driving, and then visit his relatives before returning to Santa Ana.

Women Golfers Elect Officers Following Breakfast

Women golfers of Santa Ana Country club made ready for a new year of activity at the clubhouse where they held election of officers yesterday morning following a 9 o'clock breakfast. Honor guest at the enjoyable affair was Dr. G. C. Ross, country club president, and donor of the president's cup for which teams have contested. He made an interesting little talk as his contribution to the breakfast gayety.

Mrs. Charles V. Doty was elected as general chairman to succeed Mrs. J. LaMont McFadden, just completing a year in office. Mrs. McFadden was elected to serve as team captain, while other officers were Mrs. Hugh Shields, general tournament chairman; Mrs. L. H. Robinson, handicap chairman; Mrs. Ludy Shafer, Class B tournament chairman; Mrs. C. J. Cogan, class C. tournament chairman, and Mrs. Don L. Andrews, publicity chairman.

The 54-hole tournament launched three weeks ago, was concluded during the after breakfast round of the course. Miss Lolita Mead held low gross; Mrs. Gordon Talbert, low net, and Mrs. Don Andrews, second net, in class A. In class B, Mrs. N. W. Miller, Mrs. W. F. Kistinger and Mrs. Ludy Shafer held first, second and third net.

Thursday's main tournament was an 18-hole low ball foursome. The winning group was composed of Mesdames G. B. Talbert, H. W. Overmier, F. C. Drumm, L. W. Robbins. The second group of winners included Mrs. E. B. Van Meter, Miss Lolita Mead, Mrs. W. F. Kistinger and Mrs. L. J. Bushard.

Players present for the breakfast were Mesdames F. C. Drumm, L. H. Robinson, Norbert Lentz, Robert R. Lowe, Edgar Chapman, Ludy Shafer, N. W. Miller, B. W. McClure, H. W. Overmier, C. J. Cogan, J. L. McFadden, C. V. Doty, E. B. Van Meter, J. K. McDonald, L. W. Robbins, Hugh Shields, Harry Bakre, Edgar Wilson, A. M. Anderson, L. J. Bushard, Emil Kettler, Gordon Talbert and Miss Lolita Mead.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Joined by visitors from Los Angeles and Fullerton, members of Calumpit Auxiliary met Tuesday evening in Knights of Columbus hall, with Mrs. Eleanor Shaw, president, in the chair. The charter was draped for Mrs. Mary Cruzon of Northern California, past department president.

Plans were furthered for a dinner to be held next Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the hall as a compliment to Mrs. May Glaze, department senior vice president. Special guests will include Ida Blakemore of San Fernando, department chaplain; Frank Ziegler of Los Angeles, department senior vice commander; Winifred Ketchum of Fresno, junior past department president, and others. A covered-dish dinner will be served, with a program to follow.

Announcement was made that the Auxiliary will join with the Mother Colony chapter Daughters of the G. A. R. in presenting Los Angeles Chief of Police Davis as speaker Thursday, June 28 at 7:30 p. m. in Anaheim Elks' hall. "Prevention of Crime" will be his topic.

V. F. W. Auxiliary

Ernest L. Kellogg auxiliary Sewing Circle met Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Juanita Cozad, 1413 South Garnsey street. Members were busy with their needles during the afternoon, making plans for a bazaar to be held sometime in the fall. The hostess served refreshments.

Those present were Miss Charlene Kincaid and Mesdames Elzora Area, Eva Dusenberry, Anna McCleary, Edna Camm, Florence Perry, Lila Kincaid, Bell Catherman, Effie Hawley, Esther Hendrickson and Juanita Cozad.

Past Noble Grands Plan Dinner For July

Torosa Past Noble Grands held a monthly covered-dish luncheon Thursday afternoon as guests in the home of Mrs. Laura Kesemann, 1322 Durant street. Many flowers were used in decorating for the pleasant occasion.

Mrs. Mary E. Cowley conducted the afternoon business session, during which plans were made for an open meeting to be held Thursday, July 19, at 6:30 p. m., in the home of Mrs. Maud Lentz, 1325 Grace street. Covered-dish dinner will be served, with all Torosa members and their families invited to attend.

Those present Thursday were Mesdames Bell Buck, Ida Carey, Blanche Chandler, Mary Cooper, Mary Cowley, Laura Kesemann, Edna Kinsella, Maud Lentz, Martha McKee, Lucille Rathbone, Ada Spencer, Laura Tramel, Carrie E. Topie, Jean Tremble, Janice Turner and daughter, Corrinne, Mary Watkins and Edith Wilson.

Church Societies

Delta Alpha Class

Delta Alpha class members of First M. E. church met Monday night in one of the church social rooms, to discuss plans for coming class activities. The program for the next six months was outlined in detail, after which a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served to the accompaniment of the many pansies, fuchsias and stocks arranged with artistry by the Misses Lily and Lena Confer.

Those present were the Misses Clara Barnes, Melissa Burt, Bertha Briney, Olive Briney, Lily Confer, Lena Confer, Irma DeBarr, Kezia Hay, Esther Henrickson, Virginia Johnston, Edna Knoll, Elizabeth Sherman, Laura Sherman, Beulah Stone, Maude Thomas, Alta Thomas, Minnie Wild and Mesdames Jessie Craig and L. Moore.

School Day Party

The balcony of Bowers' museum was arranged as an old time school room for the latest party held by members of First Baptist Women's Bible class.

Members attended wearing appropriate school day outfits, and carrying lunch pails whose toothsome contents were enjoyed in advance of other special features.

Miss Emily Cox presided as teacher for the afternoon, conducting lessons from old school books. The merriment reached its climax with a spelling match in which Mrs. Charles Baldwin was the victor.

Members present with Miss Cox were Mesdames Anna Peterman, Nancy Mullis, Mary Baird, Hortense Bureau, Josie Antisdel, Mary Havens, Rose Cole, Edna Aldrich, Effie Ward, Cora Walker, Helen Tarbell, Mary McAllister, Ella West, Ella Anderson and Ida Tripp. Guests were Mrs. Charles Baldwin, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. Smith and granddaughter, Ruth Cooley, Mrs. Sanford, Mrs. May Waterman, Miss Darlie Hunton, Mrs. Felix Aubuchon, Mrs. C. M. Ward and children, Margie and Carl jr.

Northerner Concludes Pleasant Visit in This City

Leaving tonight for her home in Portland, Ore., after a visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Walker, 401 East Bishop street, Miss Medeline Sparks will take with her memories of a week crowded with delightful courtesies planned by her hosts.

With Miss Sparks' arrival in this city several days ago, she and Mrs. Walker became reacquainted, for they had not seen each other since childhood days when they attended first grade together in Anaheim.

Mrs. Walker complimented her houseguest at an afternoon card party this week in her home, carrying out a black and white theme in all details, including tallies and score pads.

Guests spent the time playing 500, in which Miss Sparks scored high, Mrs. Albert Cranston and Mrs. Wilbert Bonney, second high and low. Prizes as well as their wrappings conformed to the chosen color motif.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a large table lighted with black tapers tied with white tulle and centered with a black vase of white blooms.

Mrs. Walker's guests included Miss Sparks and Mesdames Paul Dominguez, Haven Leavitt, Eugene Toelle, Earl Jackson, Virgil Paxton, Emma Hunton, Albert Cranston, Wilbert Bonney, Anaheim; A. H. Jamieson and G. M. Hunton, Santa Ana.

Other Events

The Walkers and their houseguest spent one doy in Hollywood. Early in the week guests in the Walker home included Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert Craig and William Payne, Anaheim, Miss Dorothy Rose, Los Angeles, and Dean Millen, Santa Ana. Guests invited in the following evening were Mr. and Mrs. Ebert Woodhead of La Verne and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Hunton of Santa Ana.

Dinner guests Wednesday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Walker were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Mathis of Orange and Dean Millen. Thursday evening friends who came in to meet Miss Sparks were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kirven of Anaheim. Dean Millen joined the group.

Party Marks Finish of First Year Piano Studies

Having completed her first year of piano studies under direction of Miss Taressa Koonce, little Miss Anna Marie Mustard was complimented at a party this week in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Mustard, 2107 Rousselle street.

The early part of the evening was given over to a musical program by students of Miss Koonce. Part of the time was devoted to games. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served by Mrs. Mustard, with assistance of Mrs. Byron Mustard and Mrs. E. R. Davidson. The honor guest received gifts including flowers and a cake bearing one candle. Her diploma came the day after the celebration.

Taking part in the event were Betty Trewett, Roberta Emmerson, Marian Zlaket, Verna Harvey, Clarence Harvey, Lola Marie Harman, Le Roy Harman, Velma Stroud, Betty Crawford, Doris June Mustard, Ann Louise Patton, Rose Marie Patton, Icycle Sieweke, Edith Sieweke, Sam Harman, Velda Vetter, Betty Starkey, Le Roy Starkey, Anna Marie Mustard, Jimmy Mustard, Earl Mustard, Elvira Armstrong, Jim Vroman, Christine Hansen.

Parents and friends present with the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Mustard, were Mr. and Mrs. Byron Mustard, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Trewett, Mrs. Vetter, Mrs. Will Sieweke, Mrs. C. Patton, Miss Mildred Vehr and Mrs. Athea Harman.

Trio's Plans for June Travels Occasion Pretty Affair

Three Santa Anans' plans for summer travels inspired a party given recently when Mrs. Corwin Frazee (Geraldine Smith) was hostess in her home, 212½ North Olive street.

Her honor guests were her sister, Miss Carol Smith, who leaves soon by automobile for Iowa and Illinois; Mrs. Helen McCollum, who sailed this week for an extended stay in San Francisco; Miss Loyce Waldren, who since the party has departed by bus for Winnebago, Minn., to spend the summer.

Indicative of the ways in which the three were to travel were invitations issued to the party, some bearing automobile designs, some boats and others busses.

The game of cootie was played during the evening, with prizes going to Miss Jeannette Roby and Miss Betty Niedergall, scoring first and second high.

The hostess served refreshments of strawberry mousse and coffee. Dahlias and marguerites were used in decorating.

Mrs. Frazee's guests included Mesdames Violet Plavan and Helen McCollum and the Misses Jeannette Roby, Betty Niedergall, Mary Alice White, Carol Smith, Lois Waldren, Velma Forrester and Mary Bowyer.

Baptists Attend Quilting Affair

BREA, June 22.—An all-day quilting party held at the ranch home of Mrs. E. L. Hodges, near La Habra, Thursday was attended by several members of the Baptist church and by visitors from La Habra. A pot-luck dinner was served at noon.

Those attending from Brea were the Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Blanchar; Mesdames Alice Allen, Perry Bales, Tom Howe, Sarah Howe, Luella Cox, W. W. King, Alice Stevens, Joe Smith, E. E. Hyder, Fannie Hatfield, Ida McDermott, Lora Schoff, Roy Monroe, Cora Stewart; the Misses Virginia Blanchar, Beverley Smith, Laverne Hodges, Lois Hodges, Martha and Keith Bales, all of Brea, and Mrs. Edna Bowman, Mrs. Carrie Sullivan and Miss Marjorie Bowman of La Habra.

By ANNE ADAMS

You might think to look at it, that it would be difficult to wear—the silhouette is so simple. But haven't you overlooked the clever lines which the seaming traces on the figure? They are astonishingly grace-giving as well as very smart. On the bodice, buttons call attention to the side seams which carry the eye down to the long panel of the skirt and create an illusion of additional height and slenderness. The unbelted front waistline is extremely chic and the belt joined in the side seams fastens smartly in back. The back neck opening is the last word!

Pattern 1912 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

The smartest warm weather fashions, the newest fabrics, and the Summer season's outstanding accessories are illustrated and described in the NEW ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK FOR SUMMER. ORDER YOUR COPY OF THIS HELPFUL NEW SUMMER BOOK. PRICE OF BOOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BOOK AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERNA RAMSEY

The many radio listeners who have followed Alexander Woollcott as "The Town Crier" are eagerly awaiting his new book "While Rome Burns." This is his first book for six years. Six years ago he forsook his calling as our leading dramatic critic. Since then he has become even more widely known for his free lance writing and for his radio broadcasts.

Alexander Woollcott is today unique in the writing field. There is no phase of it that he has not made his own. He collects anecdotes and murder stories, he does portrait sketches of the people who interest him. His audience applauds these efforts even if the subjects sometimes do not. He travels to China, or Russia, or the Century of Progress, if he thinks they sound entertaining. He knows all sorts of people in all sorts of places. He writes of his rushing, many-sided life with wit and gusto. He is at once a first-class reporter, a great story teller, a fine writer, and one of the leading wits of our time.

This new book contains a generous selection of his best work. It is a rich and varied collection not only to read once, but to re-read and chuckle over. We read his famous murder stories in the section called "It May Be Human Gore." Well known and glamorous men and women are introduced to us in "Some Neighbors." There are also exciting accounts of his adventures in far places; anecdotes of his war days; notes on books and plays that are worth remembering; and some legendary tales that have been related for years but never so well as he retells them. His writings, now in permanent form, have been carefully arranged, annotated and enlarged with original captions by the author.

Many writers have been of late appraising American life in its social and political aspects. Religion, a significant and creative part of the life of any period, has received less discussion. Gaius Glenn Atkins in "Religion in Our Times" deals with the history of religion for the forty years from 1892 to 1932.

This is the first attempt to give order and perspective to the religious life of the past forty years. The author marks with exceptional clarity the sweeping changes which have taken place in the church. He shows the new methods that have been introduced into religious forces and old ideas in the realm of religious thinking. His book is populated with many great and interesting people. We are given a better idea of Dwight L. Moody, Phillips Brooks, John R. Mott, Mary Baker Eddy, Mrs. Anna Besant, Charles Taze Russell, Frank Buchman and many others. The events surrounding these people are shot through drama. The presentation is colorful and the narrative is enriched by the author's personal reminiscences of the scenes, characters, and incidents delineated.

A plain, concise book it indulges in no theological speculation, advocates no special dogma. It tells simply the story of leading men and movements in Protestant religion since the days of Moody. It cannot fail to give the reader a clearer idea of the mistakes and opportunities of religion in our time.

There have been many narratives of air adventures. The outstanding things about "Seaplane Solo" by Francis Chichester is the strangeness of the adventure itself and the extraordinary gift the airman has for vivid narration.

The adventure was to fly solo in a Moth from New Zealand to Norfolk Island, thence to Lord Howe Island, thence to Australia. In the first hop the problem was mainly one of navigation. The destination was a tiny island only a few miles long, isolated in the Pacific. The airman had to find that one small spot or perish.

In the second hop, to the same problem of navigation was added the danger of riding out a hurricane. The plane was wrecked. Here follows the longer and better part of the story. It is the extraordinary account of how after the wreck the author managed to rebuild his plane. He had practically no tools. He could not afford to secure all the needed parts by boat from Sydney. He had, however, the assistance of a charming group of islanders and the indomitable will to complete that flight on his own. His great feat is finally accomplished with a rebuilt sputtering engine that missed most of the way through storm and danger.

Such a flight, conducted without publicity and purely for the love of it, would be memorable even if the airman could not tell the story. But Mr. Chichester is not only an airman, he is also a sympathetic and exciting writer and his book is a most stirring adventure story.

MADISON JURY IS STILL OUT AT NOON

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Without a verdict after ten hours of deliberation, a jury of eight men and four women which holds the fate of Mrs. Nellie Mae Madison, accused of murdering her husband, Eric D. Madison, was taken to lunch today and ordered to return for further deliberations.

Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke said he would hold the jury in deliberation for at least two days if it continued in deadlock.

The sensational trial has been in progress for the past three weeks. Mrs. Madison denied that she slew her husband last March 24, and even insisted that he is now alive.

If You Suffer from the Heat!

If hot weather gets you, and if you feel tired, run down, and nervously upset when the thermometer begins to soar, probably you're eating wrong.

Wise eating is one secret of not minding the heat. Stop eating heavy breakfasts for a while. Try Shredded Wheat instead. Stop bolting a sandwich for lunch. Eat Shredded Wheat instead, with milk and fruit on the side. You'll be surprised at the difference it makes in your whole life.

Shredded Wheat is whole wheat—nothing added—nothing taken away. It contains the carbohydrates you need for energy; the proteins for tissue building; the mineral salts for bone structure; the vitamins that help you resist disease; and bran to keep you regular. Nature might have made a better food than wheat—but she didn't!

Eat plenty of Shredded Wheat this summer. It will pay you big dividends in health and happiness!

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

By VERNA RAMSEY

The many radio listeners who have followed Alexander Woollcott as "The Town Crier" are eagerly awaiting his new book "While Rome Burns." This is his first book for six years. Six years ago he forsook his calling as our leading dramatic critic. Since then he has become even more widely known for his free lance writing and for his radio broadcasts.

Alexander Woollcott is today unique in the writing field. There is no phase of it that he has not made his own. He collects anecdotes and murder stories, he does portrait sketches of the people who interest him. His audience applauds these efforts even if the subjects sometimes do not. He travels to China, or Russia, or the Century of Progress, if he thinks they sound entertaining. He knows all sorts of people in all sorts of places. He writes of his rushing, many-sided life with wit and gusto. He is at once a first-class reporter, a great story teller, a fine writer, and one of the leading wits of our time.

This new book contains a generous selection of his best work. It is a rich and varied collection not only to read once, but to re-read and chuckle over. We read his famous murder stories in the section called "It May Be Human Gore." Well known and glamorous men and women are introduced to us in "Some Neighbors." There are also exciting accounts of his adventures in far places; anecdotes of his war days; notes on books and plays that are worth remembering; and some legendary tales that have been related for years but never so well as he retells them. His writings, now in permanent form, have been carefully arranged, annotated and enlarged with original captions by the author.

Many writers have been of late appraising American life in its social and political aspects. Religion, a significant and creative part of the life of any period, has received less discussion. Gaius Glenn Atkins in "Religion in Our Times" deals with the history of religion for the forty years from 1892 to 1932.

This is the first attempt to give order and perspective to the religious life of the past forty years. The author marks with exceptional clarity the sweeping changes which have taken place in the church. He shows the new methods that have been introduced into religious forces and old ideas in the realm of religious thinking. His book is populated with many great and interesting people. We are given a better idea of Dwight L. Moody, Phillips Brooks, John R. Mott, Mary Baker Eddy, Mrs. Anna Besant, Charles Taze Russell, Frank Buchman and many others. The events surrounding these people are shot through drama. The presentation is colorful and the narrative is enriched by the author's personal reminiscences of the scenes, characters, and incidents delineated.

A plain, concise book it indulges in no theological speculation, advocates no special dogma. It tells simply the story of leading men and movements in Protestant religion since the days of Moody. It cannot fail to give the reader a clearer idea of the mistakes and opportunities of religion in our time.

There have been many narratives of air adventures. The outstanding things about "Seaplane Solo" by Francis Chichester is the strangeness of the adventure itself and the extraordinary gift the airman has for vivid narration.

The adventure was to fly solo in a Moth from New Zealand to Norfolk Island, thence to Lord Howe Island, thence to Australia. In the first hop the problem was mainly one of navigation. The destination was a tiny island only a few miles long, isolated in the Pacific. The airman had to find that one small spot or perish.

In the second hop, to the same problem of navigation was added the danger of riding out a hurricane. The plane was wrecked. Here follows the longer and better part of the story. It is the extraordinary account of how after the wreck the author managed to rebuild his plane. He had practically no tools. He could not afford to secure all the needed parts by boat from Sydney. He had, however, the assistance of a charming group of islanders and the indomitable will to complete that flight on his own. His great feat is finally accomplished with a rebuilt spluttering engine that missed most of the way through storm and danger.

Such a flight, conducted without publicity and purely for the love of it, would be memorable even if the airman could not tell the story. But Mr. Chichester is not only an airman, he is also a sympathetic and exciting writer and his book is a most stirring adventure story.

MADISON JURY IS STILL OUT AT NOON

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—(UP)—Without a verdict after ten hours of deliberation, a jury of eight men and four women which holds the fate of Mrs. Nellie Mae Madison, accused of murdering her husband, Eric D. Madison, was taken to lunch today and ordered to return for further deliberations.

Superior Judge Charles W. Fricke said he would hold the jury in deliberation for at least two days if it continued in deadlock.

The sensational trial has been in progress for the past three weeks. Mrs. Madison denied that she slew her husband last March 24, and even insisted that he is now alive.

If You Suffer from the Heat!

If hot weather gets you, and if you feel tired, run down, and nervously upset when the thermometer begins to soar, probably you're eating wrong.

Wise eating is one secret of not minding the heat. Stop eating heavy breakfasts for a while. Try Shredded Wheat instead. Stop bolting a sandwich for lunch. Eat Shredded Wheat instead, with milk and fruit on the side. You'll be surprised at the difference it makes in your whole life.

Shredded Wheat is whole wheat—nothing added—nothing taken away. It contains the carbohydrates you need for energy; the proteins for tissue building; the mineral salts for bone structure; the vitamins that help you resist disease; and bran to keep you regular. Nature might have made a better food than wheat—but she didn't!

Eat plenty of Shredded Wheat this summer. It will pay you big dividends in health and happiness!

SHE ATE ALL-BRAN TWELVE YEARS WITH FINE RESULTS

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Read this very enthusiastic letter:

"Something like eleven or twelve years ago, I began eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. When I started, it was called simply Kellogg's Bran, and I believe it was one of the first products of the kind on the market.

"My friends often laugh at my fondness for ALL-BRAN. It gives such a clean taste in the mouth, and I do not feel satisfied until I have had my ALL-BRAN.

"If the Kellogg Company should ever stop manufacturing ALL-BRAN, here is one who would be greatly disappointed."—Miss Amy Person, University Park, Iowa.

Science says that ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regularity. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. How much safer than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily for most types of constipation. For serious cases, try it three times daily. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Sold in the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Plays Presented By Laguna Group

LAGUNA BEACH, June 22.—Availing themselves of a new arrangement whereby for a small admission fee the general public is admitted to so called workshop plays of the Laguna Beach Community players, heretofore shown exclusively to members, a large number of residents and newly arrived summer guests attended the program staged at the Community playhouse Wednesday night.

According to Mrs. Flora Rankin, president of the Community club, the purpose behind the new rule of admitting the public to workshop plays, is to stimulate a community-wide interest in this form of activity as well as to add to revenues needed to meet financial requirements of the organization.

An outstanding feature of the program was a one-act play, "Spring Fancies," written and directed by Mrs. Ralph Frost jr., the cast of which consisted of Gloria Dupuis, Margaret MacKechnie, Sam Pierce and Isabelle Irwin. Another hit of the evening was a surprise feature, featuring an impromptu number, put on by Miss Percy Frazer, a young talented thespian of the Emerald bay district.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

LOS ANGELES POLICE CHIEF TO TALK HERE

ANAHEIM, June 22—Plans have been completed for a public mass meeting to be held the night of June 28 in the Elks club for the purpose of hearing an address by Chief of Police James E. Davis of Los Angeles. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock and seats will be available for 1000 people, according to Mrs. Victor Loly, regent of the D. A. R.

Chief Davis will talk on the subject "Treason From Within" which centers on crime prevention. He already has addressed large audiences at Yorba Linda and Orange where he was enthusiastically received. Thomas L. McFadden will be master of ceremonies and introduce the speaker according to present plans. The Anaheim Legion Drum Corps also will assist with the program.

The plan to bring Chief Davis to this city originally was sponsored by the Anaheim Mother Colony, Daughters of the American Revolution. Since the origination of the idea all other civic and patriotic organizations have given their enthusiastic support.

Groups now sponsoring the program with the D. A. R. are: Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, 20-30 Club, Business and Professional Women's club, Senior and Junior Ebell clubs, American Legion post No. 72 and Auxiliary, Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, Y. M. C. A., Girl Reserves, Y. L. L, Women's Relief Corps, Anaheim Council of Parent Teachers Association, Anaheim Police department, Orange County Daughters of United Confederate Veterans, United Spanish War Veterans of Foreign Wars, United Spanish War Veterans Auxiliary, Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

PARKING PROBLEM BEFORE MERCHANTS

ANAHEIM, June 22.—Merchants of Anaheim wil act individually to solve the parking problem, according to a decision reached yesterday at a meeting of the Merchants and Manufacturers association.

The organization has been attempting for some time to work out a program whereby employes of the various downtown business houses would park their automobiles at places other than on the principal business streets. It has been alleged that in the past traffic has been congested and shoppers have found it difficult to park their automobiles.

Merchants, members of the association, yesterday agreed to take personal responsibility for the employes of his store and arrange parking for their automobiles at some other point than on the business thoroughfares of the city.

JAP BERRY GROWERS ARE FOUND GUILTY

ANAHEIM, June 22.—T. Takada and S. Tanaka, Japanese berry growers from Stanton were found guilty and fined $50 each yesterday by Justice of the Peace Charles Kuchel on charges of violating Section 788 of the state agricultural code. In each case $40 of the fine was suspended and the growers paid the remainder.

The specific charges against the two men as filed by George Sloop, inspector for the state agriculture department, was that they packed small, unripe berries on the bottom of boxes offered for sale with a top covering of ripe, larger sized fruit.

to have Ernst Hanfstaengl—Hitler aide—come over for its reunion. Some members of the class worked angles to keep him away from Cambridge but their schemes missed fire.

Hiss classmates had nothing personal against "Hanfy"—who didn't know his arrival would cause such a furore until a friend warned him by shore-to-ship telephone—but the idea that someane might chuck a bomb at the Nazi visitor was no help to that carefree reunion spirit.

CRISIS

Local wits suggest one of the problems Mussolini and Hitler frowned over when they got together was the Baer menace. The new heavyweight champion has pnocked out both Carnera and Schmelling—and he's also a Jew. Such lese majeste would seem to call for castor oil at least. It's suggested that Baer would do well to stick around where the fleet is.

BOB AND JUD TO BE HEARD THIS EVENING

Many and varied are the problems confronting Dr. W. W. Webster, D. S. R. president, and Dr. A. A. Schleitzenheimer, D. E. E. secretary, in establishing the new enterprise, "The Business Consultants," as broadcast from KREG tonight at 6:45 by Bob and Jud. All the common difficulities encountered by any new business institution in getting under way are met and solved by the partners, as well as many arising only in their own peculiar line of work. "Settle all questions when you can; sidestep them when you can't," seems to be the motto of the two "doctors," and the naive manner in which the two slip out of every corner that threatens furnishes their listeners with many a chuckle.

In tonight's broadcast it is expected that Dr. Webster will have something to report to his less sophisticated partner and secretary, Dr. Schleitzenheimer, as to the outcome of his "big job" at the country club, where he was taken by a big shot with a new "driver" and where either 18 or 36 holes were to be "negotiated" at $1 a hole. The secretary is happily expecting that a nice little fee will accrue to the firm from President Webster's afternoon at the club. Will he be disappointed?

Those listening last Friday evening who heard the ingenious method used by the firm to obtain "authentic information" as to the best remedy for a dog with the mange will be interested in knowing that this week several more important problems are put up to the Consultants and answered satisfactorily—at least to the two "doctors"!

BARITONE TO SING FAVORITE NUMBERS

Presenting the voice of Reinald Werrenrath, one of the best-known baritones of the present day, Dr. Reed's Shoe Store of Santa Ana will offer a program of favorite, old songs in announcing their semi-annual sale event on KREG tonight at 6 o'clock.

The songs Werrenrath will sing need no introduction other than to announce their titles. They include "The Song Is Ended," "Gypsy Love Song," "Among My Souvenirs" and "Duna."

SALLY COE MUELLER ON KREG TONIGHT

Sally Coe Mueller, popular KREG concert violinist, brings another guest artist with her tonight during her program at 8 o'clock. Howard Davis will sing a duet and a solo number.

The program is as follows: "All for You," Bertrand Brown; "In the Garden of My Heart," Ernest R. Ball; "The Cry of Rachel," Mary Turner Salter; "An American Lullaby," Gladys Rich, and "Song of Love," Schubert.

KREG NOTES

"Why Crime Doesn't Pay" will be discussed by Chief of Detectives Joe Taylor during the civic broadcast from KREG tomorrow, starting at 1:30 p. m.

"Gandhi, the Father of India," titles this week's "Front Page Drama" broadcast from KREG tonight at 8:45.

It is an interesting dramatization of Nila Cram Cook's own story of her experiences in India, as a disciple of Gandhi. Being as close as she was to Gandhi, a most interesting story is assured. The cast will feature Nila Cram Cook herself.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

The most tuneful excerpts from two operettas by Caryll, "Pink Lady" and "Oh, Oh, Delphine," will be presented by the mixed quartet and Emil J. Polak's orchestra over an NBC network, including KFI, at 8 tonight, during the Caswell concert.

SATURDAY

The Dwyer Stakes, feature race of the spring meeting at Aqueduct, L. I., will be described by Thomas Bryan George, CBS turf expert, over the Columbia network, including KHJ, at 12 noon Saturday. KMTR is scheduled to broadcast the complete N. C. A. A. track meet at Los Angeles Saturday, beginning at 2 p. m. and continuing until completed.

Three events in the finals of the annual National Collegiate Athletic association's track and field meet at Los Angeles will be described over the Columbia network, including KHJ, from 3 to 3:30 Saturday. Three of the feature events expected to be run during the broadcast period are the half-mile run, the 120-yard hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

Jap Consul To Talk Over KREG Tonight

The Japanese Consul, Tomokazu Hori, will address KREG listeners during a CBS broadcast from the local station on "The Japanese-American Situation." The broadcast will start at 6:15 tonight.

California Broadcasting System officials are pleased and honored to have Mr. Hori speak to listeners upon this interesting subject, they said.

SISTERS TRIO IN DEBUT ON KREG TONIGHT

The Sherrill Sisters Trio makes its debut broadcast from KREG tonight at 7:30 with a group of their own arrangements of the most popular songs of the day.

"Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day," "The Beat of My Heart" and "Spin a Little Web of Dreams" will be offered during their initial program. Alice Whitton will be at the piano.

At present, the Sherrill Sisters Trio is scheduled only on Fridays and Mondays at the above time. Program officials will be pleased to receive comments on this new broadcast.

QUARTER MILE FEATURE RACE

iana State, Stanford and S. C. seemed so closely matched, the four points he would take for a fourth in this event might win for the host-team.

Under the NCAO scoring system, the first six places win points—10-8-6-4-2-1, respectively.

Jack Torrance, of Louisiana State, and Johnny Lyman, of Stanford, were favorites in the shot put since eaih has broken the world's record this spring. Torrance's best heave exceeded Lyman's so the Southerner was figured to win.

Southern California's hopes dropped a point with the scratching of Bob Lyon, Trojan star in the high hurdles. Lyon failed to return from a fishing trip in Mexican waters.

Esther Society Names Officers

COSTA MESA, June 22.—Miss Betty Lamberton was elected to the presidency of the Queen Esther society at a recent meeting of the group in the social hall of the Community church. Associated with her will be Miss Mary Conwell, vice president; Miss Miriam Brown, secretary; Miss Doris Gibson, treasurer; and Miss Joyce Dakin, corresponding secretary.

The evening's lesson from the missionary study book, "Today's Youth and Tomorrow's World," was given by Miss Dakin. Plans were made for a lawn party to be held on the lawn of the Conwell home on Avocado street, July 3. Refreshments were served.

Those at the meeting were Mrs. Mary Bennett, senior counsellor, and the Misses Joyce Dakin, Mildred Myrehn, Doris Gibson, Betty Lamberton, Marjorie Nickens, Miriam Brown, Mary Beth Conwell and Betty Dodge.

Report Given At Session of W.R.C.

COSTA MESA, June 22.—Mrs. Alice King, welfare chairman of J. N. Stiffler post No. 145 of the W. R. C., reported at Wednesday's meeting of the post in the social hall of the Community church that 22 sick calls and 14 social calls had been made by post members in the past month, that $4.50 in cash and clothing, 21 bouquets, and one funeral spray have been given out during the same period.

A short program was enjoyed. Announcement was made that as the next regular meeting time comes on the Fourth of July, the meeting will be postponed until July 18.

Those at the meeting were the Mesdames Etta Tead, Daisy Radabaugh, Clara Rollins, Loretta Pangle, Iva Coe, Estelle Miller, Ida Woods, Margaret Long, Myrna Whitney, Phoebe Mortimer, Cora Wethera ll, Alice King, and Alvyna Ober.

Arrange Talk On State's Missions

COSTA MESA, June 22.—Goss Grable will be the chief speaker at the Lions club meeting next Tuesday noon, it was announced today by George Ragan, program chairman, speaking on "Missions of California." At this week's meeting, each member present responded with a short talk on some topic of his own choosing. Mr. Ragan was in charge of the program.

Announcement was made that E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist, past president of the Orange County Lions' council, will install the newly elected officials of the local organization July 3. Henry Abrams will be inducted as president; Walter H. Foord, vice president and tail twister; C. B. Diehl, lion tamer, and Dr. C. G. Huston, secretary.

Officers Chosen By Mesa Society

COSTA MESA, June 22.—Mrs. H. B. McMurtry was re-elected president of the Community church Missionary society at a meeting held in the McMurtry home on Twentieth street Wednesday. Other officers elected to serve were, vice president, Mrs. E. A. Spaulding; treasurer, Mrs. Donald Gibson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. A. Randall; recording secretary, Mrs. James Gallagher; mite-box treasurer, Mrs. E. C. Pickering.

Members of the Queen Esther society and their counselor, Mrs. Mary Bennett, were guests for the afternoon. Vocal selections and readings were given by Queen Esther girls. Mrs. Randall and Mrs. Pickering were program directors. Light refreshments were served to over 20 people.

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, June 22.—(UP)—Wheat pursued an erratic price course today, finishing ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel higher when declines attracted a better commission house demand than in recent sessions. Coarse grains were in supply as a result of better crop conditions and corn closed ½ to ⅝ cent lower, while oats were off ½ to ¾ cent at the final gong.

BOB AND JUD TO BE HEARD THIS EVENING

Many and varied are the problems confronting Dr. W. W. Webster, D. S. R. president, and Dr. A. A. Schleitzenheimer, D. E. E. secretary, in establishing the new enterprise, "The Business Consultants," as broadcast from KREG tonight at 6:45 by Bob and Jud. All the common difficulties encountered by any new business institution in getting under way are met and solved by the partners, as well as many arising only in their own peculiar line of work. "Settle all questions when you can; sidestep them when you can't," seems to be the motto of the two "doctors," and the naive manner in which the two slip out of every corner that threatens furnishes their listeners with many a chuckle.

In tonight's broadcast it is expected that Dr. Webster will have something to report to his less sophisticated partner and secretary, Dr. Schleitzenheimer, as to the outcome of his "big job" at the country club, where he was taken by a big shot with a new "driver" and where either 18 or 36 holes were to be "negotiated" at $1 a hole. The secretary is happily expecting that a nice little fee will accrue to the firm from President Webster's afternoon at the club. Will he be disappointed?

Those listening last Friday evening who heard the ingenious method used by the firm to obtain "authentic information" as to the best remedy for a dog with the mange will be interested in knowing that this week several more important problems are put up to the Consultants and answered satisfactorily—at least to the two "doctors"!

BARITONE TO SING FAVORITE NUMBERS

Presenting the voice of Reinald Werrenrath, one of the best-known baritones of the present day, Dr. Reed's Shoe Store of Santa Ana will offer a program of favorite, old songs in announcing their semi-annual sale event on KREG tonight at 6 o'clock.

The songs Werrenrath will sing need no introduction other than to announce their titles. They include "The Song Is Ended," "Gypsy Love Song," "Among My Souvenirs" and "Duna."

SALLY COE MUELLER ON KREG TONIGHT

Sally Coe Mueller, popular KREG concert violinist, brings another guest artist with her tonight during her program at 8 o'clock. Howard Davis will sing a duet and a solo number.

The program is as follows: "All for You," Bertrand Brown; "In the Garden of My Heart," Ernest R. Ball; "The Cry of Rachel," Mary Turner Salter; "An American Lullaby," Gladys Rich, and "Song of Love," Schubert.

KREG NOTES

"Why Crime Doesn't Pay" will be discussed by Chief of Detectives Joe Taylor during the civic broadcast from KREG tomorrow, starting at 1:30 p. m.

"Gandhi, the Father of India," titles this week's "Front Page Drama" broadcast from KREG tonight at 8:45.

It is an interesting dramatization of Nila Cram Cook's own story of her experiences in India, as a disciple of Gandhi. Being as close as she was to Gandhi, a most interesting story is assured. The cast will feature Nila Cram Cook herself.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

The most tuneful excerpts from two operettas by Caryll, "Pink Lady" and "Oh, Oh, Delphine," will be presented by the mixed quartet and Emil J. Polak's orchestra over an NBC network, including KFI, at 8 tonight, during the Caswell concert.

SATURDAY

The Dwyer Stakes, feature race of the spring meeting at Aqueduct, L. I., will be described by Thomas Bryan George, CBS turf expert, over the Columbia network, including KHJ, at 12 noon Saturday. Three events in the finals of the annual National Collegiate Athletic association's track and field meet at Los Angeles will be described over the Columbia network, including KHJ, from 3 to 3:30 Saturday. Three of the feature events expected to be run during the broadcast period are the half-mile run, the 120-yard hurdles and the 220-yard dash.

Jap Consul To Talk Over KREG Tonight

The Japanese Consul, Tomokazu Hori, will address KREG listeners during a CBS broadcast from the local station on "The Japanese-American Situation." The broadcast will start at 6:15 tonight.

California Broadcasting System officials are pleased and honored to have Mr. Hori speak to listeners upon this interesting subject, they said.

SISTERS TRIO IN DEBUT ON KREG TONIGHT

The Sherrill Sisters Trio makes its debut broadcast from KREG tonight at 7:30 with a group of their own arrangements of the most popular songs of the day.

"Little Man, You've Had a Busy Day," "The Beat of My Heart" and "Spin a Little Web of Dreams" will be offered during their initial program. Alice Whitton will be at the piano.

At present, the Sherrill Sisters Trio is scheduled only on Fridays and Mondays at the above time. Program officials will be pleased to receive comments on this new broadcast.

iana State, Stanford and S. C. seemed so closely matched, the four points he would take for a fourth in this event might win for the host-team.

Under the NCAO scoring system, the first six places win points—10-8-6-4-2-1, respectively.

Jack Torrance, of Louisiana State, and Johnny Lyman, of Stanford, were favorites in the shot put since eaih has broken the world's record this spring. Torrance's best heave exceeded Lyman's so the Southerner was figured to win.

Southern California's hopes dropped a point with the scratching of Bob Lyon, Trojan star in the high hurdles. Lyon failed to return from a fishing trip in Mexican waters.

Rabbits—Under five pounds, live f.o.b. Los Angeles.....8c & 8½c

Live Poultry Comment

LOS ANGELES—The market tone was about steady with all prices unchanged. Offerings of broilers were no more than ample with heavy sizes in good demand. Colored fryers were unchanged with quality only fair. Leghorn hens moved underd slow demand with supplies ample; while a steady undertone prevailed on colored hens with local receipts very light.

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, June 22.—(UP)—Wheat pursued an erratic price course today, finishing ½ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel higher when declines attracted a better commission house demand than in recent sessions. Coarse grains were in supply as a result of better crop conditions and corn closed ½ to ⅞ cent lower, while oats were off ½ to ¾ cent at the final gong.

NRA MEMBER — WE DO OUR PART

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS

The colleges of the country have poured out their thousands of graduates once more upon a somewhat inhospitable world. Many of them have been told by commencement speakers that they are the coming leaders of the world. We hope they have not taken the advice too seriously. While there is always room at the top, the atmosphere there is too rare to accommodate many.

This year the prospects for the college graduates are very much more encouraging than they have been for a number of years. More jobs are available, and there is a spirit of hope that matters will continue to improve. Yet, most of them will have to begin at the bottom of the ladder. They will see any number of men and women who have not had their educational advantages fairly well started in a career, and getting larger salaries. They will be compelled to function in routine tasks for sometime before recognition will be given.

A man fresh from college has to prove his worth to society. He has a good foundation of culture. His mind has been equipped to face problems. But he is without any practical experience. One may learn the science of swimming, but until he gets into the water and tries himself out, he will know nothing of the art of swimming. The college graduate has learned the strokes. The next move is to make his strokes effective to breast the breakers of life.

It behooves the young graduate to be modest and humble. The world is not waiting for him with outstretched arms. The world is strangely indifferent and unmoved by degrees and academic honors. They are badges of respectability. They become badges of honor only when they produce something useful for the betterment and the happiness of mankind. This the college graduate ought to understand as he goes out into the world. Favors are not to be thrown into his lap. And even if they are, it is a question as to whether they will be of any use to him.

A college education may become a great asset to him who knows what to do with it. But the graduate who thinks that he belongs to a specially privileged group because of his education had better have another think. We have professional people to spare in all the professions. The higher business positions are pretty well crowded. It is a good plan for the college graduate to begin just where he is, with the determination to make good in the lower place. The surest promotion lies in faithfulness to the lesser task.

This is not the grandiloquent note of the commencement speaker. It is, however, the wiser counsel in the light of conditions and present-day opportunities. It is a big world, with room still left for the ambitious and the diligent. But place and power come only by hard and faithful work.

WALL STREET IS RESIGNED

Now that Wall Street knows the worst, its habitues are resigned. In fact, as they survey the Securities' act and the Stock Exchange act, they find that they are not so bad after all. They even believe that they can do business again at the old stand; and they presume that some things needed to be changed anyway, and they should have made the changes themselves long ago.

Then why did they not make the changes themselves? The answer is self-evident. There were big fellows operating on the stock exchange whom the officials did not dare to offend. As in all organizations, the questionable practices are carried on only by a few; but those few are powerful enough to hold down the larger number who have not the desire, and possibly not the power to do what the big fellows are doing. These latter are perfectly willing that the government should compel the big fellows to play the game squarely, but they feel that they have to sing in the chorus with the big soloists.

To realize for what large stakes the big fellows were playing, it is informing to read the article in the Current History for March by John W. Hestor on "The Blight of Holding Companies." Here, for example, are the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland, Ohio, coralling seven great railroad systems with an out-of-pocket investment with only .2 to 1.7 per cent of the investment involved.

The method is very simple, provided one has the daring and shrewdness to get away with it. An operating company is organized with a capital of $150,000,000—$50,000,000 in bonds, $50,000,000 in preferred stock, and $50,000,000 in common stock. $25,000,000 of the common stock will control. Then the holders of control, with their 50 per cent of the common stock, organize a holding company to control the operating company, and sell $10,000,000 in bonds, $10,000,000 in preferred stock, and $5,000,000 in common stock. Of the last they retain 51 per cent, or $2,500,000, which gives them control. Then they organize another holding company, and again issue bonds and stocks, $1,000,000 in bonds, $1,000,000 in preferred stock, and $500,000 in common stock. Of the common they retain 51 per cent; and thus by an investment of $250,000 they come into control of properties valued at $150,000,000.

This sort of thing is to be stopped by the new federal legislation. It will be seen that it affects only a few, so why should the mass of traders in securities on and off the stock exchange feel badly. They had to sing in the chorus, but now the chorus has been disbanded, and they have to sing no longer to support the cast of the few soloists.

A RE-DEAL IN PICTURES

The Catholic Bishop's committee on motion pictures is going to give the motion picture industry another chance to clean house for themselves. They have been misled, as the people were misled by the establishment of Will Hays, the deacon, as the motion picture czar of morals some years ago and as the club women were fooled by the establishment of a leader in their own organization in the Will Hays' organization to make contact between the club women and the moving picture organization to the end, so some of them believed for several years, that the moving picture industry would know what the women wanted and what they objected to. At times it has seemed the women were busier explaining the moving picture industry to the women than the women's viewpoint on pictures to the industry. For years, Will Hays has served as the smoke screen which has concealed the industry and confused the people who have undertaken from time to time to bring such pressure to bear as would improve the tone of the picture show.

Very apparently the Catholic church is now going to furnish censorship and theirs will be the responsibility for the quality of the shows in the future. They will be just as indecent as the joint censorship of the Catholic representatives on the board of censorship and Will Hays will permit.

It is to be hoped that some good will come of it all but in the light of the experience of other organizations who have been placated in the past, just as the Catholic Church organization has been placated now, we should be pardoned for our skepticism. The bishop's committee has taken upon itself a heavy responsibility—may they discharge it to greater effect than the churchman, Will Hays.

AUSTRALIA BREAKS UP GANGS

Australia enacted a law a few years ago making it a criminal offense to be seen in the company of a known criminal. The report is that it has decreased crime, and that it has broken up gangs of criminals.

Such a law might not be amiss in this country. Our laws inflict a penalty upon those who harbor a criminal who is a fugitive from justice. They also penalize those who are associated with another in a criminal act. But simply to be seen with a man who is a known criminal is not an offense under the law.

It is easy to be seen that such a law would very much reduce crime. It would make younger men cautious about being seen with known criminals, and thus becoming apprentices in crime. And it would make it easier for the police to break up gangs if it were generally known that the mere association with a criminal, even though no specific offense might be charged, rendered one liable to penalties.

Our laws conserve to an unusual degree the rights of the individual. In the light of marauding bandits and thugs, it is about time that society should get a break. It is a fair assumption that when a man associates with criminals he himself becomes a criminal in the making. Society has a right to prevent the making of criminals. And the Australian law appears to be a practical way of preventing the growth of the criminal class.

Those Pith Helmets

New York Herald Tribune

American tropical tramps would have been shocked to see how many pith helmets were worn at Boulder Dam last week, when the two-millionth cubic yard of concrete was laid with some ceremony. We have always been a little shy of this rational headgear of the British. A hard-boiled Yankee down there in the tropics would rather have sunstroke than accommodate himself to it. The Englishman, the British Colonial and many Americans can get away with it, and customs vary from port to port. But in many of the world's hot places the American who sports a cork hat runs the risk of much kidding—of being put down by his fellow nationals for a greenhorn or a playboy.

How to account, then, for the fact that pith helmets are worn by stalwart Americans in such an American stronghold as Nevada? Snappy haberdashers are not the only ones who feature them in Boulder City and Las Vegas; dashing young engineers, not the only ones who wear them. In the slop-shops that are the delight of working-stiffs on pay day, wood-butchers, doubly-uglies, miners and muckers and other stout fellows from the dam try them on; and many overcome an inborn resistance to this bally cork thing that enables Englishmen to go out in the noonday sun; find that it functions rather better than felt in the higher than tropical Summer heat at Public Work No. 1.

The majority of dam workers, though, wear an even more closely rationalized hat; a close fitting, light, well ventilated helmet of some exceedingly tough composition that will bounce off falling rocks or spilling concrete as the tin helmet in war time did the smaller fragments of anti-aircraft shrapnel. (Its shape is more like the French helmet than any other.) This hard-baked derby is a cross (functionally) between the tin hat and the pith helmet; well adapted for work where the sun's rays, perhaps, can strike as hard as a loosened piece of canyon wall. It is a hardy piece of millinery for hardy men.

Avoidable Burns

Riverside Daily Press

Burns are among the more frequent and serious accidents which occur to people in the supposed haven of home. At the American Medical association convention an exhibit was devoted to the subject. Statistics presented there showed that, over an eleven-year period, hot fluids (soup, water, coffee and so on) caused 54.6 per cent of the burns. Flames caused 20.5 per cent; fires started by playing with matches caused 8.3 per cent. Chemicals caused 6.3 per cent. Causes of the final 10.3 per cent were not classified.

Of the burns studied, 80.3 per cent could have been avoided by a little ordinary care. Only 8.93 per cent were declared unavoidable.

The purpose of assembling and quoting such figures, distressing as they may be, is to further the work of prevention. It should be possible to teach children the correct methods of handling necessary fire—in stoves, lamps, outdoors, and so on. Much has been done to protect school children from motor accidents by training them to exercise certain precautions. The same sort of safety—that provided by intelligent and unwavering carefulness—should reduce the number of unnecessary burns.

WHY FROGS ARE ALWAYS HUNGRY

In days of old the tiny flies
That sailed across the bogs
Were sometimes taken by surprise
By little greedy frogs.
The flies worked often late at night
And could not see their way,
And lacking any gleam of light
They fell an easy prey.

But once a fly who looked around
The countryside to view,
A tiny creeping glowworm found
Reflected in the dew,
And said to all his relatives
The fly-ese for "Hurray!
The light this little fellow gives
Will guide us on our way."

And when the evening sun was low
The flies left their abode,
Directed by a lambent glow
They knew the safest road,
And when the frogs searched here and there,
A hungry avid brood,
They had to go some otherwhere
To find a snack of food.

Today, when twiliht fills the skies
And dews begin to fall,
And you hear disappointed cries
Across the garden wall,
You'll know it is the hungry frogs,
In bayous, ponds and bays,
Who sit on mossy logs
And mourn their happier days.

THE ALTERNATIVE TO SOCIALISM

The Republican opposition to the Roosevelt regime seems set to fight it on the grounds that, by and large, it is moving in the direction of an increasing socialization of private enterprise.

Speaking as a Republican I wish the Republican opposition would think its problem out a bit more thoroughly.

I am as opposed as the most hide-bound standpatter in any party to a sweeping change from the basic American tradition of private enterprise to an all-embracing state in which politicians plan and dictate the lives and enterprise of the people.

But it is clear to me that the whole of the enterprise of this age of science, technology and power production must be socialized, in the sense that the policies dominating it must look first to making this mechanism of production and exchange serve the maximum needs of the millions.

It is only a question of who is to do the socializing.

Will private enterprise be wise enough to put its social function first or must the state step in to do an imperative job that private leadership has failed to do?

The short-sighted contingent in the Republican opposition seems willing to foster a feeling that any leadership that insists the national income must be more widely distributed and buying power spread more widely is asking private enterprise to sacrifice something to which it has a natural right.

Wiser heads know that to ask the leadership of the private enterprise of this age of power production to spread the national income as widely as possible is but asking private enterprise to take out an insurance policy for its own profit and its own survival.

No political opposition to a program of socialization by the state is sound unless to this opposition it adds positive plans for furthering a valid socialization through the policy of private initiative.

Our Children By Angelo Patri

DON'T TOUCH

It is true that positive teaching is best. It is also true that some negative teaching is essential. There are for example, a few rules that begin with Don't. Don't touch, is one of them. There are certain things that are not to be touched with safety and these must be recognized by parents, teachers and children if the children are to be preserved from harm.

Don't touch strange animals. Some children trustfully reach out to pat every passing dog. That is a dangerous gesture. All dogs are not to be trusted, and that is no reflection upon the dogs. Strangers make a dog nervous. Picking up or stroking a strange cat is another mistake. Let the cat alone until it comes to be petted. "Don't touch." The reason is obvious.

When children visit the Zoo they should be taught to keep their hands well away from the cages. "Don't touch any animal in the Zoo. Don't feed them or pet them. Look at them and keep your hands safe." Your own observation will make the necessity for that rule very plain.

Don't touch the flowers in the neighbors' gardens, in the parks, anywhere, unless you are invited to pick flowers by their owners. Don't Touch. When one remembers that it takes years to grow a blossom and seconds to pick and spoil it, the reason for that rule is evident.

Fire must be left alone. Don't touch the stove, the matches, the gas cocks. Don't poke sticks into a bonfire. Don't make any bonfires. Don't touch fire.

Don't touch the medicine cabinet. Wait until your mother or father comes and gives you what is necessary. Don't help yourself to medicine. Don't touch things in bottles until you know it is safe to do so, and that means when a grownup person says so.

This sounds like a long list of prohibitions. It can't be helped. There are a couple more I must add. Don't touch candy offered you by a stranger. Don't touch any drink offered you away from home unless your own father or mother says it is all right.

All mothers won't need all this list, but some mothers will need some items on it. A reminder is useful. A firm "Don't touch" instilled in the little ones may save serious trouble later on when the Don't Touch will not serve as a safeguard.

The adolescent children have to reason about what is told them, and they make no distinction between the undebatable and the debatable. About these points there can be no debate. If they are instilled before the age of reasoning sets in they hold always and their implications serve the adolescent children well in time of need.

I believe it is a mistake to try to explain these "Don'ts" to little children. Too many words drown the authority of the order. "Don't touch, it is dangerous," is enough. Let it stand at that and keep repeating it until it takes hold. This teaching frees a child from many an anxious moment, removes him from danger and acts as a safeguard during childhood when he runs free of parental guidance in hours of leisure.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

NRA MEMBER U.S.A. WE DO OUR PART

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENTS

The colleges of the country have poured out their thousands of graduates once more upon a somewhat inhospitable world. Many of them have been told by commencement speakers that they are the coming leaders of the world. We hope they have not taken the advice too seriously. While there is always room at the top, the atmosphere there is too rare to accommodate many.

This year the prospects for the college graduates are very much more encouraging than they have been for a number of years. More jobs are available, and there is a spirit of hope that matters will continue to improve. Yet, most of them will have to begin at the bottom of the ladder. They will see any number of men and women who have not had their educational advantages fairly well started in a career, and getting larger salaries. They will be compelled to function in routine tasks for sometime before recognition will be given.

A man fresh from college has to prove his worth to society. He has a good foundation of culture. His mind has been equipped to face problems. But he is without any practical experience. One may learn the science of swimming, but until he gets into the water and tries himself out, he will know nothing of the art of swimming. The college graduate has learned the strokes. The next move is to make his strokes effective to breast the breakers of life.

It behooves the young graduate to be modest and humble. The world is not waiting for him with outstretched arms. The world is strangely indifferent and unmoved by degrees and academic honors. They are badges of respectability. They become badges of honor only when they produce something useful for the betterment and the happiness of mankind. This the college graduate ought to understand as he goes out into the world. Favors are not to be thrown into his lap. And even if they are, it is a question as to whether they will be of any use to him.

A college education may become a great asset to him who knows what to do with it. But the graduate who thinks that he belongs to a specially privileged group because of his education had better have another think. We have professional people to spare in all the professions. The higher business positions are pretty well crowded. It is a good plan for the college graduate to begin just where he is, with the determination to make good in the lower place. The surest promotion lies in faithfulness to the lesser task.

This is not the grandiloquent note of the commencement speaker. It is, however, the wiser counsel in the light of conditions and present-day opportunities. It is a big world, with room still left for the ambitious and the diligent. But place and power come only by hard and faithful work.

WALL STREET IS RESIGNED

Now that Wall Street knows the worst, its habitues are resigned. In fact, as they survey the Securities' act and the Stock Exchange act, they find that they are not so bad after all. They even believe that they can do business again at the old stand; and they presume that some things needed to be changed anyway, and they should have made the changes themselves long ago.

Then why did they not make the changes themselves? The answer is self-evident. There were big fellows operating on the stock exchange whom the officials did not dare to offend. As in all organizations, the questionable practices are carried on only by a few; but those few are powerful enough to hold down the larger number who have not the desire, and possibly not the power to do what the big fellows are doing. These latter are perfectly willing that the government should compel the big fellows to play the game squarely, but they feel that they have to sing in the chorus with the big soloists.

To realize for what large stakes the big fellows were playing, it is informing to read the article in the Current History for March by John W. Hestor on "The Blight of Holding Companies." Here, for example, are the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland, Ohio, coralling seven great railroad systems with an out-of-pocket investment with only .2 to 1.7 per cent of the investment involved.

The method is very simple, provided one has the daring and shrewdness to get away with it. An operating company is organized with a capital of $150,000,000—$50,000,000 in bonds, $50,000,000 in preferred stock, and $50,000,000 in common stock. $25,000,000 of the common stock will control. Then the holders of control, with their 50 per cent of the common stock, organize a holding company to control the operating company, and sell $10,000,000 in bonds, $10,000,000 in preferred stock, and $5,000,000 in common stock. Of the last they retain 51 per cent, or $2,500,000, which gives them control. Then they organize another holding company, and again issue bonds and stocks, $1,000,000 in bonds, $1,000,000 in preferred stock, and $500,000 in common stock. Of the common they retain 51 per cent; and thus by an investment of $250,000 they come into control of properties valued at $150,000,000.

This sort of thing is to be stopped by the new federal legislation. It will be seen that it affects only a few, so why should the mass of traders in securities on and off the stock exchange feel badly. They had to sing in the chorus, but now the chorus has been disbanded, and they have to sing no longer to support the cast of the few soloists.

A RE-DEAL IN PICTURES

The Catholic Bishop's committee on motion pictures is going to give the motion picture industry another chance to clean house for themselves. They have been misled, as the people were misled by the establishment of Will Hays, the deacon, as the motion picture czar of morals some years ago and as the club women were fooled by the establishment of a leader in their own organization in the Will Hays' organization to make contact between the club women and the moving picture organization to the end, so some of them believed for several years, that the moving picture industry would know what the women wanted and what they objected to. At times it has seemed the women were busier explaining the moving picture industry to the women than the women's viewpoint on pictures to the industry. For years, Will Hays has served as the smoke screen which has concealed the industry and confused the people who have undertaken from time to time to bring such pressure to bear as would improve the tone of the picture show.

Very apparently the Catholic church is now going to furnish censorship and theirs will be the responsibility for the quality of the shows in the future. They will be just as indecent as the joint censorship of the Catholic representatives on the board of censorship and Will Hays will permit.

It is to be hoped that some good will come of it all but in the light of the experience of other organizations who have been placated in the past, just as the Catholic Church organization has been placated now, we should be pardoned for our skepticism. The bishop's committee has taken upon itself a heavy responsibility—may they discharge it to greater effect than the churchman, Will Hays.

AUSTRALIA BREAKS UP GANGS

Australia enacted a law a few years ago making it a criminal offense to be seen in the company of a known criminal. The report is that it has decreased crime, and that it has broken up gangs of criminals.

Such a law might not be amiss in this country. Our laws inflict a penalty upon those who harbor a criminal who is a fugitive from justice. They also penalize those who are associated with another in a criminal act. But simply to be seen with a man who is a known criminal is not an offense under the law.

It is easy to be seen that such a law would very much reduce crime. It would make younger men cautious about being seen with known criminals, and thus becoming apprentices in crime. And it would make it easier for the police to break up gangs if it were generally known that the mere association with a criminal, even though no specific offense might be charged, rendered one liable to penalties.

Our laws conserve to an unusual degree the rights of the individual. In the light of marauding bandits and thugs, it is about time that society should get a break. It is a fair assumption that when a man associates with criminals he himself becomes a criminal in the making. Society has a right to prevent the making of criminals. And the Australian law appears to be a practical way of preventing the growth of the criminal class.

Those Pith Helmets

New York Herald Tribune

American tropical tramps would have been shocked to see how many pith helmets were worn at Boulder Dam last week, when the two-millionth cubic yard of concrete was laid with some ceremony. We have always been a little shy of this rational headgear of the British. A hard-boiled Yankee down there in the tropics would rather have sunstroke than accommodate himself to it. The Englishman, the British Colonial and many Americans can get away with it, and customs vary from port to port. But in many of the world's hot places the American who sports a cork hat runs the risk of much kidding—of being put down by his fellow nationals for a greenhorn or a playboy.

How to account, then, for the fact that pith helmets are worn by stalwart Americans in such an American stronghold as Nevada? Snappy haberdashers are not the only ones who feature them in Boulder City and Las Vegas; dashing young engineers, not the only ones who wear them. In the slop-shops that are the delight of working-stiffs on pay day, wood-butchers, doubly-uglies, miners and muckers and other stout fellows from the dam try them on; and many overcome an inborn resistance to this bally cork thing that enables Englishmen to go out in the noonday sun; find that it functions rather better than felt in the higher than tropical Summer heat at Public Work No. 1.

The majority of dam workers, though, wear an even more closely rationalized hat; a close fitting, light, well ventilated helmet of some exceedingly tough composition that will bounce off falling rocks or spilling concrete as the tin helmet in war time did the smaller fragments of anti-aircraft shrapnel. (Its shape is more like the French helmet than any other.) This hard-baked derby is a cross (functionally) between the tin hat and the pith helmet; well adapted for work where the sun's rays, perhaps, can strike as hard as a loosened piece of canyon wall. It is a hardy piece of millinery for hardy men.

Avoidable Burns

Riverside Daily Press

Burns are among the more frequent and serious accidents which occur to people in the supposed haven of home. At the American Medical association convention an exhibit was devoted to the subject. Statistics presented there showed that, over an eleven-year period, hot fluids (soup, water, coffee and so on) caused 54.6 per cent of the burns. Flames caused 20.5 per cent; fires started by playing with matches caused 8.3 per cent. Chemicals caused 6.3 per cent. Causes of the final 10.3 per cent were not classified.

Will private enterprise be wise enough to put its social function first or must the state step in to do an imperative job that private leadership has failed to do?

The short-sighted contingent in the Republican opposition seems willing to foster a feeling that any leadership that insists the national income must be more widely distributed and buying power spread more widely is asking private enterprise to sacrifice something to which it has a natural right.

Wiser heads know that to ask the leadership of the private enterprise of this age of power production to spread the national income as widely as possible is but asking private enterprise to take out an insurance policy for its own profit and its own survival.

No political opposition to a program of socialization by the state is sound unless to this opposition it adds positive plans for furthering a valid socialization through the policy of private initiative.

Our Children

DON'T TOUCH

It is true that positive teaching is best. It is also true that some negative teaching is essential. There are for example, a few rules that begin with Don't. Don't touch, is one of them. There are certain things that are not to be touched with safety and these must be recognized by parents, teachers and children if the children are to be preserved from harm.

Don't touch strange animals. Some children trustfully reach out to pat every passing dog. That is a dangerous gesture. All dogs are not to be trusted, and that is no reflection upon the dogs. Strangers make a dog nervous. Picking up or stroking a strange cat is another mistake. Let the cat alone until it comes to be petted. "Don't touch." The reason is obvious.

When children visit the Zoo they should be taught to keep their hands well away from the cages. "Don't touch any animal in the Zoo. Don't feed them or pet them. Look at them and keep your hands safe." Your own observation will make the necessity for that rule very plain.

Don't touch the flowers in the neighbors' gardens, in the parks, anywhere, unless you are invited to pick flowers by their owners. Don't Touch. When one remembers that it takes years to grow a blossom and seconds to pick and spoil it, the reason for that rule is evident.

Fire must be left alone. Don't touch the stove, the matches, the gas cocks. Don't poke sticks into a bonfire. Don't make any bonfires. Don't touch fire.

Don't touch the medicine cabinet. Wait until your mother or father comes and gives you what is necessary. Don't help yourself to medicine. Don't touch things in bottles until you know it is safe to do so, and that means when a grownup person says so.

This sounds like a long list of prohibitions. It can't be helped. There are a couple more I must add. Don't touch candy offered you by a stranger. Don't touch any drink offered you away from home unless your own father or mother says it is all right.

All mothers won't need all this list, but some mothers will need some items on it. A reminder is useful. A firm "Don't touch" instilled in the little ones may save serious trouble later on when the Don't Touch will not serve as a safeguard.

The adolescent children have to reason about what is told them, and they make no distinction between the undebatable and the debatable. About these points there can be no debate. If they are instilled before the age of reasoning sets in they hold always and their implications serve the adolescent children well in time of need.

I believe it is a mistake to try to explain these "Don'ts" to little children. Too many words drown the authority of the order. "Don't touch, it is dangerous," is enough. Let it stand at that and keep repeating it until it takes hold. This teaching frees a child from many an anxious moment, removes him from danger and acts as a safeguard during childhood when he runs free of parental guidance in hours of leisure.
